FARMERS' DEPARTMENT

"He who by the plow would thrive,
Himself must either hold or drive."

From the Maryland Farmer.

ROOT-PRUNING THE PEACH.

The various influences of checking growth to promote the formation of fruit buds, and of ligatures and girdling to increase the size and early maturity of fruits have been long known to horticulturists. Wiring and girding the grape vine is well known to give larger and earlier berries, greatly at the expense of quality. Root-pruning trees that are too luxuriant, when performed under right conditions, does not seem to lessen the flavor, at the same time that it gives larger specimens which ripen sooner.

Dr. Hull furnishes the results of some experiments in root-pruning the peach which prove that it may be done to great advantage in the rich soils of that region, although they would not probably be so favorable in more sterile regions. To abridge labor, he performed the work with the plow. It was done in October.

The spaces between the trees of his peach orchard were plowed ten inches deep, one way, to within four feet of the trees, leaving the furrow four feet off from the stems. This furrow was widened and deepened by passing the plow several times. A plow with a coulter attached was then run in the bottom, so as to cut off all the roots practicable. Drought and hard subsoil prevented plowing at right angles to these furrows till late the following Spring, when the work was completed. The whole labor on 1,800 trees was performed by one man with a team in five days. To have done the whole by hand would have been nearly impossible. The surface was handsomely smoothed afterwards.

The maturity of the crop was so much hastened that shipment of Hale's early peach were made on the first of July, and daily for twelve days afterward, when the crop from unpruned trees began to ripen. The difference was about two weeks in favor of the root pruning trees. Both were treated precisely alike in every other respect. The fruit on the root-pruned trees was much the larger—averaging from one-third larger to double the size. By way of comparison, the peach trees had the branches girdled when the peaches were about as large as hazel-nuts. These ripened their fruit nearly as early as the root-pruned trees, but the flavor, as usually happens in such cases, was poor, and the peaches insipid. But the fruit on the root-pruned trees was highly colored and of excellent quality.

The same improvement took place on plum tress similarly treated.

There is one part of this experiment on which we desire more information. Half the pruning, performed on the 20th of May, after the first pruning in October, must have been done while the trees were in a condition of active growth; and in a latitude as far south as Alton, we should expect by that time the peaches must have been nearly half grown. Cutting off a large portion of the roots (not one-half as many roots would necessarily escape both prunings) while the trees were thus in full leaf, must have had a very different effect on the trees from pruning while the trees were entirely dormant.—The question is: How much did this late spring root-pruning vary the result?—What would be the effect of ordinary root-pruning on early maturity? We should expect, from our observations at the East, that the difference would be slight. We should certainly advise great caution in cutting off large portions of the roots while trees were in full growth, except in the richest soils. We want more experiments.

How the Large Pears are Raised.

Mr. G. F. B. Leighton, of Norfolk, Va., has produced some of the largest pears ever grown in this country. In a late interview with this gentleman he told us that he has now in bearing six thousand trees, the most of them being Bartlett's, Louise Bonne de Jersey and Seckel. The soil upon which they are grown is a stiff, blue clay, over-laying sand to the depth of three or four feet. In planting out pear trees, Mr. Leighton digs a hole in the clay some two or three feet deep and sufficiently wide for the roots to ramify, and then bores a hole with a post auger through to the sand. This auger hole and a small portion of the large excavation is filled with sticks (cut brush); this forms a complete underdrain.

A soil to set the roots of the trees in is composed of tide washed muck, which is brackish, shell lime and the surface or alluvial earth. The trees grow with wondrous rapidity, and produce such fruit as has astonished fruit growers everywhere. First premiums have been taken far and near at the largest horticultural shows.—Duchess d'Angouleme has been shipped to New York this season from Mr. Leighton's orchard weighing over 30 ounces, or about two pounds, forty-eight pears on the average making a bushel. This fruit brought twelve dollars per bushel, just twenty-five cents apiece for the pears.—They retailed at fifty cents each upon Broadway.

Mr. Leighton much prefers the standard to dwarfs, and plants his trees twenty-five feet apart each way. In a portion of his orchard he has dwarfs between the rows, but does not allow them to remain long enough to interfere with the full development of the standards.

Decomposed bone is used to revive the standards when they appear to be falling into a decline, and works to perfection. The bones are broken up into small pieces and put into boxes or barrels, with alternate layers of wood ashes, and kept moist until they are thoroughly decomposed.

VALUABLE EXPERIENCE.—A correspondent of the Prairie Farmer hints upon a sensible experiment, viz: Taking one acre and trying what increase the best cultivation gives over that which was only ordinary. The acre, with the rest of the field, was planted with corn in drills four feet apart, and plants one foot apart in the row. Drilling in and thorough cultivation produced from this acre eighty-eight bushels shelled corn, while the rest of the field, planted in check rows, yielded only about half as much.

CORN COB FUEL.—A very convenient kindling wood is made in France from corn cobs, by immersing them in a mixture of sixty parts of melted rosin, and forty parts of tar; after which they are taken out and allowed to dry. They are then subjected to a second operation, which consists in spreading them out on a metallic plate heated to 212 degrees Fahrenheit. They are finally assorted according to size and tied up in bundles. These are sold at the rate of three or four for a cent. The establishment in Paris for manufacturing them employs thirty workmen, and effects sales to the amount of $40,000 annually.

IT is said that Governor Scott, of South Carolina, who was once a cooper and afterwards a quack doctor, is now worth $6,000,000, all of which he has made since the war by an honest, energetic, straight-forward prosecution of the exalted profession of carpet-bagging.—Louisville Courier.

