ROCK HALL NOTES.

The wrapper factory has closed down until after the holidays.

Several farmers in this section have plowed their next year's corn land which has raised "what is the object of plowing corn ground this time of the year?" Will some one answer through the NEWS?

The cold snap of last week caused a big hustle among the fishermen. Many of them moved their fishing tackle and camp utensils down to Love Point on Saturday and Sunday for the winter operations.

Mr. J. L. Gale, after trying to employ some one to plow his next year's corn land but without avail, geared up a team and did the work himself. The field contains 20 acres. For a 71-year-old man this is good work, and he did it without fatigue.

Every day of this week is Christmas at Rock Hall. Christmas shopping and good cheer has been in full blast. Never in the history of the town has Xmas display been so profuse, nor the variety of Xmas novelties, staple and family goods equaled.

W. Reybold Wilson, the noisy merchant, M. Kramer and T. B. Durding had no special Christmas opening, but they were in the swim with Christmas novelties and special bargains in large varieties of Christmas goods and each of them reaped a fair share from Christmas shoppers.

The police schooner, Anna B. Smith, lost her big anchor on Swan Point during the heavy blow Wednesday night of last week. There have been a number of minor mishaps to the vessel while mate Akers was in charge and he is happy in the thought that Capt. Ashley was on board during the latest mishap.

Mr. T. J. Rich, who has been under treatment in the Maryland General Hospital the past month, returned to his home near Gratitude on Saturday last. He is much improved, but a long way from being able to be out and about. In his disability he is cheerful and happy and loud in his praise of the care and attention given in the hospital.

Alexander & Son's opening on Tuesday was the best ever. There were about 500 visitors during the afternoon and evening and nearly all of them were purchasers. Besides Mr. and Mrs. Alexander there were salesmen and ladies whose efficiency and courtesy made it a pleasure to witness. Many valuable souvenirs were given to purchasers.

The Christmas Greeting of Marion T. Miller and Old Kriss came to a climax on Wednesday afternoon and evening when one of the best Christmas openings ever held here took place at Miller's and Kriss' Gift Emporium, where everything to make glad the heart of papa, mama, son, daughter, sweetheart, beaux and friend could be had at astonishing low prices. Hundreds of visitors came, they saw and were conquered by the brilliancy of the scene, the great stock of Christmas goods and the cordial greeting for which all the Miller family are noted far and near. Clerks were in attendance and vied with each other as to who could best serve. Immense purchases were made by the throngs of callers and they seemed heartily delighted with the result of their outlay. Old Kriss in gorgeous array had charge of the second floor and gave a warm greeting to young and old. Everybody declared him to be a jolly good fellow. Many beautiful souvenirs were given to purchasers.

After the close of routine business and floor work on Wednesday evening last, the Odd Fellows of this place opened wide the doors of their Lodge for the admission of their families, their best girls and other invited guests to witness the rendition of a splendidly arranged program, consisting of an address of welcome, recitations by Misses Sallie Jones, Ella Moffett and Helen Janscowski; dialogue and select reading; songs by Esther Jones, Gladis Boyer, Lillian Taylor and Messrs. W. T. Downey and A. W. Andrews, all of which was interspersed with song and music by the splendidly equipped orchestra under the leadership of Prof. Judefind, with Mrs. Shallcross presiding at the piano. Refreshments consisting of cake and lemonade were served. The management of the exercises was in charge of Messrs. J. R. Diehl, Harry Hinchle, J. W. Boyer and their assistants who prepared the program, with Mr. J. R. Diehl as master of ceremonies. After a full enjoyment of the exercises of the evening by a large assembly, the young people took charge of the musicians and indulged in a hop to near the midnight hour. The Odd Fellows have enlarged their membership roll recently with 16 new members with more to follow.

IN MEMORIAM.

In memory of our dear sister who departed this life November 29th, 1909, she was 57 and 7 months and 13 days of age.

She was a good christian woman and of fine character and her sweet disposition and kind words will never be forgotten.

No heart or tongue can never express,
The thoughts of our loved one who is now laid to rest;
Took from her loved ones and placed in her grave.
All that we could do or say her life we could not save.

Rest on dear sister.
May your slumber be as gentle as your love.
And when we are done with this world's trials,
We want to clasp your hand above.

By her only brother and sister-in-law,
ALONZO P. AND MARTHA M. FOREMAN.
