They visited the barns of Messrs. B. F. Shriver & Co., at Union Mills, where, it is said, over two hundred beef cattle are being fed on corn and husk ensilage, waste products of their canning factories. Fire destroyed the cigar factory of Mr. Archibald Buchman, at Manchester, yesterday morning. The fire was discovered about half-past twelve o'clock and soon the whole building, which was a two-story frame structure, 20x30 feet, was in flames and was speedily reduced to ashes, with all its contents, consisting of a large quantity of cigars in boxes and a considerable quantity of tobacco in stock, with the fixtures of the factory. The firemen, who worked with great energy, with difficulty saved Mr. Buchman's dwelling house, which stands close to the factory. Most of the furniture was removed from the building in anticipation of its destruction. A brick dwelling house, belonging to Mr. Frank Loats, standing on the other side of the factory, was also saved only by great effort. The window panes were so heated that in cooling they cracked and fell to pieces. Mr. Buchman's loss is not fully known, as he was absent from home and had not returned when information of the fire was sent us. He had an insurance of $400 on stock and fixtures and $250 on the building, in the Royal Insurance Company, of London, Eng., of which Mr. Chas. E. Goodwin is agent. Fall work is nearing completion, as most of our farmers have about finished hauling in their fodder and plowing for another year's corn crop. Mr. Emanuel Bowers, one of our most esteemed citizens, made sale of his personal effects on the 25th inst., and on the 28th moved with his family to Baltimore, where they expect to remain for a while, maybe permanently. Our best wishes for their success accompany them.

Those who kept their apples for higher prices, say the apples didn't "keep" very well.

Movement to Amend Carroll County Liquor License Law.

The Westminster Temperance Union, an organization started in this city a year ago, at a public meeting held at the Methodist Protestant Church last Sunday afternoon, announced its purpose to petition the legislature at its coming session to amend the liquor license law of Carroll county, passed in 1894, in some important particulars. The law, as it stands at present, requires that an application to sell liquor shall be recommended by nine reputable freeholders residing in the neighborhood of the place where the business is to be conducted.

The courts have held that the word "neighborhood" is rather elastic, in some instances defining it to mean a distance as great as three miles from the point of sale. The present law permits a single freeholder to sign or recommend an unlimited number of applications. The union will endeavor to have an amendment, defining the term neighborhood within the limits of any incorporated town, to mean within a radius of four hundred yards of the point of sale, and one and a half miles in the country places, and to limit each freeholder to the signing of but one application.

The present law provides for three kinds of licenses, namely, the grocers' license, which permits the sale of a pint of liquor, not to be drunk on the premises; the hotel license, which permits the sale of drinks only, and the saloon license, which allows the dealer to sell by the drink and in any quantity less than five gallons. The union will ask to have the law amended so that the kinds of licenses will be limited to two—one to sell by the drink and the other by the pint or more. The present law gives the privilege to hotelkeepers to furnish liquor to their guests in their rooms and at their meals on Sunday. The amendments asked for will abolish this privilege, which, the union claims, has been greatly abused, persons not bona fide guests taking rooms at hotels on Sunday and spending the day in debauchery. Rev. Dr. Joel Brown, pastor of Centenary Methodist Episcopal Church, and Rev. P. H. Miller, pastor of Grace Lutheran Church, made addresses approving the proposed petitions, which will be circulated for signatures all over this county.

Skipped His Bail.

John T. Michael, who is under indictment in the Circuit Court for Carroll county in two cases of forgery, has left for parts unknown. He went to Baltimore Tuesday afternoon by the train leaving here at 1.16 o'clock. According to information obtained by the officers he left the train at Fulton Station, but as this is being written his whereabouts are unknown, though officers have been diligently searching for him since his disappearance. He was out on $300 bail in each case, his bondsman being Thomas W. Johnson, of Frederick county. The cases were called in court on Wednesday morning, and the bonds forfeited. Michael's disappearance was discovered, however, about two hours after he left the city; too late to intercept him on the train. The alleged forgeries are as follows: A promissory note for $322 50, dated June 3, 1898, and payable in three months, drawn in favor of William B. Thomas, of this city, and purporting to have been signed by Fanny M. Michael, the wife of the accused; Michael himself, Henry Troutfelter, J. Henry Benner and Elizabeth Benner, and a promissory note for $200, dated June 27, 1898, drawn in favor of George H. Birnie & Co., of Taneytown, and purporting to have been signed by Fanny M. Michael, John T. Michael, the accused; John H. Benner and Henry Troutfelter, the last named being Michael's father-in-law. The name of Clarence Davis appears on the last-mentioned note as a witness to the signatures. Michael is accused of having signed all the names on both notes. He is a native of Frederick county, but was at one time engaged in the musical instrument business in this city.

Sent to the Penitentiary.

