TOWN AND VICINITY.

A Big Company.

The big city company of comedians, vocalists and dancers in the great "1996" will be at Moat's Opera House Monday evening, Oct. 8. This company is headed by the peerless comedienne, Hettie Bernard Chase, who is a counterpart of Maggie Mitchell in looks and action. In fact, those of our old theatre-goers say Miss Chase and Mitchell are identical.

A Hustler.

Gus. White, manager of Moat's Opera House, intends to show the Frostburg theatrical-going public that he means that they shall have their money's worth. He has erected a bill board on Union street, corner of Water, 74 feet long. He will bring here the same class of attractions that play Cumberland, and larger cities than Cumberland. All he wants is the patronage of Frostburg citizens.

Personal.

Misses Lucetta and Lillie Andrew, of Washington, Pa., are visiting L. J. Parker.

A pension has been granted Ellsworth Conner, of this place.

Miss Hettie Bernard Chase will be at Moat's Opera House Monday evening, Oct. 8.

Miss Pearl Benson has returned from a delightful visit to friends in Mt. Pleasant, Pa.

Alex. Davis left this week to accept a business position in Pittsburg, Pa

Rev. James Miller, of Cumberland, was in town last Sunday.

Miss Allie Grove left Monday to enter the Woman's college, Baltimore.

G. S. Rowbotham is in town again after an absence of 10 years. In partnership with a son, he has opened a novelty store in Ravenscraft's Broadway building and begun business in earnest.

"Bonus Blaney," writing to the Cumberland Alleganian, says—"Owen Evans, the Frostburg hotel-keeper, was a Cleveland policeman. Had removed there from Newark, O. (May have left.)"

Rev. D. C. DeWulf, pastor of the Catholic University parish, Washington, D. C., called Thursday evening to see his Frostburg friends. He is in fine health and spirits and as genial as aforetime.

J. Semmes Devecmon, of Cumberland, was in town last Sunday. He is a pronounced free-trader all the way from acetic acid to zaffer. He doesn't even except coal. His erroneous idea is—it is a great mistake to do things by halves, and that the right way is to go the entire shoat or have nothing to do with pork.

Already at Work.

The following list comprises the names of all the committees in charge of the preparations for the conduct of the Firemen's demonstration here Wednesday and Thursday, June 12 and 13, next year, save one:

Brevities.

William Shaffer, of this place, and Mrs. Mary Rafferty, of Eckhart, were committed Monday to the county insane asylum.

The attendance at Public School, No. 1, grows. The other day there were 548 pupils at their desks.

The JOURNAL will speak of the late meeting of the gas company next week.

Be sure and go to Moat's Opera House on Monday night and enjoy a good, hearty laugh.

Mrs. A. B. Price, noticing that big tomatoes have been reaching the JOURNAL, sent in this week a basketful of huge specimens of her own growth. They testify alike to her skill and the value of Frostburg soil.

While here the Cardinal gave five sittings to artist Towles, and the latter has as many splendid negatives. When copyrighted, the prints, finished in Towles' unapproachable style, will be offered for sale.

The Cardinal's Visit.

The parochial residence, approaches and grounds were prettily decorated with bunting, flags and lanterns Friday evening of last week. An arch over the gate proclaimed in large Gothic letters, "Welcome," while the cardinal and national colors shone everywhere.

Everything went off as foreshadowed in printed programme last week.

The procession formed and moved promptly.

Meanwhile, the school children were placed in two ranks each side of the walk to the residence.

The Cardinal arrived on a special at the station about 6½ o'clock. Traversing a considerable portion of Union street, he arrived at the residence shortly after 7.

One of the schoolboys, James Jackson, delivered an address of welcome, to which the Cardinal responded in happy terms. He felt highly complimented by the magnitude and generosity of the reception, not the least pleasing feature of which was the manifestation made by "the brethren of other denominations."

Sunday the large auditorium of St. Michael's was packed and scores were unable to enter. During the exercises the Cardinal delivered three addresses, the one upon "The Dignity and Rights of Labor" being the most notable. He held, in short—

1, That labor had been ennobled by the precept and example of Christ.

2, That it has a right to organize and peaceably seek redress for its grievances.

3, That arbitration seems to be the most efficient method of settling wage and other differences.

These points were strongly and fluently elaborated.

Confirmation followed—20 adults and 153 children—173 in all.

The Cardinal left Sunday afternoon, accompanied to Cumberland by quite a large number of his friends here.
