DEDICATION

To the poor women without homes, to the little toilers who should be in the schools and playgrounds, to the white slaves in their tragic bondage, and to the children who die, these pages are dedicated! May every woman who is not too idle to have a thought, or too vain to have a soul, or too rich in gold to have a heart, join in the great struggle for women's freedom!

Purity, Liberty, Justice—these we must work for!

THE SUFFRAGE BAZAAR

Elaborate Entertainments Planned Following Conference With Mrs. Wilfred Lewis.

When it was announced in last week's issue that Mrs. Wilfred Lewis of Philadelphia had promised to come to Baltimore to speak at the bazaar luncheon on the 29th, it was hoped that enough people would be present at the luncheon and the general meeting afterwards to justify Mrs. Lewis' journey. The number present at the luncheon so far exceeded the anticipations of the committee in charge that it was found necessary to tell many of those who came that it would be impossible to serve them. It is hoped that all those who intend to be present at the luncheon on October 6 and thereafter each week will notify Mrs. Charles E. Ellicott at least one day in advance, so that reservations may be made for them.

Mrs. Lewis a Charming Speaker.

Mrs. Lewis arrived in Baltimore at 10.34 A. M. on Tuesday and went directly to The Just Government League headquarters, where she conferred with the members of the Executive Committee regarding their plans for the bazaar. At one o'clock she attended the bazaar luncheon at the Woman's City Club, where she delighted all present with an interesting heart-to-heart talk about the bazaars in which she had been interested, and of how she thought the Baltimore event could be made to be a tremendous financial success.

The general bazaar committee meeting was held immediately following the luncheon at 2 P. M. Reports from the various committees were presented, and it was found that the work of the bazaar was going forward by leaps and bounds, and that numerous contributions of all kinds had already been promised.

As a result of the conference with Mrs. Lewis it was decided to make the entertainments one of the most prominent features of the bazaar. Mrs. Townsend Scott, who is general chairman of the entertainment committee, has already appointed several sub-chairmen, and the work of the committee is progressing rapidly.

It was suggested that on one evening of the bazaar a little playlet by Miss Mary Windsor would be presented. This playlet ends with an auction, and, according to Mrs. Lewis, was most interesting and entertaining. Mrs. D. Clinton Redgrave, who has always been of such inestimable value in planning plays, pageants, etc., for the Just Government League, was appointed chairman of the pageant committee, and with her in charge of this feature of the bazaar the committee feels confident that it will be most successful.
