TEXT OF THE FORCE BILL.

The following is the text of the supplemental enforcement amendment to the miscellaneous appropriation bill, as finally agreed to by the second conference committee of Congress Monday afternoon, and passed by both houses. It is so far modified from the original as to provide only for federal supervisors to be present at the election, to witness the voting and the counting of the ballots. The supervisors have no power of arrest and no right to challenge voters:

That whenever in any county or parish in any Congress district there shall be ten citizens thereof of good standing who, prior to any registration of voters for an election for Representatives in Congress, or prior to any election at which a Representative in Congress is to be voted for, shall make known in writing to the Judge of the Circuit Court of the United States, for the district wherein such county or parish is situate their desire to have said registration or election both guarded and scrutinized, it shall be the duty of the said judge of the circuit court, within not less than ten days prior to said registration or election, as the case may be, to open the said court at the most convenient point in said district; and said court, when so opened by said judge, shall proceed to appoint and commission, from day to day and from time to time, and under the hand of the said judge, and under the seal of said court for such election district or voting precinct in said Congress district, as shall in the manner herein prescribed, have been applied for, and to revoke, change or renew said appointment from time to time, two citizens, residents of said election district or voting precinct in said county or parish, who shall be of different political parties, and able to read and write the English language, and who shall be known and designated as supervisors of election.

And the said court, when opened by the said judge as required herein, shall therefrom and thereafter, and up to and including the day following the day of the election, be always open for the transaction of business under this act; and the powers and jurisdiction hereby granted and conferred shall be exercised, as well in vacation as in term time, and a judge sitting at chambers shall have the same powers and jurisdiction, including the power of keeping order and of punishing any contempt of his authority, as when sitting in the court. Provided that no compensation shall be allowed to the supervisors herein authorized to be appointed, except those appointed in cities or towns of 20,000 or more inhabitants, and no person shall be appointed under this act as supervisor of election who is not at the time of his appointment a qualified voter of the county, parish, election district or voting precinct for which he is appointed; and no person shall be appointed deputy marshal under the act of which this is amendatory who is not a qualified voter at the time of his appointment in the county, parish, district or precinct in which his duties are to be performed.

And section 13 of the act of which this is an amendment shall be construed to authorize and require the circuit courts of the United States in said section mentioned to name and appoint, as soon as may be after the passage of this act, the commissioners provided for in said section, in all cases in which such appointments have not already been made in conformity therewith. And the third section of the act to which this is an amendment shall be taken and construed to authorize each of the judges of the circuit courts of the United States to designate one or more of the judges of the district courts within his circuit to discharge the duties arising under this act or the act to which this is an amendment.

And the words "any person," in section 4 of the act of May 31, 1870, shall be held to include any officer or other person having powers or duties of an official character under this act or the act to which this is an amendment. Provided that nothing in this section shall be construed as to authorize the appointment of any marshals or deputy marshals in addition to those heretofore authorized by law; and provided further, that the supervisors herein provided for shall have no power or authority to make arrests, or to perform any other duties than to be in the immediate presence of the officers holding the elections, and to witness all their proceedings, including the counting of the vote and making of the return thereof.

And so much of said sum herein appropriated as may be necessary for said supplemental and amendatory provisions is hereby appropriated from and after the passage of this act.

The Republican Platform.

The platform adopted by the Republican National Convention is of considerable length, embracing eighteen separate resolutions or "planks." It lacks, however, the unity of purpose, distinctness and clearness of definition, and terseness of expression which characterize the Cincinnati platform and address. Its multitude of phrases, it must be admitted, serves to embody more than the usual number of "glittering generalities," and furnish a fresh illustration of the proverbial fondness of political platform-makers for high-sounding commonplace. It begins with a recital of the claims of the republican party upon the continued confidence and gratitude of the American people, founded upon its past achievements in peace and war, treating the suppression of the rebellion as an exclusive party triumph. "During its eleven years of supremacy," it says, "it suppressed a gigantic rebellion, emancipated four millions of slaves, decreed the equal citizenship of all, and established universal suffrage." Upon the tariff and revenue questions the platform contains the following nicely-poised declarations:

"The annual revenue, after paying the current debt, should furnish a moderate balance for the reduction of the principal, and the revenues, except so much as may be derived from a tax on tobacco and liquor, be raised by duties upon importations, the duties on which should be so adjusted as to aid in securing remunerative wages to labor and promote the industries, prosperity and growth of the whole country."

