AGRICULTURAL DEPARTMENT.

Improved Dairy Stock.

The attention of farmers and dairymen is turned toward an improvement in dairy stock. They find it costs no more to keep a good cow than a poor one, and while some native cows do not yield over fifteen hundred quarts a year, good Ayrshires range from three to five thousand quarts per year. This additional production, at the same cost of food and care, is greatly to be desired.

Different breeds of cattle possess different distinctive merits.

The Durhams or Shorthorns are distinguished for their early maturity, their readiness to fatten or take on flesh, and the small proportion of offal or waste in the carcass. Some families are very respectable milkers, though this is not a general characteristic of the breed, and although they are excellent for beef, they require succulent pastures, high feeding and careful protection.

The Alderney or Jersey cows are famous for the richness of their milk; in fact, the milk of some Alderneys is about equal to cream. The average quantity, however, is short of that of other breeds, and they are quite tender and require high feeding.

The Ayrshires are a medium sized, docile, hardy breed of cattle. Their milk is richer than that of the average native cow although not so rich as that of the Alderney. They are easily kept, and will thrive on coarse food and scant pastures. Extensive breeders of Shorthorns and Alderneys, express the opinion that three Ayrshires can be maintained in good condition on the food required to sustain two Shorthorns, and added to this is the fact that in proportion to their weight they will yield a larger amount of milk than any other cattle.

The general claim made for the Ayrshires is hardiness of constitution, tendency to fatten easily; small bones, symmetrical figure, and a capacity of yielding a large quantity of rich milk, giving a large return, both in milk and flesh, for the food consumed.

These are desirable as well as profitable qualities, and have been attained by years of careful selection in breeding.—Dutchess Farmer.

Remedies for American Blight.

Take half a peck of quick lime, half a pound of flower of sulphur, and a quarter of a pound of lamp-black. Mix with boiling water, so as to form a thick paint.—With this, in winter, when the leaves are off, paint the branches, having first removed all loose branches. Remove the soil from the bottom of the stem to the stem to the main roots, and paint also the roots as far as they are exposed. The paint should be warm when used. When it has become dry the trees should be looked over, and all cracks and holes stopped with well worked clay. After frost, the clay stoppings should be dressed again, to close any cracks that may occur. Ammoniacal tobacco-water and brine may also be employed with success. Or, dissolve one pound of soda in a gallon of rain water; shake this up in a vessel with a pint of spirits of turpentine until they amalgamate; add more water to have the quantity up to ten gallons. Apply to the trees with a garden-engine or syringe having a fine rose. Or, mix goose-grease and flower of sulphur together in proportion of eight ounces of the former to two ounces of the latter, and apply with a paint brush. Coal tar, naptha, and linseed oil, laid on with a brush, have also been used with good effect.

Care of Horses at Night.

Read the following from the North British Review:

"We have seen too many dirty stables in our travels, stables in which the mud and manure were more than ankle deep, not to know there is great room for improvement. Few men who handle horses give proper attention to the feet and legs. Especially is this the case on farms.—Much time is spent of a morning in rubbing, brushing and smoothing the hair on the sides and hips, but at no time are the feet examined and properly cared for.—Now, be it known, that the feet of a horse require more care than the body. They need ten times as much, for in one respect they are almost the entire horse. All the grooming that can be done won't avail anything if the horse is forced to stand where his feet will be filthy. In this case the feet will become disordered, and then the legs will get badly out of fix; and with bad feet and bad legs, there is not much else of the horse fit for anything. Stable prisons are generally severe on the feet and legs of horses; and unless these buildings can afford a dry room, where a horse can walk around, lie down or roll over, they are not half so healthy and comfortable to the horse as the pasture, and should be avoided by all good hostlers in the country.

SOWED CORN FOR WINTER FORAGE.—A writer in the Ohio Farmer says: My experiments with it have resulted in the following conclusions:

First, that one acre of sowed corn in drills three feet apart is worth two acres planted to winter cattle on. The first I sowed in June, four years ago, from the 10th to the 20th; stock did well on it fed in the bundle. I have raised some every year since, but sowed late, and cattle would not fatten fast enough to suit me. Last year I sowed in May, about the 20th, three pecks per acre; cultivated twice, and cut and stocked, then cut with the Empire feed cutter, and fed from one to two bushels per head, and am receiving gratifying results from it now.

In sowing early the corn eared well, in fact a good part would have done to crib, therefore, having more heart or substance, and by cutting it from one to one and a half inches long, cattle eat every part clean. It is not as much work to cut the fodder as it would be to husk the corn; the stalks are sweeter and softer than when handled as they are when it is husked. The corn should, when cured, be piled as close as possible, to keep it from drying too much. One acre fed the first of this winter 25 head three weeks. Since then I have had but enough to feed once a day, one bushel per head, then straw in the yard at noon and hay at night. My cattle are doing well, in fact growing.

IT IS AN ESTABLISHED FACT, that Consumption can be cured; but it is far better to prevent the cruel disease from fastening itself on the system, by the timely use of a remedy like Dr. Wistard's Balsam of Wild Cherry. This standard preparation will speedily cure a cough or cold and even Consumption often yields to its great power.

A GIRL speaking of a dance she had attended, said: "The dancin' wasethic', but the huggin' was heavenly."

COURTING across the gate will soon be in order again.

Horticultural Hints.

When fruit trees occupy the ground, nothing else should—except very short grass.

Fruitfulness and growth of the tree cannot be expected the same year.

There is no plum that the curculio will not take, though any kind may sometimes escape for one year in a place.

Peach borers will not do much damage when stiff clay is heaped up around the tree a foot high.

