Views of Mr. Johnson.

The New York World has a dispatch from Washington, giving an account of several interviews with President Johnson. In answer to a question as to the programme laid out for him in Tennessee, on his retirement from the Presidency, Mr. Johnson said:

"I have no disposition, indeed my temperament and habits almost forbid me to sink into idleness at the close of my term, and there is much to be done in the country, and much to be done in Tennessee especially, to enlist my solicitude and my effort. I have no plans personal to myself for the future, but will undoubtedly exert myself to restore the sway of the constitution over the country, and particularly over my State. As to returning to the Senate, I am free to say that I think there is great need and large opportunity there for men governed solely by principle. A Senator should have profound convictions of his own, and unbending moral and physical courage, to maintain them. For such men there is a crying necessity in the Senate. In many respects I think that a Senator of the United States has the highest opportunities of any officer in our government. While in a sense he represents a State, in a larger and better sense he represents the country as a whole. By his longer tenure of office he survives the petty, stormy issues which biennially change the House to a degree, and by his more expanded representation he can and should rise to the plane of statesmanship and tolerance. When I remember my first entrance into Congress, I recall as cotemporaries such men as Clay, Webster, Wright, Calhoun, Benton, Douglas, Clayton and Hayne. I think that it is more than a coincidence that evils which afflict this country have dated from and have continued along with the deterioration of the character of Congress individually and collectively considered. Small men brought on great evils, and great evils have continued small men. The dawn of better times will be signalized by the advent of better men."

In reference to Senator Wilson's remarks in caucus about the tenure-of-office bill, the President said: "Neither he nor any one else need fear I would send in anything but my name at the bottom of a bill repealing the tenure-of-office law. I vetoed that bill; of course I would approve its repeal to be consistent, as I have been consistant all through. I am against the whole principle of the act, believing it to be unconstitutional. It prevents a President from being President except in name. All the corruption of the service is owing to the existence of this law. It would be useless to suspend men and have their friends and supporters in the Senate pass upon their cases. Besides, corrupt officials so cover up their tracks as to make it impossible directly to prove their guilt in evidence, however strong the moral convictions or suspicions you entertain of their guilt. My experience here has convinced me of this, that no President can administer this government as it ought to be administered with such a law upon him. My very liberal compliance with it has demonstrated its inefficiency. No man who comes after me can get along with it.

General Grant's demand for its repeal shows that he understands this, and the exertions which his friends make for its repeal show that they understand it. They vindicate my veto of the law and my protests against it, and they acknowledge their mistake in passing it. For my part, I would be glad to see that mistake rectified. To be sure the repeal of the law would do me no good now, but as a patriotic man, desirous of having an honest civil service, I would be glad to see it wiped out of the statute-book. Neither General Grant nor any other man can administer this government with such a law. No man can administer it properly either who has not a plan, or policy, if you will, of his own, founded upon a clear conviction of what the constitution teaches and means. General Grant will be peculiarly liable to feel restive under this law. It is one thing to sit in headquarters to write orders and have them obeyed, and it is quite another to wish to institute measures and action and find yourself hampered as no other President ever was before, and to have your executive functions shorn from you and yourself blamed for the bungling and corruption of others whom you cannot reach. Presidential recommendations will not amount to general orders by any means.

"If Gen. Grant develops an intelligent understanding of our system, and demands a firm respect of his rights, he may in time get back the powers to the executive office which have been taken from it. To do this he must surround himself in his counsels with politicians or statesmen who are familiar with administration and with laws and to whom can be safely committed the trusts and powers of government. If a President wants a cabinet of clerks he can get them, but he will find the whole load of government too much for his time and his mind."

PROTECTION ILLUSTRATED.—The Washington correspondent of the Cincinnati Commercial (republican) publishes the following piquant sketch of the protectionist and his dupes:

"Let me illustrate. I go, like an ass, into the axe-handle business. I find that it won't pay. Axe-handles can be bought cheaper in Canada than I can make them, so I hasten up to Congress and state my grievance. It is a great interest, says the sepulchral Kelley, and must be protected. It is a great interest, echoes Moorehead, Wilson, Sherman, Wade, & Co. It is a great interest, shrieks the Tribune at all; and forthwith a law is passed forcing every man purchasing an axe-handle to pay nic fifty cents instead of twenty-five. This is called a protection to American industry. That is, it protects my industry at the expense of the wood-chopper. But then he had no business to be a wood-chopper.—Why don't he make axe-handles? Serves him right."

