NEWSY TIDINGS FROM OUR BOYS

The "News" Will Be Glad To Mention Any Items of Interest You May Send About Your Soldier Or Sailor Lad—Let's Help Each Other In This Way.

Sergeant Maurice S. Kerr, one of our volunteer boys from Kent, spent the week-end with his patents, at the same time enjoying a sumptuous turkey dinner at his sister's, Mrs. Charles S. Porter. The sergeant is now on detached duty as supply sergeant at the Divisional Stockade, Camp McClellan, Ala. He is also one of the lucky boys appointed to the Officers Training Camp, which has just started at Camp McClellan. The sergeant is the son of Capt. and Mrs. Charles R. Kerr, of Rock Hall.

A letter from Norman Crouch at the aviation school in Waco, Texas, says he is well and happy. The life is very exciting and uncertain. The boy in the bed next to him said the other day, "Norman, if I pile up look in my trunk and you will find a little black book; write to those people whose addresses you find there. I will do the same for you if you are unlucky enough to go before I do." He says they all realize they are playing a losing game and will go sooner or later, but the thrilling sensation is surely worth the price, no matter how short the pleasure. It is the only game that appeals to a red-blooded American and we appreciate the fact that we are doing more to win this man's war than most anybody, and every minute lost on this side means a great many more lives on the other side. It cost Uncle Sam $12,000 to $15,000 to train each man and he, of course, watches and guards each man very closely."

A young man writing from France says: "Few aviators leave the service with wounds. When you fall two or three miles out of the clouds and hit the earth you don't have to worry about being mutilated for the rest of your life!"

He spoke at length of the "comforts" of being an aviator: Not more than two hours flying a day, on an average; the fine living quarters; the good food; the attentive servants; the deference of superior officers—even colonels and generals; the good pay; above all, the "thrills."

"Oh, it's wonderful!" I love that little machine of mine. She's done 150 miles an hour for me many a time, and now I'm promised one that can go 180 miles.

"Most of the time when I am in the air I fly about 12,000 feet from the earth. The German anti-aircraft guns can't touch you then, and I feel a good deal safer than I would riding at 60 miles an hour on a country road in an auto.

"You know there's a law over here to the effect that a property owner must give food and shelter to any Allied aviator who is forced to descend on his land.

"Well, it's just as easy to alight on the grounds of some magnificent chateau as near a hovel, isn't it?" George winked.

Picture of W. H. Lambert, 3rd, taken in his Navy suit. Henry was a former employe of the KENT NEWS and is now somewhere on the Atlantic Ocean in one of Uncle Sam's war ships.

Hyland P. Stewart, Jr., has been commissioned as a first lieutenant in the aviation section of the Signal Corps at the training camp at San Antonio, Texas. He was a member of the ninth class of the Grand Officers' Training School and was graduated on December 29. Lieut. Stewart is a grand-son of the late William H. Stewart, formerly of Kent county.

SAVE THE WHEAT

Mr. P. M. Brooks, proprietor of Radcliffe Mills, says the new Government Regulations will make quite a change in the quality of the flour produced by the mills.

A new regulation recently issued to millers by the Food Administrator will save 16,000,000 bushels of wheat during the present wheat year, and will reduce the price of bran about $10 per ton, but the quality of flour will not be seriously changed. Beginning with Christmas day, licensed millers shall use no more than 264 pounds of clean wheat to make a barrel of 196 pounds of flour.

From the entire flour thus produced the licensee may at his option remove 5 per cent of low grade flour, not to be sold as feed. The remaining 95 per cent of the 196 pounds of flour shall not be subject to further separation, and the bran shall be sold at not over 38 per cent of the cost of the wheat, but the "middlings" may be sold $2 higher than bran.

She was a woman of sterling qualities and one whose life suggests the thought, "the truly illustrous are they who do not court the praise of the world, but perform the deeds which deserve it." Her life work was devotion to her family; each succeeding year finding her constant and uncomplaining. She "fought a good fight," and with her passing, carried the admiration of the community.

"We count this thing to be grandly true—
That a noble deed is a step toward God,
Lifting the soul from the common sod
To a purer air and a broader view."

Her friends feel that, for her, "there is no death! her star has gone down to rise upon some fairer shore; and bright in heaven's jeweled crown to shine forevermore."

BOWERS-WALLEN

A very quiet but pretty home wedding and wedding anniversary took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. T. Godwin, near Crumpton, on Wednesday evening, Jan. 9th, at 6 o'clock. The contracting parties were Mr. G. Herbert Bowers and Miss Ida V. Wallen. It also was the occasion of the 17th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Godwin.

Promptly at the appointed hour, to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march, rendered by Mrs. Norman A. Wallen, of Millington, sister-in-law of bride, the wedding party, preceded by Mr. and Mrs. Wm. T. Godwin as the only attendants, entered the spacious parlors and were met by Rev. Jas. A. Leach, pastor of Calvary M. E. Church, Sudlersville, and using the beautiful and impressive ceremony of the Methodist Episcopal Church, pronounced them man and wife. The bride was handsomely attired in a wedding gown of plum color satin, with gloves to match. The matron of honor was becomingly dressed in a messaline-de-steele silk dress with gloves to match. The groom and his best man wore the conventional black. A splendid reception and dinner immediately followed to the families and a few invited friends. The house and table decorations were beautiful and the whole affair while it was within bounds of good taste, yet simplicity showed on every hand and bespoke of these stirring war times.

The presents were numerous and costly, consisting of silver, cut glass, linens, china, etc. The bride is a beautiful and popular girl of the upper part of Queen Annes county and is well known in religious and social circles. She has been organist of Providence M. P. Church for a number of years and is regarded as one of the highly talented organists in this section. She is the daughter of Col. and Mrs. Samuel A. Wallen. After the reception they were driven to the home of Mr. Bowers on the "Bowers Home Farm," near McGinness, where they will reside.

On Friday evening a rousing serenade had been planned by the groom's "Owl" friends and others, but owing to the inclement weather not so many masqueraders turned out, but those that did made a "big noise" and spent a merry evening and left wishing bride and groom a long, happy, married life.

Those present at the wedding and reception were as follows: Mr. and Mrs. N. A. Wallen, Carlton Wallen, Mr. and Mrs. John Wallen, Mr. and Mrs. Harry McGinnes, Miss Ada Wallen, Mrs. and Mrs. Jas. AN agreement has been reached by the State Roads Commission, the Pennsylvania Railroad and the County Commissioners of Cecil County, by which the dangerous overhead crossings near Charlestown may be avoided. Many accidents, some of them fatal,, have occurred at these crossings in the last few years.

The Railroad Company has agreed to contribute $50,000 to improve a road already open and which constitutes a cut-off so that tourists may avoid the bridges at which there are bad approaches. The State road at present runs through Charlestown. The cut-off does not.

The approaches to the bridge at Bacon Hill, also a dangerous place, are to be straightened so that when the work is completed the road between Perryville and Elkton will be as safe as any in the State.
