LUBRICANT

Carbon Remover

Solves the Carbon Problem

When your motor loses power, when it knocks, bucks, and overheats, don't start monkeying with the carburetor.

It is apparent that there is carbon in the cylinders, as these are typical symptoms of carbon trouble

The first indication of the presence of carbon is loss of power. The motor labors when you climb a hill. If this is not promptly attended to the valves will become pitted and warped. Eventually your motor will be ruined.

REMOVE THE CARBON AND YOU WILL SAVE GASOLINE

Lubricant Carbon Remover Does Not Injure Motor

Endorsed by Dr. Herbert M. Hill, Buffalo's City Chemist

"This is to certify that a can of Lubricant Carbon Remover, taken by me personally from stock ready to ship to customers, analyzed by me, was found to be entirely free of acids or any other ingredients that would injure a motor."—Herbert M. Hill, PH.D.

"Before using Lubricant Carbon Remover in my Ford I was getting sixteen miles to the gallon of gas. After using it I was able to get twenty-two miles per gallon on a 35-mile drive" —George Thompson, Spirit Lake, Iowa.

Each can is backed up with the manufacturer's guarantee.

Don't put this off until tomorrow, or next week. Send One Dollar for a can of Lubricant Carbon Remover, prepaid, Today. Agents wanted.
