Supper and Entertainment.

On Saturday evening, February 27th, Mr. and Mrs. Benton S. Hann, steward and stewardess of the Carroll County Alms House, entertained at supper, Miss Mary B. Shellman, and the young men of the Y. M. C. A., of Western Maryland College, who comprise what is known as the Alms House Committee, and who have charge of the Sunday afternoon services held at that institution. Mr. and Mrs. Hann not only are a great help to the committee in their work, but realized that much good is being accomplished by their labors amongst the inmates, took this very pleasant way of showing their appreciation of, and sympathy in the work. After supper a program was rendered consisting of vocal and instrumental music, and recitations, which were heartily enjoyed by a number of the inmates. Mr. and Mrs. Hann are the right people in the right place, and the County Commissioners and all interested in the welfare of our poor, are to be congratulated on having secured such kind and efficient managers, who realize that the Alms House is, in reality, a refuge and a home for our aged and afflicted poor. The young people returned to the College at nine o'clock, after spending a most delightful evening, and greatly encouraged in the good work they have undertaken.

His Fifth Birthday.

Mr. George Hering Armacost, teller of the Union National Bank of Westminster, though twenty-four years old has only had five birthdays and the last one occurred on Monday last, February 29th. There have been six quadrennial periods since his birth, but in the year 1900 February had but 28 days; hence he had but one return of the day of the month on which he was born in eight years. He celebrated it on Monday evening, at the home of his mother, Mrs. Virginia C. Armacost, a sister of Dr. J. W. Hering, corner West Main and Bond streets, this city, where he entertained, in a happy manner, a company of his young friends. It was a progressive novelty party, four different games having been carried forward at the same time. Among the objects on the table at which refreshments were served was a large birthday cake surrounded by five large and nineteen small candles, the large candles indicating the number of his birthdays, the small ones the years without birthdays and all, taken together, the age to which he had attained. Each of the guests was given a piece of the cake and also a small piece of candle. Those present were: Mrs. Virginia C. Armacost, Mrs. Margie G. Hering, Mrs. H. S. Roop, Misses Bessie O. and S. La Rue Herr, Henrietta Shreeve, Irene E. Woodward, Bessie and Bertha Roberts; Louise Hopper, of Baltimore; Evelyn J. Rinker, Mary Weaver, Henrietta and Isabel Roop, Bessie K. and Helen Armacost, Messrs. George H. Armacost, T. Will Mather, Frank Mather, Guy L. Fowler, Everett A. Hidey, Frank W. Armacost, Herbert F. Cover, Edgar Nusbaum, S. S. Wilson, Wm. Sheppard, Samuel E. Coe and James S. Baer, Jr.

Letter From Boston.

The following is a letter received from Miss Florence Ogg, (granddaughter of Mrs. E. J. Manahan) who since September has been a student at the Curry School of elocution, Boston, Mass:

106 CHANDLER ST., BOSTON.
FEB. 21, 1904.

DEAR MAMMA:—If one cannot get an education in younger days, here is the place to come. They go to school from six to sixty-six. We have a lady in our school who is nearly seventy.

Since my last letter to you I have visited a number of interesting places; Mt. Auburn cemetery comes first to my mind. I won't try to describe it; words fail me. Longfellow and Lowell are both buried there and the grave of the former is the simplest one in all that grand cemetery.

Yesterday several of us went to Cambridge to see the glass flowers, they are so natural one finds herself trying to catch their fragrance. In the building of Natural History we saw the skeleton of "Billy" a Boston horse that had served a term of twenty-five years on a street-car track and lived to be forty-two years old. Memorial hall is an interesting study with hundreds of old war flags many almost in shreds. I thought when I viewed them how Uncle Charlie Baile's eyes would have sparkled with enthusiasm could he have seen them.

I have often heard of New England's sunset, but never saw one in its full glory until last Sunday evening. I viewed it from Harvard bridge. The beauty of Boston Common, when once seen, can never be forgotten while memory lasts, and now clothed as it is in white garb, appears almost sublime.

My room mate and I each Sunday have visited a different church, I would like to tell you of the church with three pulpits and the preacher delivering a part of his sermon from each pulpit, but it would take too long. I guess Sallie and I must have tired of fancy churches so last Sunday we went to our own. The people must have known by our honest faces we were Methodists, for they gave us a welcome and when we told the preacher of our wanderings he said we were like the dove that flew from the ark.

