"The Toy Shop," a spectacular entertainment will be given in Comegys Hall tonight for the benefit of Millington High School. The scene represents a toy man's dream. The shop is visited by the fairy, Bright Eyes, who endows them with life for one hour, during which time their merry, high carnival, even Jack-in-the-Box is brought to life. The entertainment, while spectacular, bristles with interest and humor and there is not a dull feature the entire evening.

AVIATOR OF NAVY KILLED

Ensign W. D. Billingsley Falls 1,200 Feet—Drops Into The Bay.

Annapolis, Md., June 20.—Ensign William D. Billingsley, of the Navy Aviation Corps, fell from a Wright hydro-aeroplane at a height of 1,200 feet near Kent Island this morning and was killed. Lieut. J. H. Towers, the ranking officer of the aviation camp, who was also in the machine, managed to keep his hold when a puff of wind caught the rear at an altitude of 1,600 feet and had a miraculous escape. He held on until the water was struck, and then, when his grip was broken, managed to swim back and fasten himself to the framework until assistance came.

The accident is the first serious one which has taken place among navy aviators here, and that today's did not result in the loss of two lives is due to the fortunate chance that the puff of wind did not come until after Kent Island had been passed. The machine had been down to St. Michaels and was on its way back. It had sailed over Kent Island just four minutes before, and if the drop had occurred then both would have been killed. Lieutenant Towers' first words when he was picked up were that he owed his life to this chance.

These are the aviators who made such a brilliant flight to Chestertown.

Hicks' Forecasts For July.

The Vulcan regular storm period is central on the 1st, covering the last two days of June, and first four days in July. The Moon is in conjunction with Earth and Sun on the 4th, causing it to appear very far up in north declination. The Mercury and Venus equinoctial periods will be in full strength, and intensified by the dominating power of the Jupiter period. The first solstitial period for July is central on the 4th, extending from the 1st to the 7th. Its effects will fall notably on and touching the 5th and 6th. An inrush of cooler air will come with the rising barometer from the northwest, on the western sides of these storms, giving temporary relief from summer heat for a day or two following.

A reactionary storm period will develop and run its course from west to east during the 6th, 7th, 8th and 9th. The Moon in perigee on the 6th and on the celestial equator on the 9th, will cause this period to hold on and be prolonged beyond its normal limitations. A climax of summer heat, culminating in startling gusts of wind, thunder, rain and hail will in all probability visit wide sections on and touching the 8th, after which look for sudden drop in temperature over most parts of the country.

A regular storm period extends from the 11th to the 16th. The center of the Venus period falls on the 14th, the culminating day of this regular storm period. The Moon will be at same declination south on the 15th, hence northerly air currents will flow southward at the close of the period, modifying the summer heat, and giving more pleasant night, for temporary comfort to man and beast.

A reactionary storm period is central on the 18th, 19th and 20th. Same period is coincident with the full moon, or Moon's opposition with Earth and Sun. The barometer will show marked atmospheric changes at this period. The temperature will rise and a show of blustering, summer clouds and storms will appear in many parts of the country, drifting from western to eastern parts of the continent.

A regular storm period intervenes the 23th, having its center on the 23d. The barometer does not rise after electrical storms on and about the 23d, a series of blustering thunder storms will appear for several days and nights in succession at this period.