WHITEWASH FOR OUTSIDE WORK.—Take of good quick-lime half a bushel, slack in the usual manner and add one pound common salt, half a pound of sulphate of zinc (white vitriol) and one gallon of sweet milk. The salt and the white vitriol should be dissolved before they are added, when the whole should be thoroughly mixed with sufficient water to give the proper consistency. The sooner the mixture is then applied the better.

MEN are like wagons; they rattle most when there is nothing in them.

[From the Balt. Sun of Wednesday.]

THE OUTGOING AND INCOMING PRESIDENTS.—To-morrow will witness one of those epochs in the life of the nation, occurring at brief intervals of four years, in which the transfer of the Executive power from an incumbent to his successor takes place, and which is accomplished under our system with a mechanical quiet and regularity almost equal to that of some perfect machine. There has, perhaps, been no change of this kind, with the single exception of Mr. Lincoln's accession to the presidency, which has awakened such anxious curiosity and solicitude as to the future, it being felt profoundly that General Grant, from his personal popularity, will wield an influence for building up or pulling down what remains of the Union of former days and of the national prosperity, such as no other public man of this time could wield. The purity and uprightness of his intentions scarce any will assume to doubt, but his administration cannot begin with better purposes than did that of Andrew Johnson, while it is not at all likely that he will have as serious political difficulties to contend with; even if he opposes himself to the destructive element in the party which nominated him. The administration of Andrew Johnson was launched upon a sea yet boiling with the furious passions developed by the civil war, and if he has not been able to ride the tempest and direct the storm so as to prevent it from doing injury, it is not because he has not applied great energies and steady purpose to the task.

If he had been as little scrupulous in the use of means for the defense of his constitutional prerogatives as Congress has sometimes been in unconstitutional measures of aggression upon the executive department, he might perhaps have made the cause of right and justice and of national reconciliation more successful, for the time at least; though it is to the credit of his reverence for the constitution that he has not only refrained from this, but that when, at an earlier period of his administration, Congress passed a measure, (the bill enlarging the powers of the freedmen's bureau,) which, by the enormous patronage it placed in his hands, would have endowed him with almost royal powers, he refused to sign, because believing it unconstitutional and dangerous to the public liberties. Whatever the opinions now held of the policy principles maintained by President Johnson, so far as the Southern States are concerned they were in accordance with those of President Lincoln, and whatever the future may bring forth, whether a return to the old constitutional landmarks, or a still wider divergence, nothing is more certain than that the pen of impartial history, when political passion shall have subsided, will give him credit for upholding the true principles of the constitution, in accordance with the interpretations of all his predecessors.

ROAD NOTICE.

THE undersigned hereby give notice, that thirty days after the date of this notice, they intend to apply to the Honorable County Commissioners to appoint examiners to locate a public road from the road leading from Mann's Corner to Dulaney's Chapel, to run with the lines of Samuel Hurlock and James Yeates, to and over the Cypress Branch, thence through the Dulaney lands, to a private road between Jonathan Hodgson and Stephen Boyer, thence with said private road to the public road leading from Massey's Cross Roads to Smyrna.

To the Honorable,
the Commissioners of Kent Co.

GENTLEMEN:—The undersigned citizens of your county, most respectfully represent that the safety and convenience of the public travel over the road from the "White House" to Chesterville and down Morgan's Creek Neck requires that the branch on said road, at the foot of Perkins' Hill, should be well and substantially bridged, and the road raised on both sides. That after a heavy fall of water the branch is almost impassable; and travelers have been compelled to take a long and circuitous route to avoid it, or to imperil their lives and property in crossing it. That the attendance of the children from the West side of the branch at the School on the opposite side, has been frequently interrupted by the dangerous or impassable condition of the branch. They therefore pray your honorable body to cause each of those improvements to be made on the aforesaid road. And as in duty bound, &c.

YOU ALL

HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS,
AND HOOFLAND'S GERMAN TONIC.

Prepared by Dr. C. M. Jackson, Philadelphia. Their introduction into this country from Germany occurred in 1825.

THEY CURED YOUR

FATHERS AND MOTHERS,

And will cure you and your children. They are entirely different from the many preparations now in the country called Bitters or Tonics. They are no tavern drams, or anything like one; but good, honest, reliable medicines. They are

The greatest known remedies for

Liver Complaint,
DYSPEPSIA,
Nervous Debility,
JAUNDICE,
Diseases of the Kidneys,
ERUPTIONS OF THE SKIN,

and all Diseases arising from a Disordered Liver, Stomach, or

IMPURITY OF THE BLOOD.

