county were instructed to report. At these places the Sun's correspondents compiled the return and telegraphed the result to Baltimore. To instance some of the difficulties that were overcome, in Somerset county a courier had to sail from Smith's Island to Crisfield, a distance of ten miles, and then telegraph his information of ten miles, and then telegraph his information of ten miles, and then telegraph his information of the dimediate that were ebrated her one hundredth birthday at Newport, R. Her eyesight was remarkably good up at a break-neck rate of speed from Deal's Island, which is twenty-five miles away.

The longest ride made by any of the couriers to about four years ago, but by the use of glasses she can read and knit rapidly. Her mind and memory are as clear as ever, and she takes great was in Dorchester county. It was a forty mile interest in the events of the day. Mrs. Greene dash from Hooper's Island to Cambridge. He met couriers from intermediate districts on his

The only obstacle that could not be surmounted was the delay in counting the votes in the districts where the local contests brought about a complicated scratching of tickets. But just as soon as the last ticket was counted the Sun's agents were off with the news. Throughout the live-long night they were riding, sailing, rowing and telegraphing. Daylight broke and found them still at work, for it was long after sunrise before the count was finished in a great many of the districts. From each county, however, the Sun's several editions of Wednesday contained comprehensive dispatches, and for Thursday's paper the full returns were on hand.

Evans was arrested in Berkely county, West Virginia, in April, 1865, and pleaded guilty to horse-stealing and was sentenced to three years' imprisonment. While on his way to the penitentiary he escaped from his guard, and nothing was heard of him until a few days ago when he was seen in Berkely. A bench warrant was issued by Judge Faulkner, and Evans was re-arrested and is now in jail. He had been living in Ohio, were he married his cousin, who knew nothing of his criminal history. Evans will have to serve out his term of imprisonment unless the Governor pardons him.

The Paramency.—Referring to the recent frequent mention of the name of Hog. Samuel J. Tilden for the presidency, the New York Sunsays there can be no question that if Mr. Tilden were in a situation to accept the commination next year he would be nominated by acclammation, and that then the following election would be substantially on one side. But the Sun adds: 'Devoted as Mr. Tilden is to the welfare of the democracy, and still anxious to render every possible service to the people, there are no circumstances under which Mr. Tilden can be induced to accept this nomination. The democracy will be obliged to look elsewhere for their candidate in 1884. In to look elsewhere for their candidate in 1884. In

The penalty for a viola-tion of this provision of the law is twenty-five 96 dollars. Eighteen boats violated it Friday. They did it deliberately, paying the fine so as to get a good berth and be in readiness at the break of day. After crossing the line they selected positions and marked them with lights attached to poles.

This done they waited until four o'clock and then put out their sink-boxes and decoys. At the WHOLE and GROUND. first approach of daylight the shooting began, and never ceased until dark. As a general thing the boats are owned by Havre de Grace gunners. These gunners for-merly made a living by killing ducks for the city markets, but so many sportsmen have flocked to Havre de Grace in recent years that professional shooting is rapidly becoming a thing of the past, because more money can be made by 1884 hiring the boats to amateurs. A scow, with sink-boat, decoys, batteau and a crew will fetch from $50 to $100 a day. The scows are rigged with sail and fitted up with cabin and sleeping and cooking apartments. The batteaux are used to bring in the drifting game. When a party hires a scow they divide the expense and take turns in the sink boat. The scow is anchored a quarter of a mile to windward.
