TO THE PUBLIC.

WE, the undersigned, having signed a notice forwarning all persons from placing lime, lumber or other manure in front of, or on our premises, did not design or intend by said notice, to prevent farmers and others from puting lime on the side of the road above our buildings, but only intended to prevent them puting lime and other manures opposite to or very near our dwelling and on our side-walks and annoying our families with the dust from the lime, which has been the case heretofore

Any quantity of lime might be deposited on the road side above our dwellings where the road is much wider and better for that purpose. As the former notice was signed hastily and not drawn up by ourselves, we deem it proper to explain our intentions in that notice by this article.

Report of Analysis of Quick LIME

DELIVERED by Messrs Ermentrout at my farm. The specimens were taken with my own hand from a number of cart loads after they were deposited in the field, and the sample was a fair representation of the whole:

Lime weight of, as pure Lime, or Oxide o Calcium,	60.37
Magnesia, weight of, as pure, or Calcined Magnesia, or Oxide of Magnesia,	22.38
Potash and Soda,	01.00
Iron and alumina, or clay,	06.60
Silica, or sand,	01.10
Silica acid, or soluble silica,	03.00
Bone earth, weight as Phosphate of Magnesia,	00 40
Loss, supposed to be carbonic acid and water,	05.15
	100

REMARKS—Every hundred bushels of this Lime contains Phosphates about equal to one bushel of Bones. When bones are dissolved and infinitely divided, it is said that the immediate effects of one bushel is equal to four; if so he value of these phosphates is more than one bushel.

Respectfully,
DAVID STEWART, M. D.

P. S. The above Lime is called the Epler's Rock, Reading Lime, proprietors, Zacharias & Ermentrout. Reading, Pa.

I have showed the annexed to our State Ag. Chemist, Dr. Higgins and he says he could send you any amount of orders

Extract from a letter of Fred. Wm. Heckell, M. D. of of New York.

"As under manure we understand a compound substance which restore to the soil, what previous or succeeding crops abstract. Therefore, it of course follows, beyond a doubt, that your lime must be beneficial to any soil and prevent its exhaustion." The Lime will be forwarded on accommodating terms.
