the nomination of the party by the them. Cleveland convention. His opening speech, at Topeka, on the occasion of the 75th anniversary of the founding of Kansas, was well received in the East. His idea that the Constitution is, "the balance wheel" of progress plus his reputation as a budget balancer in Kansas took well.

OBSERVERS noted that his idea on relief is that the money actually reaching the unemployed and impoverished has not "rocked the Treasury" but that the damage has been done by "abysmal waste through changes of policy, maladministration, and ruthless Well Attended Meeting partisanship." Discussing "whether recovery should precede reform," the Governor took the position that recovery is the greatest reform that we can have.