George Deems and Harry Mason, boys of sixteen or seventeen years old, were tried before a jury of the Circuit Court for Carroll county on Monday afternoon, and found guilty of placing an obstruction on the tracks of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad at Gaithers Siding, on Sunday, 5th inst., by which one car of a freight train was wrecked, and other cars damaged.

The boys had stolen a ride on the train from Baltimore, and as it slowly approached Gaithers were jumping on and off the cars. Detective John Lloyd, Alexander Hobbs and others testified that the boy Deems said Mason had placed the obstruction on the track while he (Deems) was in the car, a gondola, and as he felt the jar occasioned by the wheels coming in contact with the obstacle, he jumped to the ground.

The obstruction was a telegraph cross-arm, which was lying beside the track as the cars passed. Alexander Hobbs testified that Mason was in the habit of riding out to Gaithers from Baltimore on freight trains. The court sentenced both the boys to the Maryland penitentiary for three years. Mason and Deems' parents reside on Ridgely street, Baltimore.

Contesting Samuel Engler's Will.

The Baltimore American, of Wednesday, says: "The Court of Common Pleas yesterday took up the case of Evan Haines, Lucinda Roop, Mary M. Weaver, Samuel L. Engler and others against Esther Ann Roop, Mary Engler and husband and others; also, Fielder C. Slingluff as executor, in which the holographic will of Samuel Engler, who died in Paris, France, aged seventy-eight years, is sought to be set aside.

Samuel Engler, who was born near New Windsor, Carroll county, Md., September 29, 1816, went to France in 1870, and resided there until his death, in 1894. He was at one time possessed of a large estate, but squandered most of his property, so that now there is about $18,000 only in dispute, considerable property having been distributed under the will in France. According to French law, a holographic will is valid—that is, a will written by the testator and not witnessed.

Under the will $1,000 each was left to Ida E. Snader, wife of Edwin E. Snader; Fanny E. Snader, Samuel Ellsworth Engler, Daniel Edwin Engler, children of the testator's niece, Mary Elizabeth Engler, wife of Solomon P. Engler; Ezra Roop Stoner, Sarah E. Stoner, Anne Rebecca Stoner, children of Martha J. Stoner; Esther Ann Roop, Emma L. Gibbon, Maggie E. Whitehill and Samuel E. Engler, children of the testator's brother, Levi Engler. The will was made September 15, 1888, and named Mr. F. C. Slingluff as one of the trustees, with Francis Trapper of Paris.

Mrs. Weaver, a niece, who lived for some years with Mr. Engler, told of his peculiarities, or fads, for music, books and amateur photographs. Rhodes and Rhodes are counsel for the plaintiffs; George R. Gaither, Jr., and F. C. Slingluff for the defendants.

From these purchases he may have some object in view which we do not understand.

Dr. H. C. Shipley Tried for Forgery

Dr. Henry C. Shipley, of Washington, D. C., was tried in the Criminal Court for Carroll county on Monday under an indictment charging him with the forgery of the name of Robert Lee, of Freedom district, this county, to a promissory note for $50. The note was drawn in favor of Mrs Elizabeth Buckingham, and was dated September 23, 1895. It was signed by Dr. Shipley and his wife, and the name of Robert Lee was also appended to it. The note was partially paid when Dr. Shipley was first accused of its forgery, and has since been entirely liquidated.

At the date when the note was executed Dr. Shipley was a practicing physician at Eldersburg, this county, and his wife was postmistress at that place. Mr. Lee swore positively that he had never signed the note, and that he never writes his signature Robt., as it appears in the note, but always writes it in full. Dr. Shipley swore positively that Mr. Lee signed his name to the note at his (Dr. Shipley's) office, in his presence and in the presence of his wife. Mrs. Shipley also testified to the same effect. Mr. Lee was recalled, and declared in a very positive and indignant manner that the signature purporting to be his was a forgery. Dr. Shipley, on cross-examination, admitted that he had, on one occasion, signed the name of Peyton Poole to a note, but explained that Mr. Poole was his debtor at the time, and their relations of such a character that he felt justified in doing so, and that Mr. Poole had subsequently approved of his action. Several witnesses testified that, in their opinion, the signature of Mr. Lee on the note does not correspond with his genuine signature.

The Court, on Wednesday, adjudged the traverser guilty, and sentenced him to imprisonment in the Maryland Penitentiary for the term of five years. An appeal was taken from the rulings of the court, and Dr. Shipley was released from custody upon giving bail in the sum of $500, pending the judgment of the Court of Appeals.

Dr. Shipley is a native of this county, and was for years a prominent citizen of Freedom district before his removal to Washington. He is past middle life, and holds a high social position. Mr. Lee is upwards of seventy years old. He and Dr. Shipley are first cousins. Mrs. Buckingham, the payee of the note, is now the wife of Mr. William T. Devries, of Freedom district.