I wonder how you are traveling in Maryland now. The people here have been enjoying good sleighing since Dec., with zero weather most of the time and often as much as 20° below. The weather suits me for I have never had better health. Lovingly,

FLORENCE.

Mr. James W. Greenholtz, whose illness we mentioned in our last, peacefully passed away at his home on North Main street on Friday evening last, at 6.05 o'clock, at the age of 74 years, 8 days. Mr. G. was a native of Carroll county, but with his parents moved to near Littlestown, Pa., where he grew to manhood and learned the carpenter trade. About 50 years ago his employer built several houses in this section from which time he became a resident of our town, for a number of years as a huckster. In after years as a Democrat he held the constableship of this district for some time, but of late years was affiliated with the Republican party. He was a kind husband, indulgent parent, noble hearted citizen and friend, who was always ready to help in time of need. He was alway alive to the best interests of his church, and during his weeks of sickness he was calm and reconciled to the will of Him who doeth all things well. His remains were laid away to rest on Monday last, in the family lot, Rev. S. M. Roeder officiating. He leaves a widow, two sons, Geo. W., of Baltimore, and John, of Hanover, two daughters, Mrs. J. W. Snyder, of our town, and Mrs. Clarence Jones, of Baltimore. Masenheimer & Bergman had charge of the funeral.

On Friday of last week Mr. Henry Yingling, on New street, took a bottle and tilted it to his lips, thinking it contained whiskey, but no sooner did it touch the lips than he found out his mistake, and to his horror, discovered it was carbolic acid. Dr. J. H. Sherman was summoned and after quite a time had him out of the danger line, since when he has been slowly improving.

The personal effects of Mr. Nelson B. Young were sold at public sale on Saturday at the home on York street.

State Organizer Ager and associates attended the meeting of our farmers in the I. O. O. F. Hall on Saturday afternoon last, and effected the organization of a grange. Jacob A. Frederick was elected Master, and Jacob B. Lynerd, secretary. A meeting will be held on Saturday, 5th inst., at the home of Mr. J. A. Frederick, on North Main street, to complete the organization and elect permanent officers.

The death and burial of Mrs. David Strimmel, last week, at the Sherman Church, Pa., excited general sympathy for an only son who lived with her at an out of the way home 4 miles north from here. When Undertaker Wink arrived with the casket there was no one at the home but the lone boy to watch over the remains of his mother.

Mrs. Thomas Shaffer, living a mile N. W. of town at the foot of Dug Hill, fell on Monday on the ice and broke both bones of the left leg between the knee and ankle. Dr. J. S. Zeigler was called and adjusted the fracture. Mrs. S. is a daughter of the late Ephraim Warehime, of this district.

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Hoffman gave a social to a number of their young friends on Saturday evening last. Games were indulged in, and ice cream and its accompanying dainties were served and proved a pleasant feature of the evening. Mrs. H. still feels the effects of her fall some weeks ago.

Mr. Wm. R. S. Benner, of Gettysburg College, was home for some days last week taking advantage of the indisposition of one of the professors with whom he has most of his work. He is in the Senior class and will graduate at the next commencement.

Mr. Austin H. Geiselman has been confined to his room for a week from an attack of grip that caused great suffering in his head.

The wind up of the firemen's fair and festival was held on Saturday evening. Some of the furniture in the enterprise was sold privately. The rattan suit, consisting of five large chairs and a divan, went to John Stick, of Hampstead, who held the lucky number in the drawing. The wholesale price of the suit was $36. The net receipts are $150, which, with the corporation income, will pay the interest and about $200 on the indebtedness on the building.

A number of our citizens were attracted by the bright light south from here on Saturday night about eleven o'clock which proved to be the burning of the barn at the home of Mr. Edward Gill, near Fairview, Baltimore county, in which 4 horses perished, 50 cows were rescued, but the loss in buildings and provender was about $4,000.

Dr. John F. B. Weaver was operated on Tuesday at the Johns Hopkins hospital. The operation lasting from 10 A. M. to 2 P. M. and required an incis ion at least a foot long. The surgeons found the liver, lungs and bowels, grown together, the separation of which continued the operation so long. He withstood the shock and rallied to consciousness after some hours. Dr. J. S. Zeigler, of Melrose, was present and witnessed the operation which he says was trying in the extreme, and all are anxiously awaiting its outcome. Seven gall stones were extracted, the largest about the size of a hutied walnut.

Mr. Bert Bubb, of Glen Rock, was in town, on Wednesday, looking hale and hearty. He is playing the part of a retired liverman in life's drama, having sold his full equipment several weeks ago.