By the ingenious invention of a new phrase, the colored race are promised "complete liberty and exact equality in civil, political and public rights," (whatever this last may mean,) in lieu of the absolute social equality designed to be secured to them by Mr. Sumner's bill.—The female suffrage party is regaled with the assurance that the republican party "views with satisfaction the admission of women to a wide field of usefulness," qualified by the intimation, however, that it is only "loyal women" whose social advancement is thus favored. The President and Congress are declared to be entitled to the thanks of the nation "for their measures for the suppression of violent and treasonable organizations in certain lately rebellious regions, and for the protection of the ballot-box," which may be accepted as an endorsement of the Ku-Klux and bayonet election laws.

The action of Congress in extending amnesty to those lately in rebellion is at the same time approved. A general approval is also given to the principle of civil service reform. Our present national currency is pronounced "excellent," with the hope that it may be "perfected" by a speedy resumption of specie payments. The encouragement of immigration, abolition of the franking privilege, and cheap postage are advocated, and further grants of the public lands (what there is left of them) to corporations and monopolies is deprecated. The extending of bounties to soldiers and sailors of the Union in the late war is advocated, without reference to time of service.

Upon the labor question there is a "plank" which is designed to be equally acceptable to labor and capital, and which neither can quarrel with, as each can interpret it to its own satisfaction. In the same spirit of non-commitalism, we have it laid down as the duty of the government to encourage American commerce and shipbuilding, without any suggestion of the particular "measures" to be resorted to for the purpose. The eighteenth and last "plank" is General Grant, who, in fact, may be said to be the embodiment and essence of the whole, or rather, it may be said, that the real platform upon which he stands is the record of his administration.—*Balt. Greeley on the "Carpet-baggers."

Horace Greeley traversed the South-Western States in May, 1871, and on his return to New York was publicly welcomed by a large concourse of his friends. In an address on that occasion, he spoke at length upon the condition of the South, and among other things said:

Well, gentlemen, the thieving carpet-baggers are a mournful fact; they do exist there, and I have seen them. They are fellows who crawled down South in the track of our armies, generally at a very safe distance in the rear; some of them on sutlers' wagons; some bearing cotton permits; some of them looking sharply to see what might turn up; and they remain there. They at once ingratiated themselves with the blacks, simple, credulous, ignorant men, very glad to welcome and to follow any Whites who professed to be the champions of their rights. Some of them got elected Senators, others Representatives, some Sheriffs, some Judges, and so on. And there they stand, right in the public eye, stealing and plundering, many of them with both arms around negroes, and their hands in their rear pockets, seeing if they cannot pick a paltry dollar out of them; and the public looks at them, does not regard the honest Northern men, but calls every "carpet-bagger" a thief, which is not the truth by a good deal. But these fellows—many of them long-faced, and with eyes rolled up, are greatly concerned for the education of the blacks, and for the salvation of their souls. [Great laughter.] "Let us pray," they say; but they spell pray with an 'e,' and "prey without ceasing."

"Well, then, do you justify the Ku-Klux?" I am asked. Justify them in what? If they should choose to catch a hundred or two of these thieves, place them tenderly astride of rails, and bear them quietly and peacefully across the Ohio, I should of course condemn the act as I condemn all violence; but the tears live in a very small onion that would water all my sorrow for those. [Applause]

WHY MR. GREELEY WENT BAIL FOR JEFF. DAVIS.—Charles O'Conor, Esq., of New York, who was one of the counsel of Jefferson Davis at the time of his imprisonment by the United States government, charged with treason, writes the subjoined letter in reply to an editorial paragraph in the New York World, which spoke of Mr. Greeley's action in signing Mr. Davis' bail bond as "superfluous." Mr. O'Conor says:

"From his capture until the hour within which he was bailed, Mr. Jefferson Davis was in military custody. He was then confined as a prisoner of war for about two years. From the very commencement of this term his counsel directed their efforts to procuring his delivery into civil custody, to the end that he might have his trial at once, or obtain liberation upon bail until the government should think fit to bring on the trial. The counsel for Mr. Davis, having first solicited and obtained the consent of Mr. Greeley. Mr. Gerrit Smith and Commodore Vanderbilt, offered to give bail in any sum that might be required, and to procure those three gentleman to unite in the bail bond. This offer was never formally accepted; but, under the belief that it was satisfactory, the counsel of Mr. Davis obtained a writ of habeas corpus and brought Mr. Davis before the court at Richmond. Mr. Evarts attended by appointment, and, on the part of the government, he acquiesced in bailing Mr. Davis in $100,000. Conceiving himself bound to do so, the counsel of Mr. Davis requested the attendance of the gentlemen in question.—Commodore Vanderbilt's attorney acted for him; the other two gentlemen appeared and signed the bond in person. They had every reason to understand and believe that their attendance was absolutely necessary to the release of Mr. Davis.—The counsel of Mr. Davis supposed it to be so, and he has now no reason to think otherwise. I am not aware of any officiousness on the part of Mr. Greeley in this business, and never supposed that he did anything beyond what he considered essential to the liberation of Mr. Davis."

STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION.—The State Board of Education met in Baltimore on Wednesday. The list of text-books to be recommended for use in the public schools of the State, as required by law, was completed, and the following books adopted: McGuffey's Eclectic Spelling Book, Creery's Grammer School Spelling Book, Webster's Common School Dictionary, McGuffey's Series of Readers, Brook's Series of Arithmetics, Harper & Brothers' Penmanship, Potter & Hammond's Payson, Dunton & Scribner's Penmanship, Bartholomew's Drawing Books, Cornell's Series of Geographies, Fewsmith's English Grammers, Match's Parser and Analyzer, Quackenbos's First Lesson in Composition, Venable's History of the United States, Creery's Catechism of History, Onderdonk's History of Maryland, Hooker's Child's Book of Nature, Youman's First Book of Botany, Dalton's Physiology, Robinson's Elementary Algebra, Hanaford & Payson's Book-keeping, Potter & Hammond's Book-keeping, Appleton's Science Primers, Hunter's Geometry, Pelton's Outline Maps, Mitchell's Outline Maps.

THE New Yorker Journal gives a list showing the political attitude of its German American exchanges as follows:—Democratic papers for Greeley and Brown, 30; republican papers for Greeley and Brown, 26; democratic papers against Greeley 4; republican papers against Greeley, 9; on the fence, 2.

A Pitiful Condition.

It is a sad thing to pass through life only half alive. Yet there are thousands whose habitual condition is one of languor and debility. They complain of no specific disease; they suffer no positive pain; but they have no relish for anything which affords mental or sensuous pleasure. In nine cases out of ten this state of lassitude and torpor arises from a morbid stomach. Indigestion destroys the energy of both mind and body. When the waste of nature is not supplied by a due and regular assimilation of the food, every organ is starved, every function interrupted.

Now, what does common sense suggest under these circumstances of depression? The system needs rousing and strengthening; not merely for an hour or two, to sink afterward into a more pitiable condition than ever (as it assuredly would do if an ordinary alcoholic stimulant were resorted to,) but radically and permanently.

How is this desirable object to be accomplished? The answer to this question, founded on the unvarying experience of a quarter of a century, is easily given. Infuse new vigor into the digestive organs by a course of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Do not waste time by administering temporary remedies, but wake the system up by recuperating the fountain-head of physical strength and energy, the great organ upon which all the other organs depend for their nurture and support.

By the time that a dozen doses of the great vegetable tonic and invigorant are taken, the feeble frame of the dyspeptic will begin to feel its benign influence. Appetite will be created, and with appetite the capacity to digest what it craves. Persevere until the cure is complete—until healthful blood, fit to be the material of flesh and muscle, bone and nerve and brain, flows through the channels of circulation, instead of the watery pabulum with which they have heretofore been imperfectly nourished.

Trustee's Sale of VALUABLE REAL ESTATE.

BY virtue of a Decree of the Circuit Court for Kent county, sitting as a Court of Equity, the undersigned will offer at PUBLIC SALE, at the "Voshell House," in Chestertown, Maryland, on

MORTGAGEE'S SALE
—OF—
TWO VERY
Valuable Farms,
In Kent County, Maryland.

UNDER AND BY VIRTUE of the authority vested in the undersigned, as Attorney, by the Mortgage from Richard Ll. Nicols and wife to Thomas R Brown, dated on or about the 31st day of July, 1871, and recorded among the land records for Kent County, in Liber J. K. H. No. 10, folios 191, &c; and with the approval and sanction of Thos. R. Brown, Executor of the said Mortgagee; he will offer at PUBLIC SALE, on

WEDNESDAY,
The Twenty-sixth day of June, 1872
AT THREE O'CLOCK, P. M.,

At the Voshell House, in Chestertown, the Property described in said Mortgage, the same being the

TWO FARMS,

one generally known as "HUNTINGFIELD," and the other as "THE NICHOLS FARM," both in Kent County, Maryland.

"HUNTINGFIELD,"
IS A MAGNIFICENT ESTATE.

