"Worth their Weight in Gold"

THIS is an old expression that is almost literally true today as applied to cereals of all kinds. Every golden grain of wheat, oats, barley, or corn, means just so much toward your income, our town's prosperity, and our country's sustenance.

Help the Government Conserve Your Crops by Building Granaries to take care of them. Don't let your precious wheat, barley, oats, corn, or cereal of any kind go to waste.

Let us help you build granaries that will make dollars for you. Never before have the immediate returns from good granaries been as promising as they are now.

You can buy a well-built granary for three-fourths as much oats as it would have cost you "before the war;" for less than one-half as much corn; and almost two-fifths as much wheat.

Come in and see us about your building requirements. We can help you with your plans.

Grain Fields Saved From Fires

During 1917 crops valued at $130,000 were saved from destruction in California through the fire-fighting campaigns initiated through the Farm Bureaus by county agents throughout the State. A Ford auto truck equipped with an extinguisher and other fire-fighting apparatus were purchased by one county by levying an assessment of 2 cents per acre on its grain land. Fifty thousand dollars worth of grain were saved in Stanislaus County alone through its newly organized fire department. San Diego led all the counties in fire protection, with an appropriation of $9,500 for the employment of fire bosses, the securing of equipment, and the paying for labor consumed in fighting fires.

The farmers of California have decided to eliminate at least the losses to their crops due to fires. All the principal grain-producing counties have now secured appropriations and appointed fire bosses and trailers as a result of the combined efforts of their county agents and representatives of the Forest Service.

The smaller boys wish they could go to war, as they learn that in the trenches many Saturday night baths have to be skipped.

CATARRAH DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrah deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarrah Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Medicine acts thru the blood on the mucous surface of the system.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Catarrhal Deafness that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Medicine. Circulars free. All Druggists, 75c.

"Children in War Time"

Lecture by

OWEN R. LOVEJOY

At Chautauqua

Dr. Felix Adler says: "Owen R. Lovejoy well deserves the title of 'Children's Statesman.'"

He is a platform speaker of exceptional distinction and power. He possesses qualifications not often united in a single personality; a very exact knowledge of his subject; a large outlook; humane feeling; a sense of humor that gives a welcome relief to his treatment of even the most sombre subjects. In a word, Mr. Lovejoy on the platform possesses both strength and charm. He speaks to an audience of school children one day, of laboring men the next, club women the next, and business men the next, and to all he carries his message with conviction, for he knows that child labor is not merely a "cause," but that it is a fact to thousands of American children—a fact that will follow them all their lives.

"He is a practical public speaker of exceptional gifts. In addition to being a master of his subject he has a way of expressing himself that is full of delightful surprises at every turn and which challenges your interested attention every minute."—George W. Coleman, Director, Ford Hall Meetings, Boston, Mass.

"He has a rich fund of knowledge and understanding, regarding the whole field of social problems which gives him a steady sense of proportion in presenting his own subject. He is always interesting, has a quick wit and a reassuring union of sympathy and common-sense. His unaffected and charming manner, and his directness, without frills or peculiarity, make him one of the most agreeable speakers to whom I have ever listened."—Julia C. Lathrop, Chief, Children's Bureau, Department of Labor, Washington, D. C.

Hold the Home Lines!

Chautauqua

Every home in the land has been affected by the requirements of the war.

In every community the customary methods of action and control must be reorganized.

New and far-reaching measures of collective effort have had to be adopted suddenly.

Welfare agencies and institutions that before were overloaded, are now struggling with an additional burden of baffling new problems.

The Home CASUALTY LIST:

Children neglected and gone astray.

Homes broken under strain of war.

Sickness and poverty grown apace must be kept as low as possible.

And what of preparation to receive the handicapped returned soldier?

What of the day of reconstruction?

Are the nine-tenths of us who must remain at home doing our utmost, and doing it intelligently?

SOUND SOCIAL CONDITIONS MAKE FOR NATIONAL STRENGTH AND VICTORY.

"The Fortune Hunter"

Recent Popular American Play by Winchell Smith

THIRD DAY AT CHUAUTAUQUA

Many have heard of the four-act comedy, "The Fortune Hnnter." A few have enjoyed seeing it. All will be given the opportunity to see it on the thrid evening of Chautauqua this year. It is to be presented by the famous College Players. "The Fortune Hunter" is a typical American play very much akin to "The Man From Home," which many Chautauquans will doubtless remember. It is predicted that "The Fortune Hunter" will be one of the best plays ever given on any Chautauqua program.

It involves the story of a fellow who although he had money while in college—yes, too much money—at the opening of the play has nothing. He is shiftless and on the brink of ruin. He has a friend upon whose friendship he refuses longer to profit. He starts to make a fortune with a pledge to follow religiously all of the directions and rules of this same friend, who has just been made a partner in a big firm, although while a roommate of our hero in college he had nothing. It is a story of American humor, ingenuity and grit, and can be thoroughly enjoyed by all loyal Americans.

