SATURDAY.....JUNE 5, 1880.

A Kindergarten School.

In the kindergarten school of Pittsburg, Pa., the children are taught to lay the table for breakfast. Little toy tables and toy dishes are used. "What do we place on the table next?" asks the teacher. "Napkins," reply the pupils. "What are napkins for?" "To wipe our mouths and fingers, and keep our dress neat." Having learned this lesson, the pupils are taught to place the napkins, then to place the plates, which must always be warmed," then the milk pitcher, water pitcher, sugar bowl, tray bowl. "What is a tray bowl for?" "To pour the dregs of the cups into." Then the coffee pot and other articles are arranged, and the pupils arise and repeat the lesson together pointing to each article as they name it. "These are little breakfast tables. This is the coffee pot; it should be scalded before the coffee is put in. This is the sugar bowl; it should be filled when taken from the table. These are the knives. This is the fork; we eat with the fork. These are the breakfast plates; they should always be warm," and so on with the whole. Then comes a song which the children sing together:

"When I was very little, I used to sit and think
How hard my mother had to work, until my heart would sink,
I tried to help her, as I could, but always did it wrong,
That always made the matter worse and her own work so long.
So then I went to school,
So then I went to school,
And there we learned exactly right,
For we were taught by rule."

The dishes are cleared away by rule, and a toy dishpan is placed before each little housemaid. She plays wash the dishes and rinse them, singing meanwhile:

"Washing dishes,
Suds are hot,
Work away briskly,
Do not stop."
"First the glasses;
Wash them well;
If you do them nicely,
All can tell."

DO THISTLES ENRICH THE SOIL?—It is stated that a good growth of thistles (Canada) leaves the soil richer than before. This is doubtless the truth, and the same may be said of any crop, provided it is not removed from the ground. This is merely the general way that soil is made rich in the organic elements that are so essential to the growth of profitable crops. But there is more than ordinary ability possessed by the thistle planter to enrich the soil. The roots penetrate to a great depth, and bring up large quantities of potash and other valuable constituents, and deposit them upon or near the surface, as their stems and leaves decay. Again, the mechanical action of a vigorous growth of thistles is to loosen, pulverize, and render the soil more accessible to the roots of other plants. Granting that the action of the thistle plant upon the soil is good, we must look at the other side of the question. What is the cost of this method of improvement? While the thistles hold possession no paying crop can be obtained. When useful plants are sown, they must be carefully tended, or the thistles will crowd them out. Lastly, the bring up of valuable substances from the subsoil, can be as well done by plants that are themselves useful for food, as clover, etc., and no miserable weed afterwards left to infest the ground. The best that can be said of the thistle is that it is a miserable prickly pest, which, when allowed to have its way, loosens and enriches the upper soil.—Amer. Agriculturist.

SOME FACTS ABOUT JUDGE THURMAN.—Judge Thurman is not a rich man, his fortune ranging from $50,000 to $60,000. He lives quietly in Washington, his house being furnished without ostentation and with an eye single to comfort. His wife is a most admirable woman, devoted to her home and husband, and heartily glad that there is a possibility of his retirement from public life after next year. Touching his retirement, there is a little thing told of Judge Thurman that illustrates the sincerity of his character. A friend, speaking of his leaving the Senate, said: "It will be a great loss to the Democratic party." "Yes," said the senator, with perfect seriousness, "I believe it will." In social life the senator is pleasant, a fine talker, full of humor, fond of an anecdote. All in all, he is a type of the best American—resolute, strenuous, serious when at work; easy, sincere, straightforward when at leisure—always vigorous, strong, clear headed and far-seeing.—Phila. Times.

A DAY or two since two Frenchwomen were passengers on one of the local trains between Virginia City and Carson. They had with them in a big tin cage a parrot that annoyed every one with its constant squalling and gabble. Observing the unfriendly glances which were being bestowed upon the bird, one of the women pulled down a cloth cover that was on the top of the cage. When the extinguisher was clapped upon the bird and it found itself in the dark, it growled out: "That's d—d smart." The bird kept quiet for a few minutes, then yelled in its shrillest tones: "Look out, Sarah, he's going to kiss you." The conductor, who happened to be in the car, said: "That parrot must be an old traveler on railroads. He seems to think we are passing through a tunnel."

YOUNG housewife: "What miserable little eggs again! You really must tell them, Jane, to let the hen set on them a little longer."

PERSONS who wear wigs are unsafe in Missouri. A tornado is liable to come along at any moment and leave them baldheaded.

A YOUNG lady named Sheep changed her name to Lamb before she had been in Michigan 36 hours. She went West in search of youth.

"SETTLE promptly with us and we will settle with somebody else," is the legend on the bill-head of a prominent firm.

"MAN proposes;" no he doesn't, either, just now, it's leap year.

Sub-Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That the County Commissioners of Kent County, shall have full power and authority, to make reasonable rules and regulations for the receipt and delivery of freight, at or upon the public wharves in Kent County, and to enforce the observance of said rules and regulations, by imposing upon the party violating the same any reasonable fine not exceeding two dollars for any one violation, which fines shall be collected from all residents of the county as small debts are now collected; and from non residents of the county by attachments, as set forth in the next section.

Sub-Section 3. The rules and regulations authorized by the preceeding sections, shall be printed and furnished by the County Commissioners, to the several wharf masters, for the information of the public, who shall be bound upon request to exhibit a copy thereof to the owner, master or other person, in charge of a vessel using any of said public wharves, or to any person receiving or delivering freight thereon.

Recognizing the fact that the relationship existing between the counties of Maryland and the City of Baltimore is such that residents of the Counties have occasion to visit the city frequently during the year; in consideration of these facts and the liberal patronage extended the "Maltby" in the past, I deem it but a matter of justice that some discrimination should be made in their favor. I have therefore concluded to