It lies DIRECTLY ON THE CHESAPEAKE BAY, opposite the mouth of the Patapsco River, and in an air line, not over Twenty miles from Baltimore, and

Contains about 410 Acres, of which about three hundred and seventy-five are arable; the residue is in

WOOD AND TIMBER,

except a few acres in Marsh, which afford a FINE EARLY PASTURE.

The soil is well adapted to all cereals, fruits and vegetables, and the situation very desirable, being convenient to Churches, Schools, &c, and within a mile of the Steamboat Landing on Grey's Inn Creek, and not over two and a half miles from Rock Hall and the Western terminus of the Kent County Railroad

The arable land is divided into seven fields, and well fenced.

This estate offers rare inducements to purchase, and no person who desires to invest in real property with a view to remunerative returns, and a beautiful and healthy residence, should fail to attend the sale.

In view of its proximity to the City of Baltimore, its SPLENDID GROVE NEAR THE BAY SHORE, and many other advantages, by some it is thought it may become the rival of Holly Grove as a place of SUMMER RESORT.

The Improvements
ARE A
Good Frame Tenant House
And the usual OUT-BUILDINGS,
ALL IN GOOD ORDER,
A PEACH ORCHARD
OF 3,700 TREES,
THRIFTY AND IN FULL BEARING, and a FINE APPLE ORCHARD.

The Nicols Farm
LIES DIRECTLY ON CHESTER RIVER and LANGFORD'S BAY,
AND
Contains 457 Acres,
About FOUR HUNDRED ACRES are ARABLE, and the balance in TIMBER AND MARSH.

The arable land is divided into six fields, and the whole estate is under good and substantial fences. The soil is fine, in good heart, and well adapted to Grain, Grass, Fruit and Vegetables.

There is no better STOCK FARM IN THE COUNTY.

The Marsh being firm affords a VERY FINE EARLY SPRING PASTURE.

This Farm has all the advantages of Our Most Favored Water Situations.

Upon it are several FINE DUCKING POINTS, and but a short distance off its shore, both on the River and Bay, lie some of our FINEST OYSTER BEDS and FISHING GROUNDS.

The Water View from the Dwelling, with the aid of a glass, reaches down the river ten or twelve miles, and is passed daily by the Chester River line of Steamers.

ARE A Commodious Dwelling,
WITH KITCHEN ATTACHED,
And the usual OUT-BUILDINGS, in fair condition.
AN APPLE ORCHARD OF FORTY TREES IN BEARING.

Two Peach Orchards,
One of Forty-five hundred Trees, in bearing, and the other Two Thousand Trees, six years old.

TERMS OF SALE.

The terms of sale prescribed in the aforesaid Mortgage are cash, but at the instance of the mortgagor, with the consent of the legal representative of the mortgagee, the following terms have been substituted: One-fourth of the purchase money cash, and the residue in two equal instalments of one and two years from the day of sale, with interest from that day. The deferred payments to be secured by the bond of the purchasers, with security approved by the undersigned.

RICHARD HYNSON,
Chestertown, May 25. 1872—ts. ATTORNEY.

KENT COUNTY, Sct:

I hereby certify that on this 30th day of May, 1872, personally appeared before the subscriber, a Justice of the Peace of the State of Maryland, in and for Kent county, W. F. Massey, of the firm of Massey & Hudson, farmers of Kent county, and made oath in due form of law that they have taken as estrays trespassing upon their enclosures, TWO YEARLING HEIFERS, one red, and the other red with white back and tail; the red and white one has a spiked muzzle on. Given under my hand.

THE GOOD WIFE.

It is just as you say, neighbor Jones,
A treasure, indeed, is my wife,
Such a woman for bustle and work,
I have never found in my life.

She makes the best bread in our Town,
Her pies are a perfect delight;
Her coffee a rich, golden brown;
Her cakes and her puddings just right.

She uses the "EXCELSIOR COOK;"
And with coal, with coke or with wood,
My breakfast and dinner will cook;
I am sure of each meal being good.

Cultivators! Cultivators!
AND
CULTIVATOR TEETH,
OF THE BEST STEEL, to be had at the Shops of the undersigned.

We have teeth of two different patterns: one is the old three-cornered pattern, the other is our IMPROVED TOOTH, which wears much longer than the old pattern, the sides being round, which causes the tooth always to wear to and keep a point. The old pattern always wears round, and has no point to make it run in. These Teeth will be sold cheap.

We could give a number of testimonials in regard to the superiority of these Teeth if necessary, as they are used extensively in this and the adjoining county.

Orders by mail promptly attended to.
