Warner Baxter and the two lovely women who figure in the magnificent love story, "Grand Canary." Above is Zita Johann and below Madge Evans. Coming to the New Lyceum Theatre on Monday and Tuesday, August 27th and 28th.

Reopened after a complete overhauling of projection equipment the New Lyceum Theatre is off on its Fall program of pictures and the lineup of attractions which "Roxy" Russell has announced promise great entertainment for fans. For Monday and Tuesday of this week "The Grand Canary" will be the featured attraction, bringing to the screen Warner Baxter, Madge Evans and Zita Johann in a startling roance whose locale shifts from the teeming streets of London to the enchantment of the Canary Islands.

The story concerns a doctor who, ruined in London, goes to these islands to forget. When a yellow fever epidemic breaks out he finds himself once again interested in the saving of humanity, and covers himself with glory. Returning to England he finds the fame and acclaim which were denied to him before through jealousy.

For Wednesday and Thursday "Hat, Coat and Glove" will be the featured attraction at the New Lyceum Theatre. This is a brand new movie, coming direct to this theatre for its first showing in Maryland and Ricardo Cortez has the leading role. The story is a mystery yarn, but the action is mixed with just enough gay comedy to furnish laughs with the thrills.

For Friday and Saturday there are two features scheduled for the New Lyceum Theatre. The first is "Embarassing Moments," with Chester Morris and Marion Nixon, while the other is a thrilling Western, "Randy Rides Alone," starring John Wayne.

MOSQUITOES INTERFERING WITH FARM WORK

Mosquitoes are reported more numerous on the Eastern Shore than ever before. An Eastonian went to Dorchester county last week in search of some plants. To his amazement, he says, he saw people working in the tomato patches wearing rubber boots and raincoats, as well as gloves, with their heads tied up as a guard against mosquitoes.

These insects were playing havoc with the horses and mules,and many farmers found it almost impossible to work their crops for the mosquitoes. The insects torment man and beast, and the harvest of tomatoes goes on under difficulties. These insects put in their appearance all of a sudden, the natives of Dorchester stated, and they are seen in groups that stretch for long distances. It is said that they will disapear eventually as quick as they came, but when could not be determined.—Easton Star-Democrat.

Happiness grows at our own firesides, and is not to be found in strangers' gardens. — Douglas Jerrold.

Type of switchboard found in many small towns and rural localities.

Telephone facilities in small towns and rural areas in America exceed many larger cities of foreign countries. This fact is brought out in a report of Telephone and Telegraph Statistics of the World, recently compiled by the American Telephone and Telegraph Company.

Telephones in foreign countries, the report shows, are concentrated to a great extent in large urban centers, but in America the small towns and rural areas are also unusually well provided with telephone facilities. Communities of less than 50,000 population in this country averaged about 10.2 telephones for each 100 people.

No other country except Canada had a total telephone density as great as this, and even the majority of large European cities were more sparingly equipped.

The superiority of American cities over those abroad in extent of telephone service is remarkable. The fifty-three cities in this country with more than 200,000 population had an average of one telephone for every five people. This development exceeded that of any large city outside of this country, with a few exceptions in Canada and one in Europe. San Francisco led the larger cities of the world in telephone development with 36.5 telephones for each 100 inhabitants, and Washington took second place with 33.3 telephones per 100 population, or one telephone for every three inhabitants.

"Show me a field I can't plow"

THIS expression, often heard from an owner of the new Case Model "L" Tractor, shows the absolute confidence he has in his tractor's ability.

The tractor backs him up on it, too. Light and compact, it weighs but a trifle more than three draft horses—no excess weight to be pulled around. More power is available for useful and profitable work.

Other advantages include a fast, irreversible steering gear which relieves the operator of shocks and jerks from the front wheels . . . hand operated clutch within reach from the ground or tractor seat . . . handy controls easily worked . . . swinging drawbar for easy steering and making short turns with full loads . . . practically automatic lubrication.

Come in—see and decide for yourself that the many advantages offered in this new tractor and in the smaller Model "C" as well as in many other Case farm machines are just what you need to make your farm work easier and more profitable.
