Pryor-Bailey wedding scheduled for the 25th

by Lula Jones Garrett

And so June IS living up to tradition

Elsie Marie Bailey and James Pryor of Washington will exchange vows in Epiphany Roman Catholic Church, Washington, on the 25th.

Miss Bailey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ellison Bailey of this city, recently completed her nurse training at the District of Columbia General Hospital (the only non - white in the class).

Mr. Pryor is an occupational therapist on the staff of the same hospital.

The wedding of Constance White (daughter of Mrs. Alice White) and Clarence Smith will take place Saturday in Providence Baptist Church.

Marian Elaine Smith, Morgan State College, not only has a new status, but also a new position. Formerly secretary to Miss Sallie Ponzo, Alumni secretary, she is now on the library staff at the college . . . and is the recent bride of the Rev. I. James Crump of New York City. The Rev. Mr. Crump is recently out of the service.

A July wedding is being planned by Elaine Estelle Carter and Benjamin B. Welch.

Miss Carter is the niece of the Rev. C. E. Smallwood of Washington, a graduate of Douglass High School and Cortez Peters Business College, and is now employed as office manager of the Madison Avenue branch of the YWCA.

NOW THEY ARE FIVE—A cake for each was on hand Sunday when the Pugh triplets, Diane, David and Debra, children of Mr. and Mrs. Adolphus Pugh, 1024 Bethune Rd. in Cherry Hill, observed their fifth birthday with 27 guests present to help make it a gay occasion. Their birthday is June 8.

MR. AND MRS. JOHN A. DONALD-

Mr., Mrs. Donaldson given wedding fete

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis C. Grey recently honored their daughter, the former Miss Gilda A Grey and their new son-in-law, John A. Donaldson at a belated wedding reception held at the Chesapeake Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Donaldson are at present employed as clerks at the main branch of the Post Office. They were wed in Washington, D.C. on January 16.

For the occasion the club was gaily decorated with ribboned baskets of flowers. The middle room held tables laden with myriads of gifts and messages from friends.

IN THE receiving line the bride was attired in an emerald sateen two-piece suit. The charming simplicity of the snuggly fitted bodice was accentuated by a slanting row of sateen covered buttons and decorated with a brilliant multicolored rhinestone pin.

Mrs. Donaldson's briefly veiled flowered hat exactly matched her satin shoes and tiny jeweled purse. She wore an orchid on her shoulder.

Mrs. Goldie Grey, mother of the bride, was attired in dusty rose lace. The skirt was shirred and emchantingly full. Her accessories were just a shade darker than the dress.

Mrs. Lillian Donaldson, stepmother of the groom, elected an ice blue linen sheath with all white accessories.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Bernice Burrows, was charming in an iridescent gown with full slightly pleated skirt. The shoes and bag were a pale blue and the large hat made a lovely effect.

Other members in the receiving line were Lewis Grey, father of the bride; Theodore Donaldson, father of the bridegroom, James Barnes and Francis Grey.

HOSTESSES FOR Mr. and Mrs. Donaldson were Misses Elinor Cole and Minnie Dorsey who both wore cool blue cotton frocks with tight bodices and lightly swirling skirts.

Delicious punch and tiny sandwiches were enjoyed by all. The evening was climaxed with the serving of champagne and toasts were drunk to the happy couple.

Another party completed the evening for the newlyweds as relatives and close friends entertained them with a delightful dinner and party.

Reception guests were:

Messrs. and Mesdames Johnny Hazel, Garfield Myers, Nathaniel White, Earl Gilan, George Coleman, James Williams, Lee Simms;

Messrs. and Mesdames Newell Johnson, Linwood Cofield, John Tucker, Russell Tarter, Thomas Wilson, Rudolph Levy, Osborne Dixon;

Messrs. and Mesdames Clinton Williams, Walter Cook, Frederick Hicks, Samuel Dantzler, Nathaniel Thomas, Robert Kennedy, Lawson Brooks;

Messrs. and Mesdames Charles Stubbs, Melvin Reddicks, Spencer Lewis, Spencer Williams;

Messrs and Mesdames Harry Westley, Philip Vaughn, Joseph Felton, Preston Mallory, Leon Burrows, Walter Wright, John Felton, Jors Patterson.
