"I find Thedford's Black-Draught a good medicine for liver disease. It cured my on after he had spent $100 with doctors. It is all the medicine I take."—MRS. CAROLINE MARTIN, Parkersburg, W. Va.

If your liver does not act regularly go to your druggist and secure a package of Thedford's Black-Draught and take a dose tonight. This great family medicine frees the constipated bowels, stirs up the torpid liver and causes a healthy secretion of bile.

Thedford's Black-Draught will cleanse the bowels of impurities and strengthen the kidneys. A torpid liver invites colds, biliousness, chills and fever and all manner of sickness and contagion. Weak kidneys result in Bright's disease which claims as many victims as consumption. A 25-cent package of Thedford's Black-Draught should always be kept in the house.

GOOD ROADS

Should The Federal Government Aid? —How to Raise the Money.

One of the burning questions of the day, which has behind it strong influences and apparently an increasing popular sentiment, is that of government aid in making good roads throughout the country.

The propriety of the Federal Government entering into this scheme is widely questioned, but there are cogent arguments in its favor. If a merchant cannot send his goods upon the waterways of the nation, on account of shallows or sand-bars, the Government removes the obstructions without expense to the merchant. If farm products cannot be brought readily from the farm to town, on account of impassable roads, why, it is asked, should not the Government extend a helping hand? Local methods, long tried, are found to be inadequate. The almost universal habit of allowing the farmers to work out their road tax, instead of paying it in money, result probably in a loss of at least 50 per cent. of the nominal amount of such tax.

The plan proposed by bills now pending in Congress is co-operation between the National, State and county Governments. Provision is made for an appropriation of $25,000,000, to be distributed among the States on condition that they respectively provide for at least an equal amount. Thus if the share of one State should be one million dollars, it must provide at least another million. The State in return offers to each county its share, conditioned on its raising at least one-third as much. By this means every dollar furnished from the United States Treasury will, it is assumed, secure as a rule nearly $3, cash expenditure, if to be made under the inspection and supervision of Government officials, the supposition is that the best possible results will be derived therefrom.

The value of good wagon roads to the commerce of a country must be conceded, when we remember that 95 per cent. of all the trade handled by the railroads and steamships is first carted over the country roads. Hence the enormous aggregate waste, due to the fact that it may require four horses to haul a load which two horses should haul if the roads were good, or that it requires two days to haul what could be transported in one day—the farmer thus giving one-half his time, so employed, to the bad roads cause.

It is estimated that the average farmer loses at least $100.00 a year to the cause of bad roads. This injures not alone the farmer but the village storekeeper, because the farmer might earn one hundred dollars a year more and have that much more to spend.

If one were called upon to decide which of the great American industries had in last 40 years been most favorably affected by legislation, he would be obliged to say that farming was that industry. Much of this legislation has been only of indirect benefit, but it has all resulted in the farmer's favor from the rai road subsidies, which open up vast territories for settlements, to the tariff schedule, which have amazingly developed our manufacturing interests, and made home markets for agricultural products. All this favorable legislation has been of benefit to the whole people as well as to the farmer. Now if by improving the common roads of the country, another direct and manifest benefit can be conferred upon the agricultural population, who is there so blind to the general welfare as to interpose an objection?

All the proposed measures provide for the issue of local bonds to raise funds to pay for the building of the roads. This naturally meets with favor from that class of capitalists who prefer to invest in local securities rather than railroad or manufacturing enterprises. Some objection is made to this feature, but if properly regulated and restrained within reasonable bounds it cannot be objectionable. Good roads of a permanent nature, like all other enduring improvements, are made not only for the benefit of this, but of succeeding generations. It is, therefore, not unfair that some of the burden of paying for them be transmitted to posterity.

POTATOES FOR PROFIT.

It is a positive fact that a crop of potatoes will grow into money quicker than anything else you can plant. It is also a fact that none of the ordinary field crops require so great an outlay for the items of labor and fertilizer as a potato crop. For this reason the man who takes chances and plants home grown seed, foregoing the well known advantages of Northern grown seed, is trifling with the business end of a risky proposition.

The difference in cost of home and Northern grown seed is trifling as compared to the difference in yield and vitality.

The recognized headquarters for seed potatoes is E. S. Woodward & Co., 123 Dock Street, Philadelphia. They are direct receivers of potatoes grown in Aroostook county, Maine, expressly for seed, taking special precaution to avoid stock showing any imperfection. They also make a specialty of Virginia second crop potatoes. The supply of second crop this year is limited, but excellent in quality.

Get the idea of home grown seed out of your head and write E. S. Woodward & Co., 122 Dock Street, Philadelphia, for circular. They will quote lowest price on superior seed.

AN EDITOR'S PATHETIC APPEAL.

It is reported, says an exchange, that one of our newly married ladies kneads bread with her gloves on. The incident may be peculiar, but there are others. The editor of this paper needs bread with his shoes on; he needs bread with his shirt on, and unless some of the delinquent subscribers of this paper pay up, before long he will need bread without so much as anything on, and this is no Garden of Eden, either in the winter time.—Enid (Oklahoma), Daily Wave.
