BUREAU OF IMMIGRATION.

Secetary Badenhoop of The State Office Gives Out Some Interesting Facts.

"According to my books and reports received from various parts of the state," says Mr. Herman J. Badenhoop, secretary of the board of commissioners of the Bureau of Immigration of Maryland, in his report of the operations of the bureau for the 12 months ended April 30, 1805, "just 19,814 acres of land were sold to people who came here from another state or country during the past year, and many desirable settlers were added to the population of our state. In the lower counties of the Easton shore 4,555 acres of land were sold to 25 families, embracing 101 persons; in the southern counties of the Western Shore 2,848 acres were sold to 15 families, consisting of 53 persons, and 39 German families, embracing 163 persons, settled upon 3,758 acres of land in Dorchester county. Since the last report 4,033 desirable emigrants have settled in Maryland, of which 3,276 were Europeans and the rest from other parts of the United States."

The largest part of these emigrants, Mr. Badenhoop says, are from Germany (1,529.) Austria-Hungary furnished the second largest quota (842), and the British Isles were third with 610. Of those who came here from other states the German element again predominated, showing how closely this Teutonic people is associated with the art of agriculture.
