B.B.B. is especially advised for chronic, deep seated cases, as it cures after all else fails.—1a7*.

A Lesson in Health.

Healthy kidneys filter the impurities from the blood, and unless they do this good health is impossible. Foley's Kidney Cure makes sound kidneys and will positively cure all forms of kidney and bladder disease. It strengthens the whole system.

A man who is in perfect health, so he can do an honest day's work when necessary, has much for which he should be thankful. Mr. L. C. Rodgers, of Branchton, Pa., writes that he was not only unable to work, but he couldn't stoop over to tie his own shoes. Six bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure made a new man of him. He says, "Success to Foley's Kidney Cure."

If you will make inquiry it will be a revelation to you how many succumb to kidney or bladder troubles in one form or another. If the patient is not beyond medical aid, Foley's Kidney Cure will cure. It never disappoints.

W. R. Ward, of Dyersburg, Tenn., writes: "This is to certify that I have used Orino Laxative Fruit Syrup for chronic constipation, and it has proven without a doubt, to be a thorough, practical remedy for this trouble, and it is with pleasure I offer my conscientious reference." Sold by all druggists.

TRADE MARK

WILBUR W. HUBBARD'S FERTILIZERS

MUST HAVE

Superior quality and absolute Uniformity and Purity. This spring makes their 64th season in business and their trade has increased each year in spite of competition, their sales for the past year having been larger than ever before. Can the sales of an inferior article constantly increase all these years?

Our fertilizers are not better than all others, but they have been, and we are willing for you to try them in competition with any goods on the market.

WE PRESUME

you are now thinking about Asparagus, Corn, Potatoes, Peach Trees and top dressing your hay. Well we have the goods to apply and at all right prices.

BUT FOR TOMATOES

Everybody knows that our Peerless is the goods to use on them, for it has quality and is made of the very best materials known to the trade and one ingredient we use in it is the only phospate that contains this article outside of France where it has been used so successfully in tomato and truck fertilizer.

Mr. Jas. F. David of Smyrna says he grew with it last year the finest tomatoes he ever saw grow he picked a basket that weighed 1½ lbs. each. He grew onions that measured 13 inches in circumference. He grew corn some stalks 13½ feet high and ears 14 inches long. The late Captain Emory grew on one occasion 17 tons per acre. Mr. Zac T. Gilbert grew 19 tons to the acre. Mr. G. W. Collins has bought as high as 50 tons per year, and his men grew from 12 to 15 tons per acre. We have sold already in Anne Arundel county, the lower counties and New Jersey, hundreds of tons. Messrs. Baker and Morgan have bought as high as twelve hundred dollars worth; Captain Dashiel says he would have it if he had to give $50.00 per ton for same. Mr. Joseph Downey says when he was canning that he could actually tell the difference in tomatoes grown with Peerless when brought to his cannery. Mr. Numsen says he knows that tomatoes grown with our goods are fine. Mr. Frank Moore, who runs Assaw Balns & Co's cannery, says the best tomatoes brought there are from Peerless. Mr. Loose, a customer of his, says a ton of Peerless grew him $96.00 worth more tomatoes than another goods costing $7.00 less per ton. Mr. Money says it is certainly good. We could go on, but with a testimonial will close.

Unsolicited some time ago Mr. J. W. Elburn & Son came in our office and said: "I believe your Peerless to be the best tomato goods I ever saw. You remember what an advocate I was of it when I lived out at the mill. Well, wherever I have lived since, on the Western Shore or elsewhere, I would have it, and last year I put some of this same goods on some onions grown from the seed, and they were as fine as Burmudas. Many measured 4 inches in diameter, and I grew over 600 bushels per acre, or at rates of 1162 baskets. I used it on strawberries and picked 8000 quarts per acre.'

JOHN BARTLEY, Chestertown, Md.

