SATURDAY.....JUNE 18, 1881.

BABY'S LOOKING OUT FOR ME.

Two little busy hands
Patting on the window,
Two laughing, bright eyes
Looking out for me;
Two rosy-red cheeks,
Dented with a dimple,
Mother-bird is coming,
Baby, do you see?

Down by the lilac bush
Something white and azure,
Saw I in the window
As I passed the tree;
Well I knew the apron and
Shoulder-knots of ribbon,
All belonged to Baby,
Looking out for me.

Talking low and tenderly
To myself as mothers will,
Spake I softly, "God in heaven,
Keep my darling free from ill.
Worldly gear and worldly honor,
Ask I not for her of thee;
But from want, and sin, and sorrow,
Keep her pure and free."

Two little waxen hands
Folded soft and silently,
Two little curtained eyes
Looking out no more for me;
Two little snowy cheeks
Dimple-dented never more;
Two little trodden shoes
That will never touch the floor.

Shoulder-ribbon softly twisted,
Apron folded clean and white—
These are left me, and these only,
Of the childish presence bright.

Thus He sent an answer
To my earnest praying;
Thus He keeps my darling
Free from earthly stain;
Thus He folds the pet lamb
Safe from earthly straying,
But I miss her sadly
By the window pane.

Till I look above it,
There with purer vision,
Sad I weep no longer,
The lilac-bush to pass;
For I see her angel
Pure and white and sinless,
Walking with the harpers
By the Sea of Glass.

Two little snowy wings
Softly flutter to and fro,
Two tiny, childish hands
Beckon still to me below;
Two tender angel eyes
Watch me ever earnestly,
Through the loopholes of the skies
Baby's looking out for me!

ETHEL LYNNE BEERS.

Can You Tell?

Can you tell why men who cannot pay small bills can always find money to buy liquor and treat when among friends?

Can any one tell how you young men who are always behind with their landlords can play billiards, night and day, and always be ready for a game of cards when money is at stake?

Can any one tell how such live and support their families who have no income and do no work, when others who are industrious have uphill work to live?

Can any one tell why four-fifths of the young ladies prefer a brainless fop, under a plug hat to a man with brains?

Can any one tell why a man who is always complaining that he cannot afford to subscribe for the local newspaper, and every week borrows it from his neighbor, can afford to attend every traveling show that comes to town?

Sheep That Travel.

Traveling sheep are another of the institutions of the colony in Southern Australia. In a pastoral country like this there must of necessity always be numbers of "stock" changing hands; thus sheep and cattle may be met almost every day passing from one station to another. By law, sheep are compelled to travel six miles per day, cattle nine miles, and horses twenty. Sheep are often met with traveling for "feed." That is the owners thereof, having overstocked their runs, find the grass failing, so they send a large mob of sheep off to some imaginary buyer, some hundreds of miles off, choosing, of course, the route by which they will pick up the most grass, after sauntering along for a month or two, perhaps the rain has come, and there being now plenty of grass, the sheep are brought home by a roundabout way. Sheep of that style are known as "loafers," because the drovers try to go as short a distance as possible each day. All kinds of stock are branded for identification.

COCKROACHES.—To thoroughly rid a house of red and black ants, cockroaches, spiders, bedbugs, and all crawling pests, take two pounds of alum and dissolve it in three or four quarts of boiling water. Let it stand on the fire till the alum disappears; then apply it with a brush while nearly boiling hot to every joint and crevice in your closets, bedsteads, pantry, shelves and the like. Brush the crevices in the floor of the skirting or mop boards, if you suspect that they harbor vermin. Cockroaches will flee the paint which has been washed in cool alum water. If, in washing a ceiling, plenty of alum is added to the lime, it will also serve to keep insects away.

EXTERMINATING RATS.—Get a few pounds of common potash, such as is used by soap-makers, and expose it to the air until it softens to the consistency of putty, then spread it thickly in their holes, and you will in a short time be rid of all rats and mice. The caustic nature of the potash makes their feet sore, and then they lick their feet and that gives them trouble with their mouths; by that time they conclude the neighborhood has become unhealthy and they leave.

A COUNTRYMAN from New Hampshire, who had never heard of a bycycle, came to Boston, and when he beheld a youth whirling along on one of those airy vehicles, he broke out in soliloquy thus: "Golly; hain't that queer. Who'd ever 'spect to see a man ridin' a hoop-skirt."

"YOUR husband is not in to-day, ma'am?" said a collector who called the door. "No, he is not." "Do you know where I can find him?" "I guess he has gone fishing. He carried a glass bottle filled with something he called 'bait.'"

AT a Cincinnati wedding lately the organist entertained the audience awaiting the bridal pair by a series of voluntaries, the last of which unluckily was "Trust her not, she is fooling thee," at which he was hard at work as the bridal procession walked up the aisle.

A YOUNG wife lately lost her husband, who was about seventy years old. "But how did you happen to marry a man of that age?" asked one of her friends. "Why," said the young widow, "you see I only had the choice between two old men, and, of course, I took the oldest."

JOSH BILLINGS SAYS: "I haven't much doubt but that man sprang from the monkey, but what bothers me is where the cursed monkey sprung from."

A lump of wet saleratus applied to the spot stung by a wasp or bee will afford instant relief. The alkali neutralizes the poison.

SAMMY SPRIGGINS, a prospective heir, thinks he would rather read his uncle's last will than his own revised testament.—N. Y. News.
