Partial to Parties

ODERN parties are taking a new slant. The guests do the cooking. Erstwhile parties were notable for guests being guests and hosts being hosts. In fact so busy was the hostess for days before the party, in order that the guests might be served without. lifting a finger, that it was not unusual to be entertained by a weary hostess.

It's Different Today Perish the thought. Today the guests do the work-and like it.

Try giving a party where every guest prepares at least one dish. It's really good sport, and good Be sure that you have plenty of canned peas on hand, for you'll be surprised how many people will say that their own particular crackerjack culinary performance calls for peas. Peas are partial to parties.

If you have some patty shells or pastry cases on hand and would like to supply a recipe for a guest who is racking his brains for something to make, here is a good

Party Peas in Pastry Cases: Make a white sauce of two tablespoons butter, two tablespoons flour, three-fourths cup evaporated milk and all of the liquor from one No. 2 can of peas and one 2ounce can of mushrooms. Season with salt and pepper. Add the peas and the mushrooms and also one-fourth cup of shredded pimiento.' Reheat and serve in pastry cases, or in small patty shells. This serves six persons.*
