COLLISION OF STEAMBOATS—LOSS OF STEAMBOAT NORTH CAROLINA

From J. Chapman Hughes Esq. of South Carolina, who reached this city yesterday evening in the Norfolk steamboat, we learn the particulars of a fearful collision which occured at sea on Saturday night last, between the steamboats Governor Dudley and North Carolina and which resulted in the loss of the latter boat, together with the passengers' baggage, and the U. S. Mails for the South. Providentially no lives were lost. These boats both belong to the Wilmington and Roanoke Railroad Company, and at the time of the collision, which took place at sea, about 60 miles south of Wilmington, the North Carolina was running towards Charleston with the Northern passengers and mails, while the Governor Dudley was on her way towards Wilmington.

The collision took place about one o'clock, A M of Saturday night last, on a beautiful starlight night, with a perfectly calm sea. Both boats were going at the rate of 12 or 14 miles an hour, and were seen by each other for a mile or two before they came together.—How they managed to run into each other is not known; the Captain of each boat was in his berth at the time—having stood his regular watch—and the mate of each had charge of his respective boat. In the collision which took place, the Governor Dudley's bow struck the North Carolina between the ladies' and gentlemen's cabin. The shock was terrible, and its violence may be inferred from the fact that in ten minutes after it took place the North Carolina had sunk to the waters edge.

The passengers of both boats were all in their berths at the time, and had barely time to escape with their lives. The great coolness and self possession manifested on the trying occasion by the Captain of each boat, were doubtless the means of preventing any loss of life. The small boats were immediately manned, and the passengers of the North Carolina all conveyed in safety to the Governor Dudley. In about ten minutes after every one was transferred to the latter, the North Carolina, then down to the water's edge, heeled over.

Among the passengers in the North Carolina were several members of Congres—one of whom, Gen Dawson of Georgia, lost fifteen thousand dollars in his trunk. Other passengers also lost considerable sums of money, and some were losers of their little all. The aggregate loss in money was large.

The Governor Dudley had a hole of about four feet square knocked in her bow, and at first leaked badly, but the aperture was in a measure closed with blankets, tarpaulins, &c. She laid by all night, and the next morning picked up two or three floating trunks, which were all that was saved from the North Carolina—every thing else having gone to the bottom in her.

The passengers of the N. Carolina were all taken back in the Dudley to Wilmington, and while on the way thither some of the passengers of the latter generously raised a subscription to aid those who had lost their all in the sunken boat.

The conduct of the captains of the boats is spoken of in the highest terms of praise by the passengers

Riot in Philadelphia.—The attempt to lay down a track of the Trenton Rail road through the district of Kensington, has been a source of great discontent to a portion of its inhabitants. Some months ago, it will be recollected, the workmen of the Company were compelled to desist from their labors on account of the violence manifested towards them, and a portion of the track was torn up and destroyed. The case was then carried to the legal tribunals, and recently the highest State Court affirmed the decision of the court below, that the Company had full right to lay down their Road. Under this decision the work was recommenced last week but what was done, during the day was torn up at night. The business of laying the rails, however, was again renewed under the protection of the Police when, on Monday, it was again suspended under the following circumstances;

From the Pennsylvanian.

The Rail Road Affair.—Yesterday, morning the workmen upon the Philadelphia and Trenton Rail-Road in the district of Kensington on Front street, near Master, gave up their labours in consequence of some intimidation from the citizens. About one o'clock they resumed their work at the suggestion of the police, who were on the ground, numbering between one and two hundred, at which time a serious affray took place, in which the police were completely routed, and many of them seriously injured. From what we can learn, the origin of the difficulties was as follows: A woman whose name we could not learn, was teasing one of the Sheriff's posse, who was somewhat intoxicated, and succeeded in getting his badge from his hat, and placed it round her body. This circumstance created a general excitement, when a universal row commenced in which the maces were used by the police, and paving stones by the populace, and many individuals were seriously hurt, among whom were Messers. Thornton, Hazlet, Wellington and Walters of the police; Thomas Jackson, John Roy, and a man by the name of Beck, among the citizens. An attack was made upon Mr. Paynter, one of the commissioners of the District, but he was not hurt. Several persons were arrested, and one of the police bound over for an assault and battery. At 6 o'clock a great concourse of people were on the ground, but all was quiet. The military were expected to be on the ground.

