THE DAY BOOK!

(DAILY AND WEEKLY,)

Edited by N. R. Stimson & G. W. Foster

The Editors of the Day Book believe that the general character of their journal is already well understood in all sections of the Union. As the defender of the Constitution and the compromises upon which it alone could have been created, it inculcates not only a formal obedience to the laws passed in conformity to its provisions, but a hearty and brotherly kindness between the North and South, the East and West, in the discharge of their mutual obligations. The Day Book is impartial and independent in it criticisms of public measures and men. An important and invaluable feature of the Day Book is its Commercial Department, in which may always be found

LIFE IN WALL STREET,

With sketches from nature of its Leading Men, its Intrigues, Corners, Operations, and Transactions. In this department Institutions and Acts are called by their true names, and public individuals characterized as they deserve, without fear or favor. Notices of the Men, Women, and Events in the Fashionable World of New-York.

In the Summer season a peculiar and attractive feature of the Day Book is its Letters from the Watering Places, describing the movements of the gay world in a sparkling and attractive style; while at all times its columns will be enriched with the choicest Original Fashionable Gossip, making it in all respects an indispensable vade mecum of the Drawing Room and Parlor. In addition to these attractions the Day Book will contain a series of Nouvelettes of Society, continued from day to day, and frequent sketches of City Life, in a style which has given so wide a popularity to "New-York in Slices" and "New-York by Gas Light."

The Present Volume of the Weekly Day Book will contain an Original Novel, by

Madame Julie Marguritte,

The most graceful and accomplished writer of the age, called

KURSALL.

A'so, an Original Novel, by

G. G, FOSTER,

DESCRIPTIVE OF LIFE AND CHARACTER IN NEW YORK.

At the same time it will contain a very large amount of General Reading, selected Poetry, Anecdotes, "Varieties," Descriptions of Remarkable Scenes and Events, Choice Extracts from Rare Books and an unusual diversity of Miscellaneous Matter. Its columns are not occupied with romances and sentimental fiction, but furnish much more satisfactory entertainment, attracting the interest of persons of all ages and tastes, and rendering it a highly popular Newspaper in Families. It will also contain a complete summary of all the Foreign news received during the week. Besides the intrinsic worth of the paper, we offer the following Liberal Premiums:

To the person sending us the largest list of yearly subscribers, we offer a magnificent Gold Watch, valued at $100 00.

To the person who shall send us the second largest list, we offer as a premium, a full set of The Illustrious Americans, valued at Fifty Dollars.
