TRADE MARK

WILBUR W. HUBBARD'S FERTILIZERS

MUST HAVE

Superior quality and absolute Uniformity and Purity. This spring makes their 64th season in business and their trade has increased each year in spite of competition, their sales for the past year having been larger than ever before. Can the sales of an inferior article constantly increase all these years?

Our fertilizers are not better than all others, but they have been, and we are willing for you to try them in competition with any goods on the market.

WE PRESUME

you are now thinking about Asparagus, Corn, Potatoes, Peach Trees and top dressing your hay. Well we have the goods to apply and at all right prices.

BUT FOR TOMATOES

Everybody knows that our Peerless is the goods to use on them, for it has quality and is made of the very best materials known to the trade and one ingredient we use in it is the only phospate that contains this article outside of France where it has been used so successfully in tomato and truck fertilizer.

Mr. Jas. F. David of Smyrna says he grew with it last year the finest tomatoes he ever saw grow he picked a basket that weighed 1½ lbs. each. He grew onions that measured 13 inches in circumference. He grew corn some stalks 13½ feet high and ears 14 inches long. The late Captain Emory grew on one occasion 17 tons per acre. Mr. Zac T. Gilbert grew 19 tons to the acre. Mr. G. W. Collins has bought as high as 50 tons per year, and his men grew from 12 to 15 tons per acre. We have sold already in Anne Arundel county, the lower counties and New Jersey, hundreds of tons. Messrs. Baker and Morgan have bought as high as twelve hundred dollars worth; Captain Dashiel says he would have it if he had to give $50.00 per ton for same. Mr. Joseph Downey says when he was canning that he could actually tell the difference in tomatoes grown with Peerless when brought to his cannery. Mr. Numsen says he knows that tomatoes grown with our goods are fine. Mr. Frank Moore, who runs Assaw Bains & Co's cannery, says the best tomatoes brought there are from Peerless. Mr. Loose, a customer of his, says a ton of Peerless grew him $96.00 worth more tomatoes than another goods costing $7.00 less per ton. Mr. Money says it is certainly good. We could go on, but with a testimonial will close.

Unsolicited some time ago Mr. J. W. Elburn & Son came in our office and said: "I believe your Peerless to be the best tomato goods I ever saw. You remember what an advocate I was of it when I lived out at the mill. Well, wherever I have lived since, on the Western Shore or elsewhere, I would have it, and last year I put some of this same goods on some onions grown from the seed, and they were as fine as Burmudas. Many measured 4 inches in diameter, and I grew over 600 bushels per acre, or at rates of 1162 baskets. I used it on strawberries and picked 8000 quarts per acre."

WORTHLESS DOGS.

Prof. H. J. Patterson, director of the experimental station, College Park, is taking a deep interest in the extension of the poultry and sheep raising industry in Maryland. He has given the subject much thought, and is of the firm opinion that these important branches will not expand until aided by legislation which will effectually put a stop to destruction wrought by worthless dogs.

"The sheep and poultry industry of Maryland will never develop as it should until we have some law which will put a restraint upon the dogs which are allowed to run promiscuously over the country," said Director Patterson. "Again, this same class of dogs is rapidly depleting the game in this state, and will soon cause its entire destruction unless means of control are adopted. Maryland's natural conditions and location are peculiarly advantageous for the sheep industry, and especially so for the raising of early and hot house lambs. Even though the possible profits are exceptionally large, farmers hesitate to engage in sheep-raising as long as they are subject to such hazardous conditions by being surrounded on every side by worthless dogs running wild.

"The leaders in agriculture recognize these facts, and all agree that some relief is needed, although some feel that it is impossible to get a legislature to pass an adequate measure. The opposition to such a law can be easily overcome if every organization and every well thinking farmer individually will support a good, thorough law, and take extra pains to allow their representatives in the legislature to know their sentiments. All the legislators want to know is that their actions will be backed by the best and leading people of the state. All of the states where sheep and live-stock industries are prosperous have good, strong laws protecting them from dogs. The people of those states have given their legislators the support and backing necessary to cause the enactment of the proper measures. By the proper cooperation and effort we can do the same in Maryland, and it is hoped that the right steps will be taken to insure some such results from the Maryland legislature in 1908.

Dr. Patterson has prepared a bill, the passage of which he will urge upon the next General Assembly. He has begun early his agitation for his proposition to protect the sheep industry in order that the people of the state may be aroused to the necessity of the legislation, and may join him in urging the requisite relief.

The bill provides a uniform tax of $1 for each dog in the State. The tax is to be collected in each election district by a collector selected by the county commissioners. The contract for collecting the tax is to be let to the lowest responsible bidder, who is required to give bond. Provision is made for use of the dog tax fund in reimbursing owners of poultry and sheep destroyed or maimed by dogs. The county commissioners may offer a reward not exceeding $25 for the killing of a dog which has destroyed or maimed poultry or sheep. If the owner of the destructive dog is known he may be required to kill or confine the animal. The commissioners or their agents are authorized by the act to go upon the premises of the dog owner and kill the animal. The owner may save the dog by giving bond in the sum of $200 that the animal would not do further damage. Other important provisions of the bill follow:

Any person may kill a dog which assaults him outside the enclosure of its owner or keeper and any person may kill a dog found out of the inclosure or immediate care of the owner or keeper worrying, maiming or killing sheep, lambs, fowls or other domestic animals, and any person may kill a licensed dog which has proved to be mischievous or dangerous if it is found strolling off the premises or outside of the immediate care of its owner or keeper.

The owner or keeper of a dog which is doing damage to sheep, lambs, fowls, or other domestic animals shall be liable in an action of tort to the county for all damages so done, which the county commissioners have ordered to be paid as provided in this act. The district attorney may, and if so ordered by the county commissioners, shall bring said action.

All moneys which are received by the county treasurer under the provisions of this act and which is not paid for damages in the calendar year for which it is collected, shall be expended for the restocking of game in the respective counties under the direction of the state game warden.

A county officer who refuses or wilfully neglects to perform the duties imposed upon him by the provisions of this act relating to dogs shall be punished by a fine of not more than $100, which shall be paid into the county treasurer. Whoever is aggrieved by such refusal or neglect may report the same forthwith to the district attorney of his county, who shall bring action.

A city or town may make additional ordinances or by-laws relative to the taxing and restraining of dogs.

All fines and penalties provided for in this act may be recovered before a police, district, or municipal court, or justice of the peace in the county in which the offence was committed.

Plan to Raise Cabbage.—B. F. B. Woodall, the Milford specialist in agriculture, especially market gardening, gives out the following for the information and profit of the farmers of the entire peninsula, as a plan or receipe for raising cabbage and peas, the two great money-makers of this section: 200 pounds rock; for an acre of peas, 100 pounds muriate potash; on each of cabbage use 500 pounds of fish, 500 pounds of tankage, 200 pounds muriate of potash. After the plants get started, use 100 pounds of nitrate of soda in two applications.

Women everywhere should remember that the medicine that holds the record for the largest number of actual cures of female ills is