The complaint urged is, that the law was smuggled through the Legislature, and that it deprives people of their property, against their will, and without any equivalent. But still it is the law, and it has been affirmed by the highest judicial tribunal in the Commonwealth.

CHOLERA IN MISSISSIPPI.

Dreadful Fatality among the Slaves—The following story, says the St. Louis Pennant, is no sketch of fancy—we have responsible authority for its truth;

"A few weeks ago an extensive cotton planter in Mississippi, who owned about one hundred and fifty negroes, found the cholera had suddenly broken out among them, and raged most furiously—carrying off some ten or fifteen daily. The news travelled speedily amongst his neighbors, and no one had the temerity to go near the 'infected district,' for fear of the contagion! Every day a long line of rough board coffins was carried into the fields and deposited in the earth, while the citizens expressed the deepest sympathy for their unfortunate neighbor. At length they were nearly all gone, and the ruined planter sold his land and started for Texas, to commence the world anew. After several days had elapsed, however, several gentlemen suspecting that all was not right, caused a number of the coffins to be unearthed, and found that they contained—nothing. Deuce the bit of a negro was in any of them A few weeks afterwards accounts were received from Texas, stating that the "unfortunate gentleman" had purchased a splendid plantation there, and with the whole of his 150 negroes, was driving the cotton business at a great rate! The gentleman's creditors looked blank at each other, and the neighbors laughed heartily at the joke.

Indian Troubles.—The St. Louis Ere of the 21st states, on the authority of a gentleman who had just arrived from St. Peters, that a war party of the Sioux Indians (400 strong) had assembled, and taken up their march for the Chippewa grounds; and that about the same time an equal number of Chippewas had left their homes for the purpose of making war upon the Sioux. It was the general belief, that the battle would be a destructive one, as both parties entertain the most hostile feelings toward each other.

At the Democratic meeting in Philadelphia on the 4th of July, of the twenty Vice Presidents, not one was less than 79 years of age, and the oldest was on hundred and nine.

The Riots in Philadelphia.—We learn from the Philadelphia U. S. Gazette of yesterday that ten of the persons who participated in the riots at Kensington on Monday, have been arrested and held to bail. On Tuesday, bills of indictment were found against them, and the trials of two of the rioters took place. The testimony against them was direct and conclusive, and they were both found guilty.

Fire in Hagerstown.—A fire took place at Hagerstown on Sunday night, which consumed 10 or 12 buildings, including the offices of the Torchlight and the Herald of Freedom, the two Whig papers of that place.

Every Harrison man may not be an Abolitionist, but every Abolitionist is a Harrison man.

Right for Once.—"Pass the sub-treasury bill," said Mr. Wise, "and you re-elect Mr. Van Buren." Who doubts it? For once the whig orator was in the right. Mr. Van Buren will be re-elected.

Forty or fifty bills of indictment will be brought against Dr. Eldridge, the celebrated forger, now in prision in Philadelphia. He has never opened his lips since his incarceration.

The Directors of the U. S. Bank have voted not to declare a dividend at present. This is right. No Bank ought to pay a dividend, until it can pay its debts.

Casualty.—We are pained to learn that the son of Mr. William Coston, of this county, a lad twelve or fifteen years of age, was killed at the Sudlersville Camp Meeting, on Wednesday last. He was riding a horse to water, in company with others, when the horse became fractious and threw him against a tree with so much violence as to deprive him of life.—Q. A. Sentinel.

The Greatest Men were Mechanics and Farmers.—By David Paul Brown.—Who was it that shed the brightest lustre upon the vast science of astronomy? One David Rittenhouse, a native of Pennsylvania, who followed the plough. Who was it that tore the lightning from Heaven and the sceptre from tyrants? One Benjamin Franklin, a printer's boy, who protected himself from the inclemency of winter by exercise alone, and lived upon a single roll of bread a day. Who was it, when the veteran armies of Great Britian faltered and fled in the Indian war, safely conducted the retreat, and secured the remnant of the army, though he had "never set a squadron in the field, nor the division of a battle knew more than a spinster?" One George Washington, a Virginia planter. Who was it that shed the brightest halo around the brightest reign that the world ever knew, the reign of Elizabeth; the age of the Raleighs, the Bacons, the Sidneys? Why it was one Ben Johnson, a quondam apprentice to a bricklayer, and one Will Shakespeare, a peasant boy, shrewdly suspected of poaching upon his neighbor's deer Or, passing from astronomy and poetry to law, who was it rose from a low beginning to be Lord Chief Justice of England? One Charley Abbot, whose father was a barber. Who was it that rose to be Lord High Chancellor of England? One Jack Copely, whose father was an American painter. Who was it that became the brightest star in the judicial constellation of Great Britian? One Phil. Yorke, whose father no one knew.