OLD TRUMPINGTON MANOR AND THE SMYTHS OF KENT

An Estate Held By One Family For Two and A Quarter Centuries

Situated in the Southern part of Kent county and occupying a peninsula between the Chesapeake bay and the Chester river is old Trumpington Manor, the Colonial home of the Smyth family.

This property has been in the Smyth family for more than two and a quarter centuries, and its present owners are lineal descendants of the first Thomas Smyth, who lived and died here, though they bear another name.

Tradition claims this to have have been the first place trodden by the white man in Kent, which, excepting St. Mary's, is the oldest county in the State, having been organized in 1650.

The house, a massive brick structure, is still in a fine state of preservation; the rooms are large and beautifully wainscoted, the doors massive and many-paneled, the windows deepset and the panes small.

The garden of Colonial times has been replaced by a more modern one. The old garden lay in front of the green yard which faced the house and extended down the slope toward the bay. It was laid out in squares in the old English fashion, and those were edged with shrubbery; the pomegranate, rose, honeysuckle and lilac, (both white and purple) being found in wild luxuriance. In places these met over the walks and formed arbors. The upper squares were grass plots, but the lower ones were used for vegetables.

During the Revolution.

The house, clustered round with many trees, was never allowed to be whitewashed or painted during the Revolutionary period, for either would have made it conspicuous and easily seen by the British as they passed up and down the bay.

All of the fine old Lombardy poplars have long since passed away, but some of the other trees still remain as landmarks.

The kitchen fireplace was an immense affair and logs from the woods needed no second cutting, but when placed in the fireplace always left ample room at either end for the negro children to sit among the ashes on a cold winter night and keep warm.

The cooking was done before this great fireplace, and the old colored mammy, with bright-turbaned head, who presided over this realm looked with just pride upon the well-browned fowls and meats which so often hung upon the ancient spit and which her deft hands knew so well how to turn and baste at just the proper moment to insure the most savory dish. The baking was always done in Dutch ovens, and the boiling in pots hung from the several cranes.

The servants were many and their quarters commodious and comfortable.

The plantation produced flax, cotton and wool in sufficient quantities to supply the needs of the family and servants, but the former imported from England most of their clothing.

The old spinning wheels were kept for many years after they ceased to be used, and now have passed as heirlooms to members of the family. Much tobacco was raised here, too.

The Old Windmill.

The old windmill was on a bluff overlooking the broad Chesapeake, and here was ground the wheat and corn used on the plantation, as well as that of many of the neighbors.

Here also would be gathered the young folks for a frolic, and many were the apples and chestnuts roasted within its walls, to say nothing of the corn that they popped.

The family graveyard lies just to the east of the house, and here lie buried all of the old Smyths, also many of their Tilghman and Wilkens descendants. In earlier times a massive brick wall surrounded the graveyard, but it disappeared long ago.

The Smyths were very prominent in Colonial and Revolutionary times and held many high positions. They were members of the Provincial Council, judges of the Provincial Court, Burgesses for Kent and justices for the county, all before 1698.

The first vestry of St. Paul's Protestant Episcopal Church, elected in 1693, honored Thomas Smyth as its leading member, and the church still uses a handsome communion service which he presented to the parish in April, 1699.

A Forgotten Town.

On an estuary of the Chester river a short distance above Trumpington may still be found the remains of Kent's most ancient town, New Yarmouth.

This was once a port of entry and here were found many English ships in early times. The ruins of an old church, a wharf and tobacco warehouse may still be found.

The courts of the county met here also. —Sun.

moters of this educational scheme has never been fully realized, but I am sure that you will be pleased to learn that a successful beginning has been made in the affiliation of St. John's College with the University of Maryland in Baltimore. The advantages of this union are already apparent and manifest. It received public approval in a marked degree at the centennial exercises of the University of Maryland, in Baltimore, held on the 4th instant.

"The promoters of this union are greatly encouraged, and they are hoping that the day is not far distant when Washington College will become a component part of this university scheme. Under the plan of union adopted this college would maintain its autonomy and continue its work along its present lines."
