KILLED IN A FIGHT.

Bud Simmons Struck by Henry Turneau on East Neck Island Because of Tantilizing Over Money—Turneau in Jail.

SIMMONS CARRIED TO HOSPITAL IN SMALL BOAT.

As the result of a fight over $4 that grew out of a practical joke at Eastern Neck Island, this county, Friday night, "Bud" Simmons, 30 years old, died at the University Hospital at 1.20 o'clock Sunday morning from a fractured skull and Henry Turneau, 17 years old, of New Jersey, is in the jail here charged with assaulting Simmons with intent to kill.

In an attempt to save the life of the injured man Justice George P. Ashley, Capt. William Camp and John Wilson of Rock Hall, made a run across the bay in an open gasoline launch through a heavy sea Saturday afternoon, cover the distance from Rock Hall to Baltimore in less than three hours.

On the way Simmons, who was delirious, fought those who had come to his aid and when the launch docked at the police boat headquarters in the harbor the strength of the three men was almost spent. A telephone message to the Eastern Police Station brought the ambulance, and Simmons was taken to the hospital. An operation was performed immediately.

Trouble Begins in Jest.

The trouble started when Simmons, whose home is at Golden Hill, Dorchester county, took $4 from the sleeping quarters of Turneau, a farm hand employed by Mr. Henry Newhus. The youth met Simmons Friday night and asked for the money. Simmons began to jest about the matter, intimating that he intended keeping the money. Turneau became angry and as his temper increased the more pointed became Simmons' taunts.

Turneau went to the farm of Mr. Newhus and asked several friends to assist him in getting his muney. They refused and Turneau returned to Simmons and demanded it. Picking up a spade, Turneau repeated the demand for the money. Simmons laughed. They both worked at a saw mill.

The next moment Simmons was sprawling in the roadway with a deep gash in his head. He was picked up by another farm hand and taken to Mr. Newhus' home. Turneau walked away. What aid was at hand was given the injured man. In the afternoon his condition became worse and Mr. Newhus took him to Rock Hall, eight miles away. Dr. W. O. Selby, of Rock Hall, dressed the wound and advised that Simmons be taken to a Baltimore hospital.

Turneau was arrested by Constable Frank B. Wheat. Justice Ashley committed him to jail.

Rough trip Across Bay.

The magistrate was informed that Simmons would die if an operation was not performed within a short time. Calling Captain Camp and John Wilson, Justice Ashley requested them to bring the injured man to Baltimore. Capt. Camp's 30 foot gasoline boat was fitted for the run and shortly after 4 o'clock in the afternoon the journey began.

The water on the bay was rough and the little craft was tossed about. This aroused Simmons and he became delirious. He became worse as the trip progressed and it required the efforts of the three to hold him in the boat.