Governors In Forest Fire Campaign

Gov. Withycombe, of Oregon, and Gov. Lister, of Washington, have joined in the Forest Service's campaign against forest fires by issuing proclamations calling attention to the great fire danger and warning campers and other forest users to use the most extreme care. Posters have been sent to the National Forest Supervisors. Slogans on them read: "All Campers Should Carry Shovels" and "Patriotic People Prevent Forest Fires."

To Gather Seed For Timber

This year's seed crop of western yellow pine is unusually abundant in California, and an effort is to be made by forest officers to gather large quantities of the seed for use in the reforestation work of the Forest Service. Western yellow pine is one of the most important sources of the country's timber supply.

Farm Boys Make Money From Moles

"Remember that the mole is the Kaiser's land submarine, and it is up to us to eradicate them as our Nation is cleaning out the sea pirates," reads a letter from a county agent in Oregon to a young hunter of Oregon City. Western Oregon is carrying on an intensive campaign to save her gardens and crops from the ravages of moles. The skin of a native mole is as valuable as any pelt which can be imported; hence county agents devised the plan of organizing the boys in each county to wage war on the moles. The skins are concentrated in a pool by the agent and are marketed when a sufficient quantity has accumulated. Oregon farm lads gain pin money and satisfaction from this work of protecting farm crops against rodent enemies.

Drought-Stricken Farmers Send Special Delegate To Washington

The drought-stricken farmers of Montana, represented at a meeting of Farm Bureau presidents, at Helena, elected J. M. Davis, president of the Teton County, Mont., Farm Bureau, as a special delegate to go to Washington and present the facts of their situation to the Secretary of Agritulture. The expense of sending the delegate was shared by 13 farm bureaus. Mr. Davis, accompanied by Gov. Stewart, of Montana, met in conference with Secretary Houston, the Committee of War Finance Corporation, and other committees. An arrangement was made by which a part of $5,000,000 set aside by the President will be made available for extending credit to Montana farmers in drought-stricken areas for the purchase of winter seed wheat and rye. A special freight rate of one-half the regular rate on hay will be granted to relieve the feed situation, and plans for further relief are being considered by the Secretary of Agriculture and the War Finance Corporation Committee.

The aim of the Government is primarily to aid farmers who have exhausted their resources, in order that they may continue to remain on their farms at a time when the country needs all its farmers. The Department of Agriculture through its special officers, including the county agents, will consider the needs for individual farmers.

Need Of Iron And Steel In Farming

Following the receipt of letters from hardware dealers indicating a serious shortage in the kinds of iron and steel used by country blacksmiths and in farming operations, the Bureau of Markets made a survey of stocks held by wholesale hardware dealers and of their estimated needs for six months. A questionnaire was sent to dealers who furnish supplies directly or through retail dealers to country blacksmiths and farming communities. Replies from some 250 dealers indicate that in most instances supplies on hand on June 1, 1918, were much less than those of a year ago. Many dealers reported a shortage below actual requirements for the next six months, particularly in the case of barbed wire nails, and other fencing materials, sheets for roofing and for silos, and steel bars of a size suitable for wagon tires and farm repair work.

Because of the need for iron and steel in war industries the priorities committee of the War Industries Board requires dealers in need of supplies to file a statement, on blanks provided for that purpose, showing the uses for which the materials are desired. The committee then gives the dealer a rating, determined by the essential character of the supplies required, and the higher ratings received the first attention in distributing the available iron and steel.

Food Conservation On Street Corners

A new kitchen on wheels is carrying the message of food conservation in street meetings to many Boston women who have not been reached directly in any other way. A motor truck, which has been contributed by a public-spirited woman of the city, has been fully equipped for food demonstration that are given by home demonstration agents of the United States Department of Agriculture and the State agricultural college cooperating with the State Food Administration. The truck carries a large sized electric stove, a white-enameled kitchen cabinet, a zinc table for hot dishes, and an enameled table for the actual work of cooking and canning. Two dozen camp chairs are also provided, and other chairs and benches are usually brought out from homes in the vicinity of the demonstration. The audiences have averaged about 60 women, fully as many children, with 10 or 12 men in the background. A trained nurse goes along, who speaks for 15 minutes before or after the regular demonstration on the feeding of children and the importance of milk.

Sheep Raisers Organize

More than 30 county sheep breeders' association have been organized by the sheep specialist of the United States Department of Agriculture in Texas. The object in organizing these associations and the purpose of the members is to raise more and better sheep as a wartime emergency in answer to the Government's call for increased production of wool and mutton. A poster with the slogan "More sheep—better sheep," which is being widely distributed by the Texas sheep specialist, is reported as being an important factor in stimulating interest among sheep raisers.

Better Yieldings Wheat And Oats Developed

Strains of wheat and oats that are superior to ordinary varieties have been developed in cooperative Federal experiments conducted by the United States Department of Agriculture and the New York State College of Agriculture. These experiments have been in operation for about 10 years. Many comparative tests conducted in various parts of the State show that the new strains make better yields than ordinary varieties grown under the same conditions. With some of these strains sufficient seed has been grown to make possible a rather wide distribution in the State, and they are being grown this year on large acreages.

The Germans are not bothered about our proposed army of 5,000,000 Americans, as Kaiser Bill says our census figures are padded, and there aren't that number of men in the United States.
