[From the Maryland Farmer.]

MR. JILKS ON FARMERS' CLUBS.

As I very frequently have to remark to Jezebel—that's Mrs. Jilks; quite a literary character; may be she'll tell you some of her experiences in cookin' and dairy matters, and raising poultry; she's good in konversashun, and I have no doubt you could get her to put it in writing! at any rate, that mode would suit me best; being a leetle hard o' heearing I require plain large print, as I sometimes miss a word in konversashun—as I was a-sayin,' I have to tell Jezebel very often, I haint got much edgerkashun, and kant pretend to rite as well as the rest of your learned correspondents, but I keep on readin' and obsarvin'—I'm a powerful obsarver—and notwithstanding my defishency, I know a thing or two. I've been watchin' the way farmers generally manige things, and I wonder they don't git along better'n tha do; it's a mighty strange thing they keep so poor, and lead sick a grubbin,' pokin' kind ov a life; and havin' noted some pints of his practice, which I think can be improved, and as I rite for the advancement of the cause, I hope nobody won't git offended if I rite plainly, bein' one ov the family like.

Firstly, I've noticed the great benefits the farmin' kommunito derives from jinin' teems; ef a nabor gits stalled, how soon the load moves on with the help of an additional team or two; and in thrashing, when three or four nabors jine and help out all around, how smoothly everything works with the help of a little axle grease. It's jes so about a Farmers' Club. Now there's a part of farmin' that has to be done by the mind, the thinking and planning and arranging part; what we might call the mental work of farmin,' and it appears to me it would be jes as benefishal fur farmers to jine heads in head-work, as to jine teems in teem-work, and I kan't think enny smart farmer will deny the necessity of making the head-work jes as neer rite as possible, fur the efficiency of the team-work depends on how the head sets and keeps it a-goin.'

But these yere Farmers' Clubs have a good deel to contend with among the very peeple to be benefited by them; ef a man takes a strong hold of the Club, works hard at it, and appears anxious to give 'em a powerful lift in the matter, they are very likely to say, "oh, he wants a orphis," and to show how much he wants an orphis they stay away from the Club. Them's the envyous ones. Leavin' out saying ennything about how much more worthy a man is of an office who works for the elevation of his class, than them slippery politishans that feed 'em on raw beef and rot-gut, jes fur what kan be got out ov 'em, it seems a funny thing fur people to refuse to be elevated and improved fur feer o' somebody else's gittin' elevated and improved too.

Then there's sum that plank down the stamps like a crack shot at a turkey-match, and lay out enuf "snap" at the fust meetin' to run the machine fur a yeer, providin' the artikul was ekally divided amung all the meetins, an' that finally git to cool about it tha stay away if the cat's goin's to have kittens. Them's the jerkin' ones.

Then sum find out it's goin' to cost sum munny; they kan't afford to take a farmin' paper; they don't bleeve in book farmin,' cause they don't know what that is; hain't seen none ov it, an' kan't describe it; tha don't take the county paper cause the "ring" maniges it, and fur that reason tha don't want to kno the price o' weet, an' who gits married; this kind never stops to think wot a deer thing ignorance is; well, they leeve.

Them's the stingy ones.

Then there's sum find out it's goin' to take time, an' insted o' goin' to the Club meetin' every time, tha go off to the (I am very sorry to say it,) grogshop, and giv' 'em a lecktur all the evenin' about wot sites o' time a man would spen' in tendin' on one, and then take another drink on the subjek.

Them's the onery ones.

Then there's some find out tha ain't as smart as they thought they was, and as everybody else don't seem to think they are the only wise ones, they "don't like the kompany," and tha leeve.

Them's the self-ritchus ones.

Then there's sum that don't git all their resolutions carried, and tha "don't like the way things is maniged," and to help manige 'em rite, tha leeve.

Them's the obstinit ones.

Now, by the time you get all the envyous ones, and the jerky ones, and the stingy ones, and the onery ones, and the self-ritchus ones, and the obstinit ones away, there's usually nobody left but the Sekretary, and he gets sued fur the debt of the Club, and gits disgusted, and he leaves, and sum feller cums along and writes "Ikabod" on the gavel.

