Boston, Feb. 23. Arrived, (in Nantucket Roads, last evening, in distress, having only a few gallons of water on board, and not a pound of bread or meat, having been on allowance 4 weeks,) the Russian ship Patrioten, capt. Portin, 86 days from Plymouth. Passengers, capt. John Richardson of Baltimore—a French and a German gentleman—and 3 German ladies. About the 25th Jan. on the Western Edge of the Grand Bank spoke the Swedish brig Angelina, Lutring, (Mr. Van Long supercargo,) 44 days from Gottenburg for Newport, and was supplied with as much provisions as she could spare. About the 16th inst. long. 64, fell in with an English brig, dismasted, 50 days from Jamaica or Martinique—had been without fire for 26 days. About the 14th inst. lat. 42, long 67, spoke a Spanish brig, 33 days fr. Havanna for Boston. Saw no cruisers on the passage, except the Rosamond sloop of war on the coast of England. The vessels spoken by the Patrioten, were viz. Dec. 7, lat. 43, long. 20, the Rosamond sloop of war: Jan. 29, lat. 42, long. 63, the Swedish brig Angelica, above mentioned; Feb. 6, lat. 42, long 64, the English brig above 16 days from Martinique; and on the 15th Feb. lat. 42, long 69, the Spanish brig Emilia, Merino, 32 days from Havannah for Boston.

On the 8th inst. several seamen landed at Tarpaulin Cove, from La Hogue, belonging to the barque Christina, and brig Nancy Swedes from St. Barts, for Newport, which she had captured and sent to Bermuda.

Two French frigates were cruizing in the West Indies in Jan.

The Spanish brig Maria Merced, Pallacios, and ship Clara, from Newport, had arrived at Havanna 24th ult. Also, a Spanish ship from Portsmouth, formerly a prize vessel.

The ship Catharine, Boutiller, is advertised at Philadelphia as a cartel for Martinique and Guadaloupe, to sail in the month of April, with passengers, by permission from government.

Mr. Griffin Jones, late a seamen of the schr. Sally, from N. Carolina for New London, captured 2d Jan. by the Niemen frigate, ar. in town on Monday evening. Mr. Jones remained on board the Niemen until Jan. 30, when, having fallen in with the Rattler sloop of war, 16 guns, capt. Thompson, 20 days from Bermuda, off the Capes of Philadelphia, (where the N. had been cruising all the time) he, with 8 others, were sent on board. On the 21st Jan. in sight of the Capes of Philadelphia, the Niemen captured the fine letter of marque schr. Bordeaux Packet, capt. Lee of Baltimore, 280 tons, 9 guns and 50 men, 25 days from St. Barts, cargo sugars, and sent her to Bermuda. She was chased about 3 hours—had a great number of shots fired at her, and had her topsail haulyards, &c. cut away. The frigate had fallen in with her the day previous, and the wind being light, she sent two boats after her, who discovering her to be an armed vessel, and receiving a gun, returned. The B. P. had been chased several times previous.

The Rattler proceeded off N. York, where, in co. with the Acasta frigate, (which she had fallen in with) she captured a Spanish ship from St. Domingo, for N. York, cargo sugar, coffee, indigo, cochineal and cotton, and sent her to Bermuda. The Rattler and Acasta were afterward joined by the Albion and La Hogue 74's, and Loire frigate. Off New York, they fell in with the letter of marque schr Flash, from Port au Prince for New York, cargo coffee—she was discovered about 6 in the morning, and chased by the whole squadron (5 sail) until 9 at night, when she was overhauled.—During the chase the wind was a whole sail breeze from the Sd. and the schr. hove all her guns, boats, &c. overboard—when night coming on (being very dark) she hove to, and lowered all her sails, put out her lights, &c. All the ships had passed her without observing her, but one ship and the Rattler——the latter was some distance astern, being a dull sailer, and the other ship came near running the Flash down. During the chase a man jumped overboard from the Rattler and was drowned.——During Mr. Jones's stay on board the Niemen, she captured only the Bordeaux Packet, and boarded only one vessel, a neutral brig, some time since.

On Thursday last, the Rattler anchored in Wood's Hole, and next day went to Tarpaulin Cove, where she remained on Saturday evening, taking in water and provisions. On Thursday she captured a wood sloop in Wood's Hole, and after taking out part of the wood gave her up.

Mr. Jones was put on board a Vineyard boat, (together with 8 others from the Niemen,) and landed at New Bedford. No prisoners remained on board the R.—50 were on board the N. and were to be sent to Bermuda. Mr. Badger, of Boston, a passenger in the B. P. was also left on board.

On Thursday last the Rattler exchanged signals with a 74.