Pear blith still puzzles a great many men. The best remedy is to plant two for every one that dies.

If you don't know how to prune don't hire a man from the other side of the sea that knows less than you do.

Don't cut off a big lower limb, unless you are a renter and don't care what becomes of the tree when your time is out.

A tree with the limbs coming out near the ground is worth four trees trimmed up ten feet, and so on till they are not worth anything.

Trim down, not up.

Shorten in, not lengthen up.

If you had an arm cut off, you would feel it at your heart—a tree will not only feel, but rot to the heart.

When anybody tells you of a gardener that understands all about horticulture and agriculture, and that can be hired, don't believe a word of it, for there are no such men to be hired. Such a man can make more than you can afford to give him, and if he has sense enough to understand his business, he will also have enough to know this.

CLIMBING PLANTS.—There is nothing so charming as a vine-clad porch, and there is hardly anything that is so easy to get. A generous neighbor will furnish "slips," or the plants can be obtained of any of our florists. The Norristown Herald gives the following desirable climbers: Chinese and Japan honey-suckles present a beautiful appearance when trained upon short posts. They are also suitable for covering arbors, verandas, lattice framework, &c. The golden-leaved honey suckle with its yellow marbled foliage, is a desirable low climber. The coral yellow and monthly honey suckle can also be made deciduous shrubs, or, if desired, can be trained as common climbers. The sweet-scented, hardy jessamine can be made a shrub or trained as a climber, and will bloom for two months. The sweet-scented clematis is a delightful fragrance and can be trained to grow as a bush or climber, as desired. In the back yards or gardens nothing is prettier than grape vines, especially when shade is required—and then the fruit is just so much gain. A beautiful grape arbor is the glory of the yard or garden.

BUTTER AND CHEESE TRADE.—It will no doubt astonish most readers to learn that the butter and cheese trade of this country is growing rapidly, and asuming a position among our chief exports. But a few years ago we imported large quantities of cheese from England, but now we export a much larger amount to that country, and the reputation of American cheese in the English market is higher than the home product. The New York Bulletin, on the subject of the magnitude of the trade, states that the value of the receipts of butter for the past year, at New York alone, amounts to $20,000,000, and the cheese to over $12,000,000, while wheat was only $26,000,000; corn, $24,000,000; cut meats, about $12,000,000, and lard, $8,000,000, showing that the provision and grain trades, which have been given such prominence above the butter and cheese trade as to almost wholly ignore the latter, are scarcely of greater importace than butter and cheese.

Notice to Farmers.

MOORE & BEACHAM,

TO FARMERS!

"EXCELSIOR."

1873 1873

Composed of 800 lbs. of No. 1 Peruvian Guano, and 1200 pounds of Soluble Phosphate of Lime, (bones dissolved in sulphuric acid,) Potash and Soda,

Forming the most concentrated, universal and durable fertilizer ever offered to the farmer—combining all the stimulating qualities of Peruvian Guano, and the ever durable fertilizing properties of Bones. Excelsior is in fine, dry powder, prepared expressly for drilling, and can be applied in any quantity, however small, per acre; and it is the opinion of many close calculating farmers, after FOURTEEN years experience in testing it side by side with other popular fertilizers, that an application of 100 pounds of Excelsior is equal to from 200 to 300 pounds of any other fertilizer or guano offered for sale, therefore is fully 100 to 200 per cent. cheaper.

☞ Look out for imitations and counterfeits. The popularity of Excelsior has induced unscrupulous parties in this and other cities to copy our trade mark, and resort to other dishonorable means to sell their worthless compounds.

☞ Farmers should see that every Bag is branded as above, with ANALYSIS and OUR NAME in RED LETTERS. All others are counterfeits.

THE EUREKA FANNING MILL.

THE GREATEST INVENTION OF THE NINETEENTH CENTURY!

Farmers Look to Your Interest

THE attention of Farmers and Mechanics is particularly directed to the combined economy, utility and practicability of the Eureka Mill, and to the many other advantages it possesses over every other Fanning Mill which has been introduced to the public.

It is the fruit of long and patient investigation by the inventor, who has made it his constant study for over twenty years. He has secured several patents for Mills, and has always been rewarded with the best of success. But not feeling satisfied with his former attainments, he determined to reach the climax, and he now believes that his new invention will warrant him in exclaiming in the joy of his heart, like the philosopher, Phythagoras—EUREKA!—signifying in the Grecian language, "I have found it." This has given the name to this new Mill.

In this Mill are all the former improvements to which have been added several more, adding still greater advantages than were at first anticipated, or even thought possible by the inventor himself. It embraces the three great essentials necessary in every invention:

It combines ECONOMY, UTILITY and PRACTICABILITY!

THE "EUREKA" MILL

is small and lighter, and is capable of doing more and better work in a given time than any other Mill ever invented.

IT IS THE ONLY MILL

that will successfully remove from wheat all such pests as Cockle, Garlic, Oats, Rye, &c.

Should an extra quality of grain for seed or gristing purposes be required, it can be so arranged as to catch in one box perfect grain, and in the other, grain fit for market or mill. Here is made a great saving usually lost sight of: for nearly one quarter of the grain cleaned in the common Mills is lost when sown, on account of shrunken kernels and inferior grain. The Eureka Mill saves all this, and gives seed every kernel, of which will grow when put nto the ground, and this saving will, in a hort time, pay for the Mill.

HINES & BURCHINAL,

Chestertown, Maryland,

Owners of the Mill, are having them manufactured at the Sash Factory and Planing Mill of Noland & Co., Port Deposit, Md., which is a guarantee that they will be put up in the best manner. je17-tf.
