FRANCE.

The most important item of news is the defeat of ministers in the chamber of Deputies, by the rejection of the disjunction bill, viz: to provide for the trial of political offences by military traitors, before a military tribunal. The majority against the bill was 2; the vote being 209 for, 211 against.

It was not thought, however, that the ministers would resign, unless they should also be defeated on the appanage bill, and the new demand for secret service money, which was not thought probable.

The following anecdote connected with the defeat of this measure is from the Times:—"A curious, but not unprecedented circumstance occurred in this division. M. Goldberry (one of the deputies) had been, during four days, confined to his bed, but had entreated a colleague to come for him when the Chamber should be about to vote on the bill.—His friend called upon him at the appointed time. The sick man caused himself to be taken out of the bed, wrapped in warm clothing, and carried to the Chamber. On mounting the steps of the tribune to deposit his ballott in the urn he nearly fainted. His vote decided the question.

The trial of Meunsier had not yet commenced. More arrests had been made.

There is nothing of interest from Spain.

LATEST FROM FLORIDA.

The steamer Essayons, Capt. Peck, arrived here yesterday afternoon Black Creek. From Capt. Twiggs. U. S. A. a passenger in her, and who left Fort Dade on the evening of the 22d inst. we learn that a rumor, which was credited in camp, prevailed that Philip, Powell, and Sam Jones had sent in a runner to Micanopy, (who until a few days since was at Fort Dade,) with the intention of ascertaining the truth of his being with Gen. Jesup's army, and whether a treaty had been actually signed, and further desiring an interview with him.

Micanopy had gone to Big Cypress Swamp with a view to collect his people, and also, it is supposed, to have an interview with the three chiefs above named. Micanopy would then proceed with his people direct to Tampa.

Cloud had already gone to Tampa. Tiger-tail was about to proceed there in a few days, with 75 to 100 Indians.—Jumper was still in the camp, passing to and fro—as also Abraham.

The impression at the camp was, that Philip, Powell, and Sam Jones would come in, in a few days.

We were infinitively amused with a story that was told us the other day—a story unquestionably true. All our readers know with what extreme readiness and with how little examination the legislature granted divorces during its late session. Certain wags at Frankfort, it appears, took advantage of this easy disposition of the General Assembly, and played off a practical joke upon that honorable body. They handed in an application for the divorce of a certain couple and the bill. as usual, was passed without particular enquiry. Some days afterwards, a gentleman in a distant part of the State, having read the columns of the Frankfort Commonwealth, closed the paper in surprize and hurried off to his neighbor, a venerable old citizen, and exclaimed—"Why, neighbor, I am astonished; I never heard of any quarrel between you and your wife! I am lost in amazement!" "A quarrel between me and my wife!" ejaculated the old man—"what do you mean?" "I mean no offence Sir," replied the first, "but I read your divorce in my paper and was puzzled to account for it. I supposed of course that you and Aunt Betsey had quarrelled." "Hark ye, Sir. reponded the old man, "I am seventy years old and my wife is sixty-eight—we have lived together forty-nine years and raised thirteen children—and there has never been the first illnatured word between us in all our lives. Divorce? DIVORCE? I divorced from my OLD woman? why what the devil has sent you here with such a story?

The neighbor made no reply but coolly took the paper from his hat and handed it to the old man, who, with the aid of his spectacles, then and there read, to his utter dismay and astonishment an official statement of the dissolution of the matrimonial bonds of himself and his wife by the sovereign authority of the State. The agonies of the poor old couple, at finding themselves two, can readily be imagined. That night they wept on separate pillows, but early on the following day, the good old souls trudged off for a marriage license, paid the fee, went before the nearest magistrate, and were duly joined a second time together, each fervently praying, that the Legislature would never again interfere with their connubial ties.—Louisville Jour.

PASSIONATE TEMPER.

