The Duke Jersey Estate One Of The Handsomest In America—Wedding Surprises Friends.

Mr. James Buchanan Duke, the multimillion president of the American Tobacco Company, was married in Camden N. J., last week to Mrs. L. N. McCredy. The ceremony took place at the residence of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Lewis Seal, at 217 Cooper street, and only a few of the most intimate friends of the couple were present.

Few of Mr. Duke's friends had any intimation that he contemplated matrimony, although several suspected something was to occur from the recent elaborate improvements to his great estate at Somerville, N. J.

Mr. Duke and Mrs. McCredy had been engaged for a long time, and it is said that the ceremony would have taken place months ago but for Mr. Duke's determination to postpone it until he could safely leave the management of his large business interests to other hands. For weeks Mr. Duke has been at work night and day perfecting the consolidation of the principal outside tobacco interests of the country with the American Tobacco Company. This consolidation was consummated a short time ago, and Mr. Duke and Mrs. McCredy decided that there was no longer any reason for delay.

They took fewer than a dozen persons into their confidence, and by the time most of Mr. Duke's friends hear of his marriage he and his bride will be on their way to Europe to enjoy a two months' honeymoon.

WEDDING WAS SIMPLE.

The wedding today was simple in character. The home of Mrs. Saal was a bower of roses and greens, and the company although few in numbers, was a merry one. A wedding breakfast followed the ceremony, and the bride and bridegroom, after receiving the congratulations of their friends, started away. They sailed for Europe last week on the Baltic. They will spend a week in Paris, a month in Italy and two or three weeks in London returning about February 1.

The wedding was the culmination of a romance of several years standing. Mrs. McCredy is beautiful and accomplished and is a favorite in society here. She is a musician, has a beautiful voice and her marriage to Mr. Duke probably means the throwing open to society of the Dukes estate at Somerville. Mr. and Mrs. Duke mean to make their home there for the greater part of the year, although they will have a town house on Fifth avenue.

MISTRESS OF SPLENDID ESTATE.

Mr. Dukes wedding gift to his bride was a magnificent diamond necklace, one of the handsomest pieces of jewelry ever put together in this country.

Mrs. Duke will be the mistress of one of the finest country places in the United States. Before his marriage Mr. Duke was the second richest bachelor in America, and he has been lavish in his outlay of money on the place. Three hundred and fifty men are at work there now. The already large mansion is to be almost doubled and another lake is to be put in. A new reservoir is also to be built. This work has been going on for some time and is almost completed. The good folk of the surrounding country, wondering what object in the world a lone bachelor had in making the place larger, started a story some time ago that Mr. Duke was to be married. It was just a guess on their part, however, and until today they didn't know how squarely they had hit the nail on the head.

The Duke estate contains over 1,700 acres, all under cultivation, and is about three times as large as Central Park. No other bachel or in the country owned such a place. The conservatories on the place are said to be second only to those at the Bronx Botanical Gardens. The Italian fountain alone represents an outlay of $200,000 and scatterd about the grounds there is statuary valued at $250,000.

One can travel over 15 miles of the farm without crossing the same road twice, and everywhere is the russet and gold foliage, the perfectly kept lawns, the macadam roads and the beauties of a place maintained without regard to expense and in perfect taste.

There are numerous lakes on the place, all stocked with fish. The stables are models of luxury, built on the lines of old castles, the partitions between the stalls being of beautiful rugs. Oil paintings adorn the walls, and fine samples of horseflesh are to be found there. The clubhouse and other buildings on the place are luxurious, and the new house Mr. Duke is building will be one of the finest country residences in the world. The building alone, without furnishing, will cost in the neighborhood of $1,000,000.

The "Tobacco King."

James B. Duke is one of the hardest working millionaires in the world. There is never a day that he doesn't put in 10 hours, and sometimes a good deal more. He is the son of a poor farmer, of Durham, N. C., who started in a small tobacco business in order to recoup his fortunes at the close of the Civil War, James B. Duke entered the business with his father, and it was prosperous until the famous firm of W. Duke Sons & Co. was formed, and its products sold all over the world.

Fifteen years ago Mr. Duke began the work of consolidating the cigarette factories of the country. This movement resulted in the formation of American Tobacco Company, of which Mr. Duke was elected president. He then secured partial control of the manufacture of smoking tobacco; later was interested in a combination of snuff makers; then accomplished the practical co-operation of the plug-tobacco manufacturers, and later formed the great cigar and cheroot trust. His success in securing at one stroke a large share of the tobacco business of England was a notable achievement.

Mr. Duke now practically controls the tobacco trade of the world. His wealth is estimated at from $30,000,000 to $50,000,000.

"If I Had My Way About Gifts"

I would give to all people just what they want.

If I couldn't tell what they want, from their tastes, I would ask them.

I would never give a cigar-clip to a man who doesn't use tobacco, nor a stop watch to one who never saw a horserace.

I would give clothes, shoes, hats, if I thought people needed them—without the slightest hesitation.

I would measure his old coat around the chest and pick out a "house coat." And I would look at the number inside his shoes, so that his slippers would fit when they came home.

I would stuff the stockings of the children with warm wraps and dresses and underwear, rather than with sweets. Santa Claus attends to the toys and candies.

I would give gloves and neckwear and collars and shirts, and I would see that everyone got a dress pattern or too, of cotton, wool or silk—for they can be made up whenever wanted.

I would give to everyone at least one book.

I would give jewelry to those who can afford to wear it, and watches to those who are habitually behind time.

To that golf friend—I mean friend—of mine, I would send one of those Angora Jackets—and get it now before they are all gone.

I would in my giving apply the principles I have laid down above. I would make Christmas a time of real heartfeltness—a time that should last forever, for I would repeat my style of giving from year to year, and so never give opportunity for forgetting.

And I would be happiest of all.

Our Mail Order Department is equipped to give prompt and accurate service. The McCall Bazar of Fashions mailed free every month on request. Samples of Silks, Dress Goods, Wash Fabrics and so on will be cheerfully sent if you will write for them.
