To The Kent News.

As I am a subscriber to the above paper I would like to voice the sentiments of at least 250 including myself. Now we all know that Tolchester Fair was a great success all the way through except one point, I and others were so disappointed, words cannot express our feelings, on Thursday, August 31, myself, wife and four children and some company had made preparations in connection with some other work all day Wednesday. My wife cooked to fix up the necessary wants for the family, put on extra touches in the way of cakes, pies, chicken etc., we got up extra early to be sure that every one was dressed to suit the occasion, my wife attended to dressing the children and was really tired before we started for Betterton wharf which is about four miles from where we live. We arrived at Betterton at 7.30 as the boat is supposed to leave at 8.15, thinking it was far better to be early than late. we waited until about 9 o'clock when there was a crowd of colored people arrived and the ticket office was open for colored people only. After a while the Kitty Knight arrived and the colored people got on board and she left for Tolchester. After while the Susquehanna arrived and took on freight and she left with passengers only for Baltimore, after a good long wait with a baby in my arms crying and the hot sun boiling down on us and in a crowd of people standing on a lumber pile I looked around and saw people, only a few, with tickets, I then smelled a rat. I made inquires in regards to tickets and the agent said tickets would be sold when the boat arrived, well I thought there is a joke because when the boat got to the wharf it was full from stem to stern with people and some one shouted out that only 16 could get aboard! So there we were a large crowd of respected white people either had to go home or drive 20 miles or more in the middle of the day which a very few did but I want to state right here this is not the first time people have been left at Betterton wharf but I will bet my neck it will be the last time I will be left at Betterton wharf or any other wharf hereafter.
