JAMES P. PARROTT,
my22-3t. Chestertown, Md.

IN addition to the candidates named last week is the name of Mr. W. W. Clayton, of Rock Hall, who aspires to be sheriff. His name was unintentionally omitted.

IT is just as much a hardship for John E. Morris and C. Frank Wheatley to canvas the whole county as for Charles D. Wood and Ben Crew. This method is required by law and not the choice of any set of men in Kent. There is, however, every reason why the commissioners should run through county. It is a step forward and a step toward the Democratic slogan "Back to the People." It will mean greater responsibility, better officials and better service.

Delegates to Bankers' Convention.—The Chestertown Bank of Maryland will be represented at the Bankers' Convention to be held at Blue Mountain House in June by Messrs Curtis E. Crane, Sam' Vannort and Allan A. Harris.

The Second National Bank elected H. W. Vickers, Esq. and Mr. W. B. Copper to represent that bank.

FURTHER EXPLANATION.

May 26th, 1909.

HON. LEWIN W. WICKES,
Chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee of Kent county.

Dear Sir:—Replying to your letter of May 22, I beg to say that the delay in answering it has been due to the inevitable pressure of other public work.

I regret it very much that there has been any mistake about my opinion, which I thought was too clear to be misunderstood, with respect to the powers of a State Central Committee of a county relating to the methods of making nominations for county offices.

The State Central Committee of the county has the right under the law to decide whether nominations for county offices shall be made by the convention plan or by the direct vote (Crawford County Plan). After it has once decided that the nominations of the party for county offices shall be made by the direct vote or Crawford county plan, it has power at all by any regulation or means whatever to limit either the candidates or the party voters to any district or districts of the county less than the whole county. Any candidate may enter the primaries from any district of the county for the nomination for any county office, and every voter in the party in each and every district in the county, that is to say, all the party voters throughout the whole county have a right and must be allowed to vote for the candidates for the nomination for county offices whom they wish to vote for in the primaries.

The State Central Committee of a county cannot limit or restrict this right. They cannot under the law say or require that the primary elections for the nomination for any county office shall be held in or limited to only some of the districts of the county. The committe cannot say or require that candidates for nomination shall come from only some of the districts of the county. The candidates must submit their candidacy to the voters of all the districts of the county, and primaries for that purpose must be held in all the districts of the county, that is to say throughout the entire county and the State Central Commitee of the county has no power to put any restriction upon the primaries which may limit them to any number of districts less than the whole number of districts in the county, and any attempt, by whatsoever means, upon the part of the State Central Committee of the county to do so would be illegal.

It seems to me that if this very simple matter is not now clear, language cannot make it so.

Very respectfully yours,
ISAAC LOBE STRAUSS,
Attorney-General.
