Lutheran General Synod.

The ministers and laymen of the Evangelical Lutheran Churches of Baltimore have begun to prepare for the approaching biennial session of the General Synod of the church, which meets in Pittsburg in June. The last session was held in the First Lutheran Church of Baltimore, and proved to be one of the most successful in the history of the denomination. Many interesting subjects were discussed and disposed of during the 10 days' sessions of the Synod. One of the features of the coming session will be the election of a president to succeed the late Rev. Dr. Wolf of Gettysburg, Pa. Dr. Wolf was elected to the high position at the last session of the Synod, having succeeded Rev. Dr. W. S. Freas, of Grace Church, Baltimore. The Maryland Synod will meet shortly to select both ministerial and lay delegates to the General Synod.

Lutherans ar eplanning for an international conference of representatives of various Lutheran bodies to meet in Philadelphia two years hence. The gathering will be of the utmost interest, in that it will show as never before Lutheran strength and power in America. The conference will represent 60,000,000 of adherents all over the world, and will make evident the fact that the various Lutheran bodies are gradually drawing together and co-operating in such matters and creedal beliefs which all accept. The details of the coming conference are intrusted to an American committee, of which Mr. William H. Staake, of Philadelphia, is chairman, and the Rev. Dr. M. W. Hamma, of Baltimore, secretary. Although the sessions of the conference will be in Philadelphia, it is proposed to have large meetings in New York, Chicago and other centers of Lutheran strength. Such a general meeting of Lutheran bodies has never before been held in this country, although 10 such meetings have been had in Europe, one in Sweden and the rest in Germany. To the American meeting will come the leading men of the denomination from all Europe and America, and the occasion is already looked forward to as an opportunity to make evident to America the place occupied in the Christian church by this mother church of the German Reformation.

Representative Meyer of Lousiana has been the cause of trouble in Philadelphia because a strange newspaper correspondent mistook him for Representative Bingham.

"What are you going to do for the mint?" inquired this one of the Louisianian at a time when he was deeply absorbed in something else.

"Oh! I don't care anything about the mint," he replied easily.

"But you don't want that repeated, do you?"

"It makes no difference to me; just as you please."

All this, blazoned forth in the newspapers of the City of Brotherly Love, has been followed by earnest explanations as to how General Bingham did not say it.

A man who beats his wife should be beaten. The horsewhip and the whipping-post furnish the kind of medicine he needs. A term in jail, which leaves the wife without support, is no punishment for such apologies for men. Their skin is more tender than their conscience. The re-establishment of the whipping-post would be helpful not only to cure men of this vice, but of several other small, but shameful, crimes.

"I wish I knew of some way to beat the railroad company."

"I can put you wise to a sure thing."

"Riding the rods?"

"No."

"Hitting a box car?"

"Surer than that."

"Put me next."

"Walk."

FOR STATE HIGHWAYS.

A meeting of the State Geological Survey was held in Baltimore, last week, at the office of the Maryland Geological Survey for the purpose of taking formal action under the Shoemaker Road law, which was recently declared constitutional by the Court of Appeals of Maryland.

The members of this commission include Governor Warfield, State Comptroller Atkinson, President Ira Remsen, of the Johns Hopkins University, and President R. W. Sylvester, of the Maryland Agricultural College. With the exception of President Sylvester, who was ill, all the members were present, and they strongly advocated that the work of building State highways should go forward as rapidly as possible.

Owing to the fact that the law requires all counties to make application before the 1st of March it is necessary, before any actual construction can be carried on, to have formal applications received from the various Boards of County Commissioners. The commission deemed it advisable to urge prompt action on the part of the County Commissioners, and passed the following resolutions:

Resolved, That the Court of Appeals having decided that the State Aid Highway law (Act of 1904, Chapter 225) is constitutional, we begin work at once under its provisions.

Further, that the boards of commissioners of the respective counties be notified that the State Geological Survey Commission will proceed in accordance with the circular already sent out, and that a second copy of these instructions be mailed to each board immediately, informing them that applications for State aid must be filed on or before March 1st next, if it is their plan to take advantage of the law during the year 1905, and that any balance remaining to the account of any county and unapplied for on that date will be allotted to the other counties applying in accordance with their public road mileage as required by law.

Further, that the necessary surveys will be commenced as soon as practicable after March 1, and that plans and estimates will be submitted at the earliest possible day.

It is understood that the State funds for the highway movement as provided for by the Legislature last year will be available. Governor Warfield and State Comptroller Atkinson are in sympathy with the good roads movement, and they will endeavor to see that the legislative act is carried out.

A copy of the resolution adopted by the commission has been sent to the Boards of County Commissioners throughout the State, with a copy of the circular giving instructions how to apply for State aid and calling attention to the importance of making application for the State aid before March 1.

Was Buried With Simple Exercises.

Crawfordsville, Ind., February 18. —The funeral of Gen. Lew Wallace this afternoon was private, in accordance with his expressed wishes. Only the family and a few intimate friends attended. Until noon the body lay in the library building and was viewed by thousands. Business was suspended and the city did honor to the memory of the dead. The casket was draped with a flag given General Wallace by the ladies of Evansville at the beginning of the Civil War. On the breast of the dead soldier was the order bestowed on him by the Sultan of Turkey. Resting on the casket was page No. 690 of General Wallace's autobiography, the last page written by him.

