EXPLOSION EXTRAORDINARY.

The Liverpool Albion of Sept. 26th contains the annexed account of a strange incident which occurred in the Post Office of that city on the night of the 24th.

On Saturday night about 9'clock, a circumstance occurred in our Post office which had nearly proved fatal to the individual, and might have been productive of severe injury to many, if the full intention of the contriver of the wickedness had taken effect, though who were the intended victims it is impossible to say.—We need not inform our commercial readers, that letters for foreign countries require that the postage should be paid, or they are never forwarded, but, instead, are sent to the Dead-letter-office, in London, there to be stamped, opened, and returned, if practicable, to the writers. On Saturday night, a number of letters of this description, which had remained in our Post Office beyond the regular period, were handed over to a man, named Barnard, for the purpose of being stamped previously to being forwarded to London by the mail. Amongst these was a bundle containing seven letters, all directed in the same hand, and in the Spanish language, to official personages at Havana. The stamp is a heavy steel implement, with which the letter is struck with some violence. He had got through all the letters but this particular bundle, and they had been removed as he operated upon them. He also got safely through the first four of these, but in striking the fifth, the precussion produced an explosion which shook the whole building. Every clerk in the office, even those at the greatest distance, were stunned, and one who stood within a few yards of the spot was thrown violently to the ground. When they recovered, in some measure, from the shock, they looked round for the poor man, Barnard. The floor around him, was completely covered with the tattered fragments of the letters, for all the remaining three had exploded, and he lay upon the floor bleeding and insensible. He was found to have been shockingly injured; his hands being torn almost asunder, and portions of the flesh and skin peeled from them. His face was completely denuded of the skin, and one of his eyes was forced backwards with such violence, that its use as an organ of vision is lost irrecoverably. The thumb-nail of the left hand was torn off, and, what is more extraordinary, was shot through the left cheek. The poor man is in a very dangerous state, though hopes are entertained of his recovery. The bag which contained the other four letters, having already been made up, it was despatched by the mail during the consternation incident to the disaster. Mr. Banning instantly forwarded an express to the General Post office, informing the parties there of what had occurred, and warning them to be careful how they opened those letters. It is to be hoped that they may be found to contain some clue which will lead to the discovery of the contriver of a scheme so diabolical. The explosion was so violent that it put out all the lights and blew out five panes of glass.

FROM TEXAS.

The New Orleans papers contain advices from Velasco to the 12th October.

Gen. Samuel Houston, the President elect of the Republic, and suite, arrived at Columbia on the 9th October. The votes for annexation to the United States and for the Constitution as it is, were almost unanimous.

Generals Thomas Rusk, Green and Felix Houston, are the prominent candidates before the people to supply the place of Commander in Chief, vacated by the elevation of Houston to the Presidency of the Republic.

Congress was in session, but principally occupied with local matters, of no interest whatever to the general reader.

A detachment of Texans lately attacked a foraging party of about fifty Mexicans, who were engaged in collecting cattle for their army, and two Mexicans were taken prisoners. The Texans had brought into camp about 1500 head of cattle.

Pride of Ancestry.—There was much sound truth in the speech of a country lad to an idler who boasted his descent from an ancient family. 'So much the worse for you,' said the peasant; 'as we ploughmen say, the older the seed the worse the crop.'

BALTIMORE MARKET.

DIED,

In Annapolis city, at the residence of Mr. Daniel T. Hyde, on Friday, the 14th of October last, William, son of Col. John Brohawn, of this county, aged about 14 years.

This afflictive dispensation of an all-wise Providence furnishes another impressive lesson to the young and to the sprightly, of the uncertainty of life below the skies.—William was one of the most engaging and interesting lads of his age we have ever been acquainted with. He was placed by his affectionate parent as a Student at St. John's College, for the acquirement of those accomplishments which promised to fit him for a life of extensive usefulness. Alas! those hopes are now buried with him in an early grave, from which every possible attention, and all the medical science which the city affords, were exerted in vain to save him.

☞NOTICE.—The members of the Cambridge Debating Society are requested to meet at their usual place, on Thursday evening, the 24th of November.

William Collison and Mary his wife, vs. Thomas Layton and others. — IN Chancery 24th NOVEMBER, 1836.

THE object of the bill filed in this cause is to obtain a decree for the sale of the real estate whereof James Layton died seized, in Dorchester county.

The bill states that the said James Layton departed this life since the year 1820, seized of a small real estate in said county—that he died intestate as to said land, and left the following children, to wit; the complainant, Mary, and Margaret wife of Francis Hayward, Thomas Layton, and James Layton, who is an infant—that said land is too small to divide with advantage to the parties interested, and prays that the same may be sold. The bill also states that the defendant, Thomas Layton, resides out of the State of Maryland.

It is thereupon ordered that the complainant, by causing a copy of this order to be published in some newspaper once in each of three successive weeks, before the 14th day of December next, give notice to the said absent defendant of the substance and object of the bill, that he may be warned to appear in this Court, in person or by a solicitor, on or before the 10th day of April next, to show cause, if any he have, why a decree should not be passed as prayed.