In jinin' heads, as in jinin' teems, everybody's got to give in a little, and then when the majority votes, turn in, hook up, and pull altogether, and the load gits to the top ov the hill.

When I set out to rite this letter, Mr. Editur, I hadn't no notion it would be so long, and as it is very late—nigh onto half-past nine—I must close, or Jezebel won't like my usin' up so much of the dip on book-farmin' matters. I've a notion o' tellin' you my opinion some other time of wot a Farmers' Club might do, providin' we could "jine heads" successfully. Youres hopefilly,

EZEKIEL JILKS.

CLOVER HAY AND THE HEAVES.—It is a prevalent idea, that many cases of the disease of horses known as heaves, are caused by clover hay. This, we think, has not yet been proved. That horses which have been fed on clover hay, have had the heaves, cannot be denied, but the same is also true with regard to timothy hay, and in fact, any food usually given to horses.

If a horse is used for fast driving on the roads, and is fed exclusively on hay of any kind, he will soon have the heaves in their worst form; because such bulky food distends the stomach so much, that it encroaches upon the space properly belonging to the lungs, and thus prevents their proper action. Horses are very fond of good clover hay, and if it is given to them in excess, are more likely to eat too much of it than when they are fed on hay made of other grasses.

We think the true cause of heaves is in hard work or driving when the stomach is unduly distended by any kind of food, and the proper remedy for prevention is to feed more grain or other concentrated food, and less hay or other bulky material.

POETIC.—A young man in town made his girl a present the other day, and on a slip of paper accompanying it he indited the poetic sentiment: "To my sam to be wife." The girl says what sam so be will be, but she thinks this sam's to be.

CHICKEN CHOLERA.—Those who keep themselves posted in our Agricultural press, will find no lack of remedies for the disease which now, under the name of chicken cholera, is so prevalent among poultry.

Some of them are so simple and easy of application as to merit a trial, for, if not effective they can do no harm. One is to allow the poultry to drink nothing but lime water. This can readily be prepared by slacking lime in a barrel, and when settled use the clear water only.—Another way is to always keep a small piece of alum or champhor, or both, in the drinking water given to the fowls.—Certain it is that poultry which have been treated by these methods have been exempt from the disease.

Another remedy, which comes to us highly recommended, is composed of fifteen parts of pulverized alum, eight of antimony and three of camphor. The compound should be mixed with the feed at the rate of a tablespoonful twice a day to ten fowls. One of our friends claims to have cured bad cases by administering small pills of the above mixture, every three or four hours. Our friend further states, that a small piece of lump camphor, in the drinking water, will prevent "gapes" in young chickens.

THE CATTLE TRADE OF THE UNITED STATES.—The ninth census gives some interesting statistics of the number of cattle and the trade in the United States.—There are 13,566,005 beeves and store cattle, 8,935,332 milch cows, 1,319,271 working oxen, 28,477,951 sheep and lambs, and 25,134,569 swine, distributed among the States and Territories. In the State of Maryland there are 98,047 beeves and store cattle, 95,794 milch cows, 22,491 working oxen, 129,697 sheep, 257,893 hogs.

In the State of Virginia there are 227,285 beeves and store cattle, 188,471 milch cows, 45,987 working oxen, 370,145 sheep, 674,670 hogs.

Of the steers and fat oxen not far from 400,000 are annually slaughtered west and south of Chicago, 150,000 in that city, and about 750,000 are sent to the cities of New York, Albany, Boston, Philadelphia and Baltimore. Fully 5,000,000 sheep and lambs are used up annually, of which more than 1,000,000 were sold to slaughterers in New York city. In eleven Western States from which returns were received there were packed last season 4,868,448 hogs; very nearly 2,000,000 were received in New York alive, not far from 1,000,000 in Boston, and about 500,000 in Baltimore and Philadelphia, so that at least 10,000,000 are yearly slaughtered in all the States.

PREMATURE BURIAL.—In these days of sudden deaths it seems necessary to have all the knowledge we can get to enable us to know when the spark of life is really extinct, for one instance after another occurs, calculated to startle us by the fear there has been another victim of premature burial. During the prevalence of the small-pox in Philadelphia, it was feared there were many such cases, and later, that of Mrs. Brendlinger, of Montgomery county, Pa., whose sudden death and life like appearance caused the postponement of the funeral for several days.

