Tired, Nervous Mothers

Make Unhappy Homes—Their Condition Irritates Both Husband and Children—How Thousands of Mothers Have Been Saved From Nervous Prostration and Made Strong and Well.

Mrs. Chester Curry | Mrs. Chas. F. Brown

A nervous, irritable mother, often on the verge of hysterics, is unfit to care for children; it ruins a child's disposition and reacts upon herself. The trouble between children and their mothers too often is due to the fact that the mother has some female weakness, and she is entirely unfit to bear the strain upon her nerves that governing children involves; it is impossible for her to do anything calmly.

The ills of women act like a firebrand upon the nerves, consequently nine-tenths of the nervous prostration, nervous despondency, "the blues," sleeplessness, and nervous irritability of women arise from some derangement of the female organism.

Do you experience fits of depression with restlessness, alternating with extreme irritability? Are your spirits easily affected, so that one minute you laugh, and the next minute you feel like crying?

Do you feel something like a ball rising in your throat and threatening to choke you; all the senses perverted, morbidly sensitive to light and sound; pain in the ovaries, and especially between the shoulders; bearing down pains; nervous dyspepsia, and almost continually cross and snappy?

If so, your nerves are in a shattered condition, and you are threatened with nervous prostration.

Proof is monumental that nothing in the world is better for nervous prostration than Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; thousands and thousands of women testify to this fact.

Mrs Chester Curry, Leader of the Ladies' Symphony Orchestra, 42 Saratoga St., East Boston, Mass., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"For eight years I was troubled with extreme nervousness and hysteria, brought on by irregularities. I could neither enjoy life nor sleep nights; I was very irritable, nervous and despondent.

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was recommended and proved to be the only remedy that helped me. I have daily improved in health until I am now strong and well, and all nervousness has disappeared."

Mrs. Charles F. Brown, Vice-President of the Mothers' Club, 21 Cedar Terrace, Hot Springs, Ark., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I dragged through nine years of miserable existence, worn out with pain and nervousness, until it seemed as though I should fly. I then noticed a statement of a woman troubled as I was, and the wonderful results she derived from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I decided to try it. I did so, and at the end of three months I was a different woman. My nervousness was all gone. I was no longer irritable, and my husband fell in love with me all over again."

Women should remember that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the medicine that holds the record for the greatest number of actual cures of female ills, and take no substitute.

Free Advice to Women.

Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., invites all sick women to write to her for advice. Mrs. Pinkham's vast experience with female troubles enables her to tell you just what is best for you, and she will charge you nothing for her advice.

BETTER ROADS.

Two amendments to the constitution of Maryland are now before the voters of the state. The first, which relates to the abridgement of the suffrage, is taking so much in the public prints and the political speeches that it is probable the second will not receive the attention which it deserves. And yet its importance to the material welfare of the commonwealth is so great that it merits a special campaign for its adoption.

This amendment, in general, refers to the borrowing and lending ability of the state government, but the meat of it is in the following words:

"But nothing in this section or in the constitution contained shall deprive the General Assembly of the power to apportion among and to appropriate to the city of Baltimore and the several counties of the state out of any funds in the treasury not otherwise appropriated a sum of money not exceeding four hundred thousand dollars each year, to be expended only in the construction and maintenance of public roads and highways under and in accordance with such regulations as the General Assembly may from time to time prescribe."

Four hundred thousand dollars a year is not a large sum to meet even partially the bad condition of our highways. Anyone who has traveled over Maryland or who ventures a few miles from Maryland's chief city sees how sadly in need we are of better roads. The present highways are in a wretched state. Every day Maryland is advertised as a state whose roads are not fit for decent traveling. All the vast automobile literature exposes Maryland's lack and works a constant injury not only to the value of our property, but to the interests of our trade and investment.

Better roads would mean higher prices for our lands, larger trade for our stores and hotels, cheaper transportation for our farmers and a general uplift in the whole prosperity of the state.

Fortunately, no partisanship threatens the passage of this amendment. The good men of both political organizations are cordially in favor of it. The only danger is that in the excitement over the franchise amendment it may be lost sight of, and it may not get as many votes as it should have. We hope therefore, that the newspapers and the political speakers will do all they can to keep it before their audiences. From a monetary point of view it means far more than the other amendment. Its defeat would be a disgrace and a disaster, for it would take Maryland out of the line of progress and make the conditions even worse than they are at present.

Let everyone work and vote for good roads.

HINT FOR CHURCHWORKERS.

There's a hint for churchworkers in the following which might be utilized by an energetic minister just at this season.

Rev. S. W. Parvis, the pastor of Clifton Heights M. E. Church, uses simple, ordinary objects to accomplish wonders in church work says the Philadelphia Press. It has been the practice for the trustees of the church to let the payment of the Winter's coal bill run until it was time to order the next Winter's supply, but Pastor Parvis did not approve of this method.

"Let's pay the bill before we get the coal this year," he suggested.

This rather stunned the trustees who did not see where the $112 necessary for the fuel was to come from.

"Leave that to me said the clergyman.

Rev. Mr. Parvis went into the cellar of the parsonage and selected 112 pieces of coal. These were brushed up and taken into the pulpit. With them were 112 pieces of tissue paper, suitable for wrapping the bits of coal. The congregation was wondering what was going to happen.

"Each of these pieces" said the preacher, "represents your individual share of next Winter's bill. I will be the first one to pay $5 for this piece," holding up a nugget. This started a run for coal, and all over the house, as the assistant at the pastor's side could wrap the lumps, were the people clamoring to pay their share. In a few minutes the necessary amount was raised and the next day the order for coal was given. Everybody is happy over the result, while in their homes the pieces of coal rest upon the mantle as mute evidence of a wide-awake preacher's ingenuity.

SOW FASTED FOR FORTY DAYS.

On June 21st, the day that William H. H. Malin, tennant on R. W. Rice's farm in Hopkins' Neck, Talbot Co., Md., threshed his wheat, a valuable brood sow was missed. Her whereabouts was a mystery, and, after diligent search she was given up as lost.

After being missed for 40 days and 40 nights, while Malin and his son were engaged in their evening's milking a strange noise came from the rick of straw nearby. They at once proceeded to investigate, and after removing a large quantity of straw found the sow imbedded therein, very thin, but still alive. She was not able to stand alone, but was taken care of by her owner and fed, and Malin has hopes of her entire recovery. In some mysterious way she was covered undulting the wheat threshing, and, unable to get out, without eating or drinking the entire time.

THE horse owned by W. C. Armstrong, of West Chester, which recently tore its tongue out by catching it in a crack between the boards of its manger, has recovered and now takes solid food.