ARE ONIONS HEALTHFUL?—A physician has forwarded the following to the N. Y. Farmers' Club. We should like to know if any of our readers have facts which sustain the conclusion given:—"On shipboard at New Orleans, in the year 1849, in charge of one hundred marines, with cholera among them, I observed that those who eat freely of onions, supposing them to be healthy, were attacked certainly and fatally. Onions and salt cured the bite of a rattlesnake on my son, and are considered specific in all snake-bites. I have found four separate witnesses of phenomena connected with small-pox and fever.

1. Onions in rooms with small-pox rot rapidly.
2. Blisters rise in them.
3. They retain and communicate the virus many weeks after the epidemic has subsided.
4. Applied to the feet of fever patients they rapidly turn black.
5. They prevent the spread of small-pox in thickly populated tenements by absorbing the virus.
6. A man with hydrophobia, in his frenzy, ate voraciously of onions, and recovered.

From all these facts may be deduced:
1. That onions should not be eaten when there is a prevailing epidemic.
2. That onions sliced and frequently changed are good disinfectants.
3. That experiments should be made to test the extent of their usefulness. For many years we have opposed vaccination as ordinarily done, and hence hail with satisfaction any means of mitigating the virus of this distemper.

THE PEACH PROSPECT.—The Wilmington Commercial says: The extreme cold has badly hurt the peach buds, and in a section of country of which Dover is about the centre the crop is practically destroyed. In other localities, however, north and south of the injured belt, including some of the most extensive orchard districts, the prospect is still hopeful, the promise varying from tolerable to and in some rare cases good. On the whole we think it safe, as matters now stand, if no further injury occurs, to look for rather less than half a crop in the aggregate.—A full crop is about three million baskets; we may yet expect for the present year a million and a quarter baskets.

THE BICKFORD

IMPROVED

Family Knitting Machines.

PERFECTION in work and simplicity of construction, has been attained in this Machine. It knits both circular and flat web with perfect selvage edge, making a perfect hand stitch. It narrows and widens, knitting heels and toes of stockings to perfection, with ribbed or plain stitch, and is a Crocheting as well as Knitting Machine.
It makes all the intricate fancy stitches of the Crocheting needle better than hand work. It is so simple that a child can operate it, and the rapidity of its work is truly wonderful—20,000 stitches per minute.
This Machine has carried the First Prize at the Maryland State Fair, Maryland Institute and Virginia State Fair, this Fall, and was the principal Machine at all of them. They are more valuable in the family than the Sewing Machine. Price $25 and $35. Send for circulars. Agents wanted in every part of Maryland. Liberal terms.

Clear and Harmless as Water!

NATTANS' CRYSTAL DISCOVERY

FOR THE HAIR!

A PERFECTLY clear preparation in one bottle, as easily applied as water, for restoring to gray hair its natural color and youthful appearance, to eradicate and prevent dandruff, to promote the growth of the hair and stop its falling. It is perfectly harmless and entirely free from any poisonous substance and will therefore take the place of all the dirty and unpleasant preparations now in use. In everything in which the articles now in use are objectionable, CRYSTAL DISCOVERY is perfect. It is warranted to contain neither Sugar of Lead, Sulphur, Litharage, or Nitrate of Silver. Bear this in mind when you want anything for your hair.
Clear and clean as water, it does not soil the scalp or clothes, is agreeably perfumed, and makes one of the best dressings for the hair in use. It restores the color of the hair more perfect and uniformly than any other preparation, and always does so in from 3 to 10 days. Virtually feeding the roots of the hair with all the nourishing qualities necessary to its growth and healthy condition, it restores the decayed and induces a new growth of the hair more positively than anything else. The application of this wonderful discovery also produces a pleasant and cooling effect on the scalp and gives the hair a glossy appearance.
We call especial attention to the fact that a limited number of trial bottles will be given away gratuitously to those desiring to try it. You will notice that in pursuing this course our aim is to convince by the actual merits of the article. ARTHUR NATTANS, Inventor and Proprietor, Washington, D. C., to whom all orders must be addressed.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Aug. 5, 1870.
Mr. Arthur Nattans:
Dear Sir—I do not hesitate to say that your Crystal Discovery deserves to supercede all other preparations claiming to restore the growth and color of the hair. I have used it a week now, and my hair has already returned to its natural color, and has ceased falling almost entirely. I cheerfully recommend it.
Respectfully,
fe11y. MRS. ANNIE MORRAIN.

THE EUREKA
FANNING MILL.

THE GREATEST INVENTION OF THE NINETEENTH CENTURY!

Farmers Look to Your Interest!

THE attention of Farmers and Mechanics is particularly directed to the combined economy, utility and practicability of the Eureka Mill, and to the many other advantages it possesses over every other Fanning Mill which has been introduced to the public.
It is the fruit of long and patient investigation by the inventor, who has made it his constant study for over twenty years. He has secured several patents for Mills, and has always been rewarded with the best of success. But not feeling satisfied with his former attainments, he determined to reach the climax, and he now believes that his new invention will warrant him in exclaiming to the joy of his heart, like the philosopher, Phythagoras—EUREKA!—signifying in the Grecian language, "I have found it." This has given the name to this new Mill.
In this Mill are all the former improvements to which have been added several more, adding still greater advantages than were at first anticipated, or even thought possible by the inventor himself. It embraces the three great essentials necessary in every invention:
It combines ECONOMY, UTILITY and PRACTICABILITY!

THE "EUREKA" MILL

Is small and lighter, and is capable of doing more and better work in a given time than any other Mill ever invented.

IT IS THE ONLY MILL

that will successfully remove from wheat all such pests as Cockle, Garlic, Oats, Rye, &c.
Should an extra quality of grain for seed or gristing purposes be required, it can be so arranged as to catch in one box perfect grain, and in the other, grain fit for market or mill