An earnest appeal for knowledge on the subject was made by a contributor to the Boston Transcript, of Nov. 30, which was responded to in the same paper of Dec. 5th, by a physician of that city, under the title of sure test of death.

Probably the surest test if one be living or dead is that of Dr. Magnis, of Breslau, Germany, whose experiments, extending over many years, have been carefully and studiously made. The experiment is so simply made as to be equally sure and practical, tried by the laity, as by those belonging to the medical profession. He ties a string snugly and securely round the finger and toe. If the subject be a living one, the member thus tied about becomes red and constantly deeper and darker colored, till it becomes a blue red from the point where it is ligated. Just where the string rests there will be a small white ring. If the subject have calloused, or hard skinned fingers and toes, it would be well to ligate the lower pendent portion of the ear, since the test cannot be so satisfactorily made upon a larger member of the body; the numerous large and deep lying veins could not be so readily compressed as in muscles with a close proximity to the bone. His experiments have in every instance proven satisfactory.

DESCRIPTION OF YEDO.—Yedo is described in the Japan Gazette of Nov. 22d, "as an enormous wooden town. You can ride in it for twenty miles—you can't ride through it in less than eight. It contains millions of inhabitants—some say three and a half; but I fancy that number is too great. Now and then it is burned down, built up again, and can, if needed, be carried off bodily and put down somewhere else. Being all built of wood, the wood can be taken down and re-erected, and there are those who think it may walk off some day towards Yokohama, as the Yedo harbor has disappointed the expectations of its foster parents."

AN old fellow who is noted, up town, for his stuttering, as well as for his shrewdness in making a bargain, stopped at a grocery and inquired:

"How m-m-many t-t-turkeys have you g-g-got?"

"Eight, sir," replied the grocer.

"T-t-tough or t-t-tender?"

"Some are tender and some tough," was the reply.

"I k-keep b-b-boarders," said the new customer. "P-pick out the f-f-four t-t-toughest ones, if you p-p-p-please."

The delighted grocer very willingly complied with the unusual request, and said, in his politest tones:

"These are the tough ones, sir."

Upon which the customer cooly put his hand upon the remaining four, and said:

"I'll t-t-take th-th-these!"

THE EUREKA FANNING MILL.

THE GREATEST INVENTION OF THE NINETEENTH CENTURY!

Farmers Look to Your Interest!

THE attention of Farmers and Mechanics is particularly directed to the combined economy, utility and practicability of the Eureka Mill, and to the many other advantages it possesses over every other Fanning Mill which has been introduced to the public

It is the fruit of long and patient investigation by the inventor, who has made it his constant study for over twenty years. He has secured several patents for Mills, and has always been rewarded with the best of success. But not feeling satisfied with his former attainments, he determined to reach the climax, and he now believes that his new invention will warrant him in exclaiming in the joy of his heart, like the philosopher, Pythagoras—EUREKA!—signifying in the Grecian language, "I have found it." This has given the name to this new Mill.

In this Mill are all the former improvements to which have been added several more, adding still greater advantages than were at first anticipated, or even thought possible by the inventor himself. It embraces the three great essentials necessary in every invention:

It combines ECONOMY, UTILITY and PRACTICABILITY!

THE "EUREKA" MILL

is small and lighter, and is capable of doing more and better work in a given time than any other Mill ever invented.

IT IS THE ONLY MILL

that will successfully remove from wheat all such pests as Cockle, Garlic, Oats, Rye, &c.

Should an extra quality of grain for seed or gristing purposes be required, it can be so arranged as to catch in one box perfect grain, and in the other, grain fit for market or mill. Here is made a great saving usually lost sight of: for nearly one quarter of the grain cleaned in the common Mills is lost when sown, on account of shrunken kernels and inferior grain. The Eureka Mill saves all this, and gives seed every kernel of which will grow when put into the ground, and this saving will, in a short time, pay for the Mill.

HINES & BURCHINAL,

Chestertown, Maryland,

Owners of the Mill, are having them manufactured at the Sash Factory and Planing Mill of Noland & Co., Port Deposit, Md., which is a guarantee that they will be put up in the best manner. je17-tf.