A gentlemen, passenger in the ship Maria, from St. Barts, informs the Keeper of the Exchange Coffee House Books, that the statement recorded on Saturday, respecting the prize brig burnt by the French frigates, is incorrect, and he has requested the following may be recorded as substantially correct.

"A British brig from England, bound to the W. Indies, with a cargo of provisions, &c. was captured early in Jan. to the windward of Barbadoes, by the Fox privateer of Portsmouth, and Capt. Damerell (as prize-master) and a crew put on board, and ordered for the U. S.—About two days after, she fell in with 2 French frigates, (the La Nymph and Clorinde,) and supposing them to be English ships of war, hoisted a Swedish ensign, thinking by that stratagem he might prevent being recaptured. The Commodore of the frigates sent a boat on board, ordered the officers to take out the men, set fire to the vessel, (supposing her really to be a Swede,) and return immediately, as three other vessels were in sight, which he wished to give chase to. The orders were executed, and the vessel was on fire before Capt. Damerell or his papers had been examined. On the Commodore's hearing she was a prize, he expressed his regret at having burnt her, and desired capt. D. to console himself, for that the next vessel he took, he would give him in compensation for the one burnt. On the same day the frigates captured the Portuguese brig Prince Regent, from New-Haven, bound to Cayenne, with a cargo of flour, lumber, &c. and according to promise, she was given to Capt. D. and crew, for reasons as before stated. The Prince Regent being short of water, Capt. Damerell put into St. Barts, where he found the owner of the vessel, who immediately claimed her of the Governor, and she was ordered to be delivered up to him, which was complied with. Captain D. and his mate then took passage in the ship Maria, arrived at Gloucester as before mentioned.

Gloucester, Feb. 21.—At 12 o'clock this day, a ship stood in within about 3 miles from Cape Ann, hauled up her courses, and fired a gun, and then stood off to the S. supposed to be a ship of war. [No doubt the Russian ship Patrioten, ar. below yesterday.

Portland, Feb. 21.—Ar. letter of marque brig Dash, captain Killeren, 25 days from Port au Prince. Left no American vessels there.——Sailed in co. with schrs. Flash and Chauncey, of and for New York—parted with them at the N. W. point of Mayaguana, bearing N. 7 leags. distance. Capt. K. was chased several times on his passage.

The letter of marque brig Rattlesnake, Dyer, of Boston, ar. safe at her port of destination on the 12th Jan. all well.

Newport, Feb. 19.——Ar. Spanish brig St. Christobal, Juando, 18 days from Havana, with sugar, coffee, hides, &c.——We inquired for a number of vessels which sailed from this port and Boston a few days previous to the Embargo, but could not learn the names of any. A Russian ship from Boston, in ballast, ar. about 20th Jan. Several schrs. from Baltimore had also ar. Yesterday, off the entrance of our harbor, was fired at by an armed brig.

An armed brig [supposed to be the Nimrod] has been cruising off the entrance of our harbour for several days past.

New-York, Feb. 25.—Ar. Sloop Lark, Buddington, 2 days from Newhaven, with sugar, dry goods, (American) to captain Potter and others.

The schr. Flash, Fairchild, from Port au Prince for New York, is captured by the Acasta British frigate, and ordered for Bermuda.

PROPOSALS

For publishing a Supplement to the Fifth (or present) volume of

The Weekly Register.

It was proposed, some time since, to publish a sheet and a half, weekly, instead of a sheet, in order to get in the current matter of the times. But the Editor reluctantly abandoned the idea for reasons that appeared to him too important to be disregarded.

On the 8th ultimo, however, he announced his intention to issue a supplement for the 5th volume, to record and preserve a great mass of important matter that the limits of the work of necessity excluded. Since then, the Editor has examined his materials for that supplement, and finds them to be much more interesting than he had anticipated. They consist of articles on every important concern for which this work is esteemed useful; and he earnestly hopes that all his subscribers may be induced to receive them as conditioned below,—promising to use his best endeavors to give full value for the money required. It will be rich in biography. For further particulars see WEEKLY REGISTER, of January 8.

CONDITIONS.

The SUPPLEMENT for the 5th volume of the Register will be put to press by the middle of March next,—the Editor being satisfied that sufficient patronage will be afforded to bear the expense.

The day on which it will be put to press MUST close the subscription, and no more will be printed than are ordered, except to supply the files reserved for future disposal.

It shall contain at least twelve sheets, which is two sheets more than the cost of it purchases of the regular work.

The price of the Supplement is one dollar, to be paid on ordering it.

The proposition is thus offered to all, and the Editor wishes it may be universally accepted by his subscribers. Those who may not obtain it, will not complain if their own act shall deprive them of a copy.

As subscribers to the REGISTER in the city and precincts, will be immediately waited upon, the annual period for payment having come round—this notice is given that they may conclude whether to receive the supplement or refuse it, it being designed to solicit their order.