Although I do not mean to say that there never was a great man among the wealthy, curled darlings of the nation, yet I do mean to say, and history sustains the assertion, that luxury and affluence are calculated to enfeeble the mind, and that those, therefore, who are great in despite of them would probably be much greater if removed from their influence. It is a well known fact among gentlemen of the turf, that blooded horses, which for years have been permitted to browse and cater on unbroken, irregular and mountainous pastures, have acquired a much greater muscular strength, in sportsman's phrase, better bottom, than those which are fed upon a level surface. The application of this, although a physical illustration, is not difficult. Men whose lives have been an uninterrupted course of difficulty, a perfect up-hill work, acquire in time a self-dependence and a self-sufficiency and promptitude in every emergency, which those who have been accustomed to stand for fame on their forefather's feet, or to lean for all pleasure upon another's breast, never have known and never can know.

DENTISTRY.

GEORGE W. HUMPHREYS,

OF VIRGINIA,

DENTAL SURGEON,

Invites the attention of the public to one of the most valuable improvements ever introduced to their notice, being an extremely simple mode of extracting Teeth, by which the patient is saved the greater part of the pain usually attendant on the ordinary mode of extracting, whilst its safety is so remarkable that no injury can be inflicted on the jaw bone or gums. The advertiser assures the public that he can extract teeth by this system, no matter if they be of the largest size or decayed fangs, with the application of one third the power ordinarily employed in such operations; and he invites the citizens of Easton and the surrounding country, to call and examine the proof in favor of what is here asserted.

He also offers his services to the public; as being in most cases, able to save entirely such decayed and aching teeth, as they now fear must be extracted. His success in soothing and finally saving many valuable teeth in an extensive practice in some of the principal Northern and Southern cities, has been so decided, that he invites the public to call, confident that he can, under his skill as a Dentist, be useful to them.

He will also cleanse, plug, and insert Teeth upon springs or fangs, on the most approved plan, and cure inflammation and soreness of the gums, giving them a healthy action which will improve the breath and taste.

For testimonials and prices for operating see bills which he will furnish.

☞ Having procured comfortable rooms at Mrs. Donovan's, he may be consulted at all hours of the day.

☞ He refers to Dr. T. Thomas and Dr. Sol. M. Jenkins.

☞ He will remain in Easton only a few days

CHEAPER THAN EVER!!

NEW ARRANGEMENT.

An appeal to the true Democracy.

On the first of August next, a new series of the Political Reformer will be commenced. It will be forwarded to subscribers in all parts of the Union, weekly, at the unprecedented low price of Twenty-Five Cents each, until the Presidential Election—five copies for One Dollar—twenty three copies for Five Dollars and a copy extra to the person who shall procure the Proprietor the money. It is thus enabled to offer it at the unusually cheap rate. It will continue, therefore, to advocate the pure principles of Jeffersonian Democracy, adhering to the old republican landmarks of our fathers with undeviating fidelity. No efforts will be spared in endeavouring to disabuse the public mind of the numerous perversions of our political opponents, & in presenting the calm, unbiased judgements of an intelligent people, those saving truths which alone can continue us on our upward and onward career of national glory.

The Reformer will steadily and zealously advocate the re-election of Martin Van Buren to the Presidency, and as zealously oppose the nomination of the imbecile, superannuated old man who has been put in nomination for that high office by the federal abolition whig party. The unparalleled low price at which it is proposed to be published, will enable all those whose means are limited to become patrons of the paper. Our democratic friends are earnestly requested to use their exertions in procuring subscribers, which they will please hand to their Post Masters, with the request that he should forward them to Washington City, or Portsmouth, Va. to Theophilus Fisk, editor and proprietor.
