"Progress" and the Constitution.

Mr. Stevens, the master-spirit of the radical party in Congress and out of it, has said: "Some of the members of the Senate seemed to doubt their powers under the constitution, which they had just repudiated, and wholly outside of which all agreed that we were acting, else our whole work of reconstruction was usurpation." Even the New York Times, which represents a more cautious radical sentiment, has said: "So much of the strong effort of the last six years, military and civil, has been done outside of the letter of the constitution, that it is vain labor to appeal to any absolute constitutional guide however earnestly moderate and conservative men may desire to make such an appeal."

There is no more ominous sign that the country is drifting towards unknown and dangerous shores than an impaired respect and veneration of the American constitution. The sneers and scoffs with which all appeals to that fundamental law of our government are met by the extreme radicals, and the grave declaration of more reflecting organs of that party, like the Times, that "it is vain labor to appeal to any absolute constitutional guide," indicate a want of intelligent appreciation of the principles and value of free constitutional forms which, if prevalent among a majority of the citizens of this country, would render them an easy prey to the usurpation of all rights and liberty. It is a common thing to hear from the radical press that the constitution formed in 1787, with its government of limited powers, does not meet the wants and necessities of 1867; that the country has outgrown the constitution; and that we might as well attempt to make the garment of a child fit a man as that instrument, fabricated in our political infancy, meet the requirements of a republic eighty years old. It is difficult to understand what want of adaptation there is between those maxims of political wisdom, the product of centuries of experience in England, embodied and applied in the constitution by the greatest statesmen of America, and the extraordinary material growth and progress of the country. Certain it is that, under this constitution, we have run a career of wealth and prosperity unparalleled in the annals of nations, and which was never interrupted till its principles were departed from. Besides, the constitution, among its other evidences of sagacity and forecast, contains within itself an explicit provision by which it may be legally changed, whenever in the opinion of the people such a change is necessary. It therefore meets all possible demands of progress, whether material or political, and no necessity whatever can arise for going in time of peace for years outside the fundamental law which the people have themselves enacted.

General Grant may yet realize in his own person that there is "many a slip between cup and lip." His friends, who have succeeded in silencing all opposition to his nomination, are evidently growing dissatisfied with their preference. Mr. Halstead, of the Cincinnati Commercial, writes from Washington that some of the leading Radicals contemplate and urge the dropping of Grant at the Chicago Convention, and the substitution of Ben Wade as the candidate. Their line of argument is thus given: "Grant has been virtually nominated for some months. It is plain that his apparent candidacy has not been productive of the slightest popular enthusiasm. He has not added a particle of strength to the Republican party in any quarter. On the contrary, the surface indications have not been good for some weeks. The Connecticut and Chicago elections are not encouraging. The thing to do is to make a timely change in our leadership. Benjamin F. Wade is the only man who can be that candidate. Let us seize the opportunity and save the party."

On the other hand "Old Ben" may have to acknowledge that it is possible for vaulting ambition to o'erleap itself and fall on t'other side. As the time approaches for the consummation of his ambitious schemes the Radical papers of the West are growing bitter in their denunciations of him. The Chicago Tribune says:—"Few persons, we imagine, would seriously propose to elect Mr. Wade as President. He has neither the culture, the temper, the education nor the judgment requisite for the position. No profane attestations will convince any one that he is in any way fitted for it." The Detroit Post says that Mr. Wade is unfitted for the position of Vice-President by his lack of natural sagacity and caution. Even the Cincinnati Commercial, apparently his friend from the above quotation, sees a formidable obstacle in the way of his elevation.—It says: "There are a dozen Senators to whom the elevation of Ben Wade to the Presidency will not be pleasing. Several of them, we suspect, would rather see Johnson than Wade in possession of the White House."

Two years since a hole was bored for oil at Rocky river, near Cleveland.—Without reaching oil, the workmen were driven off by escaping gas, to which fire was afterwards set, and has been burning ever since, in a flame from six to twenty feet high.

TO FARMERS!

Pacific Guano Company's SOLUBLE

PACIFIC GUANO!

PRICE REDUCED TO $56.00 PER TON.

THE USE OF THIS GUANO in Maryland for several years for Corn, Tobacco and other Spring Crops, as well as for Wheat, has established its excellence. It possesses all the quickness of Peruvian Guano, with permanent qualities not possessed by that article.

Experience has shown that this Guano ripens the Wheat crop from five to six days earlier than the Super Phosphates. It also ripens Tobacco earlier, and produces a crop of better quality. The Pacific Guano Company has authorized the above reduction in consequence of the depressed condition of the farming interests in the Southern States. It is the purpose of the Company to furnish the best fertilizer at the lowest price, which they are able to do by reason of their large capital and facilities. The Guano is warranted same in quality as heretofore sold by us. For sale by dealers.

TO FARMERS and PLANTERS.

WE would call the attention of Farmers and Planters to our Double Refined Poudrette.

It is composed of Night Soil, from which the impurities have been strained and extracted, after which it is dried, pulverized into a fine substance, and for Corn is the cheapest Fertilizer in the market. It is used in the hill, a small handful being sufficient to insure a good crop, and it will force the crop earlier, by two weeks, than any other Fertilizer. Hear what a few of the Farmers and planters say of the effect of it on Corn.

CERTIFICATES:

Extract from a letter received from Professor MARTIN, of Hampden Sidney College, Virginia, dated July 1, 1867:

The Double Refined Poudrette is operating like a charm on my crop and attracting universal attention from all beholders. I am already satisfied that it is the cheapest and surest renovator for our worn-out lands.

Extract from a letter received from F. HOLCOMBE, Savannah, Ga., Sept. 25, 1867:

I used the Double Refined Poudrette, bought of you last spring, on Corn, I think it increased the yield one-half. I consider it an excellent manure.

We are unable to give any certificates from Maryland, as it has not been introduced fairly into this market, but we feel confident that it will give general satisfaction, and we only ask of you a trial.

We have also for sale Bone Dust, Baynes' Fertilizer, Guanos, Phosphates, Ground Plaster, Lime, and all kinds of Fertilizers.

Address all communications to, and any information desired will be given on application to THOS. BAYNES & SON, Agents, 139 McKidery's Wharf, Foot of Marsh Market, Baltimore, Md.

AGENTS WANTED FOR The Official History OF THE WAR,

ITS CAUSES, CHARACTER, CONDUCT AND RESULTS,

BY HON. ALEXANDER H. STEPHENS.

A book for all Sections and all Parties.

This great work presents the only complete and impartial analysis of the Causes of the War yet published, and gives those interior lights and shadows of the great conflict only known to those high officers who watched the flood tide of revolution from its fountain springs, and which were so accessible to Mr. Stephens from his position as second officer of the Confederacy. To a public that has been surfeited with apparently similar productions, we promise a change of fare, both agreeable and salutary and an intellectual treat of the highest order. The Great American War has AT LAST found a historian worthy of its importance, and at whose hands it will receive that moderate, candid, and impartial treatment which truth and justice so urgently demand.

The intense desire every where manifested to obtain this work, its official character and ready sale, combined with an increased commission, make it the best subscription book published.

One Agent in Easton, Pa. reports 72 subscribers in four days. One in Boston, Mass. 103 subscribers in four days. One in Memphis, Tenn. 106 subscribers in five days.
