ROCK HALL NOTES.

Mosquitoes were never known to be so annoying on the Island and lower Neck as they are this season. Laborers have to wear netting over their heads to protect them as they work. One man however, Mr. G. T. Glenn, is immune, he seems oblivious of the presence of the pests.

Most of our farmers are through plowing fallow. Many intend to put in a large tillage of wheat, those who have held on to this years crop are wearing the broadest of smiles because of the dollar mark in price of wheat and are still holding on in hopes of still higher prices. Those who sold their crop without compulsion to do so would like to find a convenient place to give themselves a booting.

Mr. Wm. G. Hindes has tired of shacking and has moved to his home property in Allen's Lane. His daughter Miss Maggie is house keeping for him.

Mr. Newton Downey who recently took an apprenticeship in Howard's Shaving parlor is fast becoming an expert, his chair is eagerly sought by the patrons.

South R. H. has a resident Fortune Teller recently moved here from the city. She is having such brilliant scenes as T. R. Brown could dream of but never realize. Daily her domicile is crowded with young people seeking to know all about their future. They come from far and near.

J. W. Boyer is one of the representatives of the P. O. S. of A. of this place at the convention in Hancock, Md., this week.

Leary's basket department is in full operation again this week.

The P. O. S. of A. camp was much enlivened on Friday evening by the presence of Mr. James H. Marine, a prominent member of the State Camp.