The indulgence of a passionate temper is perhaps one of the most unhappy of human vices; because there are few others which so perpetually prey upon the peace and serenity of the mind. This strong, sturdy enemy to human enjoyment, in the vast majority of cases, is left to grow with our strength until the ascendancy is complete. It progresses in its dominion step by step; every indulgence adds to its power, and every acquisition of power increases its thirst forits indulgence.—Yet it can be controlled and brought into perfect subjection. He who is not master of himself, no matter what else he is master of, is a slave; and whatever efforts can be addressed by the consideration of liberty, peace, happiness, and comparative exemption from a thousand dangers to which passion exposes us in life, should be made to guard ourselves in this particular. Never indulge in passion until you have considered the end.

DINNER TO MR. WISE.—A dinner was given to the Hon. HENRY A. WISE, by the citizens of Norfolk, on Thursday, the 30 ult., as a mark of their high respect for his public character. When Mr. Wise's health had been drunk, he rose and delivered a speech marked wih all his fervor and eloquence and fraught with sentiments of patriotism. At the conclusion of his speech he proposed the folfowing toast, which was received with "three times three:"

Reform of the General Government.—must be founded in the Union of all true republicans on the broad fundamental principles of the Bill of Rights. Reform in Virginia—in the union of the Chesapeak and Trans-Montane counties of the Commonwealth, for the Internal Improvement of the West and of the State's Sea-port at Norfolk and Portsmouth.

The "union of all true republicans!" let this be our rallying cry, and our country is safe.

FROM FLORIDA.

A slip from the office of the Charleston Mercury brings us advices from St Augustine to the 31st, and Fort Dade to the 26th March. Many of the chiefs of the hostile Seminoles have arrived at Fort Dade, and there appears now to be but little doubt that the war is at an end so far as the Indian chiefs are concerned. Oseola is the only chief of standing that holds out, and and it is said that he has lost his influence, and has retired in disgust no one knows where. So ends a war, in which a handful of savages have out generalled the flower of the American army, and caused the two highest officers in the service to be court martialled.

LAW ELOQUENCE IN KENTUCKY.—The following powerful, elegant and classical appeal was made in a court of justice somewhere in Kentucky by one of the learned heads of the bar—Gentlemen of the jury do you think my client who lives in the pleasant valley of Kentucky, where the land is rich and the soil are fertile—would be guilty of stealing eleving little skains of cotting! I think not, I reckon not, calculate not; and I guess gentlemen of the jury, that you had better bring my client in not guilty—for if you convict him, he and his son John will lick the whole of you.

A FAIR HIT.

The editor of the Boston Courier, thus hits off a portion of the follies of the times:

We had once a mimic Byron, with his collar down, in every pathetic young gentleman; next came the Pelham curls, and sublime manners drawn by Bulwer; but now, our young dandies content themselves with little canes, and large locks over their right eyes. It was wittily remarked the other day, that all the young men at ——, seemed to have been struck with lightning on the left side of the head.

BASHFULNESS.—The Boston Post says, a young fellow went once to court a girl, and being very bashful, he waited some time, not knowing what to say. At length he broke silence by saying, "father's cow had a calf to-day and it was all over white like a sheep."

Sangfroid—"Darn' em, "said Jonathan, at the battle of Bunker Hill," they're shooting bullets, when one of them passed through the top of his hat.

A prisoner at the bar of the Mayor's Court, being called on to plead to an indictment for larceny, was told by the clerk to hold up his right hand. The man immediately held up his left hand.—'Hold up your right hand,' said the clerk. "Please your honor," said the culprit, still keeping his left hand up, 'please your honor, I am left handed."

SCENE IN THE WOODS—"Hey, Jim, what you creep so softly for after dat squirrel, when your gun got no lock on um?"—"Hush, hush; Squirrel don't know dat, you nigger.

LOUIS PHILLIPPE is considered, without exception, the richest man on earth.—He is in the income of 32,000,000 of franks—besides the enjoyment of the private fortune of the Orleans family.—