Constipation, Flatulence, Inward Piles, Fullness of Blood to the Head, Acidity of the Stomach, Nausea, Heartburn, Disgust for Food, Fulness or Weight in the Stomach, Sour Eructations, Sinking or Fluttering at the Pit of the Stomach, Swimming of the Head, Hurried or Difficult Breathing, Fluttering at the Heart, Choking or Suffocating Sensations when in a Lying Posture, Dimness of Vision, Dots or Webs before the Sight, Dull Pain in the Head, Deficiency of Perspiration, Yellowness of the Skin and Eyes, Pain in the Side, Back, Chest, Limbs, etc., Sudden Flushes of Heat, Burning in the Flesh, Constant Imaginings of Evil and Great Depression of Spirits.

All these indicate disease of the Liver or Digestive Organs, combined with impure blood.

Hoofland's German Bitters

is entirely vegetable, and contains no liquor. It is a compound of Fluid Extracts. The Roots, Herbs, and Barks from which these extracts are made are gathered in Germany. All the medicinal virtues are extracted from them by a scientific chemist. These extracts are then forwarded to this country to be used expressly for the manufacture of these Bitters. There is no alcoholic substance of any kind used in compounding the Bitters, hence it is the only Bitters that can be used in cases where alcoholic stimulants are not advisable.

Hoofland's German Tonic

is a combination of all the ingredients of the Bitters, with rum, Santa Cruz Rum, Orange, etc. It is used for the same diseases as the Bitters, in cases where some alcoholic stimulus is required. You will bear in mind that these remedies are entirely different from any others advertised for the cure of the diseases named, these being scientific preparations of medicinal extracts, while the others are mere decoctions of rum in some form. The TONIC is decidedly one of the most pleasant and agreeable remedies ever offered to the public. Its taste is exquisite. It is a pleasure to take it, while its life-giving, exhilarating, and medicinal qualities have caused it to be known as the greatest of all tonics.

DEBILITY.

There is no medicine equal to Hoofland's German Bitters or Tonic for Debility. They impart an immediate appetite, cause the system to take on flesh, enable the system to digest a good meal, make in short a person feel and look like a healthy complexion, eradicate the yellow tinge from the eye, impart a bloom to the cheeks and change the pallid face into a rosy blooming one, convalescents weak and nervous from a short sickness, and invalids, to a full-blooded healthy and vigorous person.

Weak and Delicate Children are made strong by using the Bitters or Tonic. In fact, they are family medicines. They can be administered with perfect safety to a child three months old, the most delicate female, or a man of ninety.

These Remedies are the best

Blood Purifiers

ever known, and will cure all diseases resulting from bad blood. Keep your blood pure; keep your digestive organs in good condition, by the use of these remedies, and no disease need ever assail you. The best testimonials from the country recommend them. If proof of honest reputation go for anything you must try these preparations.

FROM HON. GEO. W. WOODWARD.

Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania.

PHILADELPHIA, March 16, 1865.

I find "Hoofland's German Bitters" is not an intoxicating beverage, but is a good tonic, useful in disorders of the digestive organs, and of great benefit in cases of debility and want of nervous action, in the system.

Yours truly,
GEO. W. WOODWARD.

FROM HON. JAMES THOMPSON,

Judge of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania.

PHILADELPHIA, April 28, 1866.

I consider Hoofland's German Bitters a valuable medicine in cases of attacks of Debility, Indigestion, or Dyspepsia. I can certify this from my experience of it. Yours, with respect,
JAMES THOMPSON.

FROM REV. JOSEPH H. KENNARD, D. D.

Pastor of the Tenth Baptist Church, Philadelphia.

DR. JACKSON—DEAR SIR:—I have been frequently requested to connect my name with recommendations of different kinds of medicines, but regarding the practice as out of my appropriate sphere, I have in all cases declined; but with a clear proof in various instances, and particularly in my own family, of the usefulness of Dr. Hoofland's German Bitters, I depart for once from my usual course, to express my full conviction that for a general debility of the system, and especially for Liver Complaint, it is a valuable and valuable medicine. I doubt not, in some cases it may be used with advantage to those who suffer from the above causes.

Yours, very respectfully,
J. H. KENNARD.
Eighth, below Coates street.

CAUTION.

*Hoofland's German Remedies are counterfeited. The genuine have the signature of C. M. Jackson on the front of the outside wrapper of each bottle, and the name of the article blown in each bottle. All others are counterfeit.