The services were simple. Following the Lord's prayer and scriptural reading, the choir of the First Methodist Church sang "Jesus Lover of My Soul." Dr. E. A. Schell read extracts from Ben Hur, showing General Wallace's religious attitude. President Kane, of Wabash College, offered prayer and the choir sang "Face to Face." The body was placed in a temporary vault. The pall-bearers included Judge A. B. Anderson, of the of the United States District Court, and seven prominent residents of this city.

"Children, we will now have an example in division. Tommy Tiggley, if your father brought home $10 to divide with your mother, what would she get?"

"Ten dollars."

"Tommy, you don't know your lesson."

"No, ma'am, but I know my mother."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

"May the saints preserve ye," said an old woman who had been given a quarter by Representative Cooper of Wisconsin, "an' may every hair o' your head be a candle to light your way to glory?"

"Well, it won't be such a dodgasted torchlight procession at that." Mr. Cooper answered as a gust of wind took off his hat, showing a shining crown.

Why Not Cure Your Cough or Cold?
WESTMINSTER, April 10th, 1890.
MR. JOS. B. BOYLE:
Dear Sir:—For many years I have suffered intensely, on taking cold, from a very troublesome cough, for which I have used a number of various remedies, and obtained but TEMPORARY RELIEF. During the past Spring I was again troubled with the same cough, and through a friend was induced to try YOUR Pectoral Syrup, which not only gave almost INSTANT RELIEF, but a PERMANENT CURE. It gives me great pleasure to say that I believe it to be the best remedy I ever used for the purpose for which it is recommended. Hoping that any person afflicted as I was may be fortunate enough to give it a trial, I am, Truly yours,

SAVING CABBAGE SEED.

Towards the latter part of February these seeds should be sown in a hotbed; when sown early and given careful attention, stout, stocky plants ready to set in the cold frame by the middle of March and in the open ground the first week in April, may be had. The hotbed made at this season should be made on top and not in the ground; when thus made the heat in the bed may be kept up by lining the outside of frame with hot horse manure mixed with oak leaves, when the first lining has become cold. Make the bed about three feet high of hot horse manure and oak leaves, and when settled it will fall to about two feet six inches. The manure should be laid in evenly, beating each layer with back of the fork; the manure should not be trampled. Then lay on four or five inches of rich earth, put on the sash and cover with mats; the outside of frame should be banked up with 20 inches of hot manure and leaves all around and clear up to the glass. When the weed seeds in the earth start to grow the bed may be sown. One pint of phosphate should be spread over each 3x6 inch sash and well raked in. Sow the seed evenly over the surface and rake them in; the seed should be covered about one-quarter of an inch in depth, then slide off the glass. Put on the mats about 4 P. M. and take them off about 10 A. M. If the heat in the frame should be too violent in the middle of a clear day raise the sash at the back about half an inch for one or two hours. In very mild weather the sash may be slid off entire for a few hours in the warmest part of the day. Give the plants plenty of air; water frequently, but sparingly, with water which has stood over night in the hotbed. Keep the ground mellow and free of weeds.

The following are the leading varieties of early cabbage: Jersey Wakefield, Eureka and New Glory. This lest variety originated in Holland and has few outer leaves, a fine solid head, and is noted for early maturity and sure heading. For second early sow Winningstadt and Charleston. Early Snowball is the best variety of cauliflower. Seeds sown in February and plants set out the last of March in deep, rich ground will produce large heads early in June. This is the best variety to force in a hotbed; when wanted early, set the plants eight inches apart in the hotbed and give frequent waterings of weak liquid manure. It should be spread over the ground and not on the leaves. A few seeds of scarlet turnips, scarlet globe or French breakfast radish seed may be sown in the same frame with the cabbage and cauliflower seeds. These varieties are rapid growers, having but little leaf growth they will be fit to gather 21 days after germination of seed. The radishes will not injure the growth of the cabbage seeds.—Baltimore American.

Onions Profitable.

Fortunate is the farmer who has plenty of onions. He can get a dollar a bushel for them, with a prospect of higher prices before long. The onion crop in Europe was a failure last year, and a great many are being sent over the water at the present time. Twenty thousand bushels were sent in one consignment from Sunderland, Mass., a few days ago. It is estimated that there are now about 90,000 bushels in the Connecticut Valley which can be bought by people who have "got the price." They are said to be mostly owned by four men in the vicinity of Springfield. There is a very good profit in raising onions at a dollar a bushel—a good deal more than in producing tobacco at the present time. Indeed, it may be doubted whether there is any other crop which pays so handsomely as the odoriferous vegetable which is now commanding such a high price in this part of the country.—Hartford Times.

It Was Not Their Mother.

A literary man who has just returned from the anthracite coal region of Pennsylvania says that he found a great quantity of "local color" there. He also says he heard the most ungrammatical sentence while there that ever came under his notice. He was strolling through a mine village in Schuylkill county when he heard a woman calling, and at some distance off saw several children who were playing in the road. When he reached them, he said kindly:

"Your mother is calling you, children."

"The largest child, a girl of about ten years, turned to him and said:

"Her ain't a-callin' we; us don't belong to she."

The late Bishop Beckwith of Georgia was fond of his gun and spent much of his time hunting, says Representative Adamson. One day the Bishop was out with his dog and gun, and met a member of his parish, whom he reproved for his inattention to his religious duties.

"You should attend church and read your Bible," said the Bishop.

"I do read my Bible, Bishop," was the answer, "and I don't find any mention of the Apostles going a-shooting."

"No," replied the Bishop, "the shooting was very bad in Palestine, so they went fishing instead."
