TRADE MARK

WILBUR W. HUBBARD'S FERTILIZERS

MUST HAVE

Superior quality and absolute Uniformity and Purity. This spring makes their 6th season in business and their trade has increased each year in spite of competition, their sales for the past year having been larger than ever before. Can the sales of an inferior article constantly increase all these years?

Our fertilizers are not better than all others, but they have been, and we are willing for you to try them in competition with any goods on the market.

WE PRESUME

you are now thinking about Asparagus, Corn, Potatoes, Peach Trees and top dressing your hay. Well we have the goods to apply and at all right prices.

BUT FOR TOMATOES

Everybody knows that our Peerless is the goods to use on them, for it has quality and is made of the very best materials known to the trade and one ingredient we use in it is the only phospate that contains this article outside of France where it has been used so successfully in tomato and truck fertilizer.

Mr. Jas. F. David of Smyrna says he grew with it last year the finest tomatoes he ever saw grow he picked a basket that weighed 1½ lbs. each. He grew onions that measured 13 inches in circumference. He grew corn some stalks 13½ feet high and ears 14 inches long. The late Captain Emory grew on one occasion 17 tons per acre. Mr. Zac T. Gilbert grew 19 tons to the acre. Mr. G. W. Collins has bought as high as 50 tons per year, and his men grew from 12 to 15 tons per acre. We have sold already in Anne Arundel county, the lower counties and New Jersey, hundreds of tons. Messrs. Baker and Morgan have bought as high as twelve hundred dollars worth; Captain Dashiel says he would have it if he had to give $50.00 per ton for same. Mr. Joseph Downey says when he was canning that he could actually tell the difference in tomatoes grown with Peerless when brought to his cannery. Mr. Numsen says he knows that tomatoes grown with our goods are fine. Mr. Frank Moore, who runs Assaw Bains & Co's cannery, says the best tomatoes brought there are from Peerless. Mr. Loose, a customer of his, says a ton of Peerless grew him $96.00 worth more tomatoes than another goods costing $7.00 less per ton. Mr. Money says it is certainly good. We could go on, but with a testimonial will close.

Unsolicited some time ago Mr. J. W. Elburn & Son came in our office and said: "I believe your Peerless to be the best tomato goods I ever saw. You remember what an advocate I was of it when I lived out at the mill. Well, wherever I have lived since, on the Western Shore or elsewhere, I would have it, and last year I put some of this same goods on some onions grown from the seed, and they were as fine as Burmudas. Many measured 4 inches in diameter, and I grew over 600 bushels per acre, or at rates of 1162 baskets. I used it on strawberries and picked 8000 quarts per acre."

CONSCIENCE MONEY.

What the Old Time Publishers Paid From a Sense of Justice.

Some interesting details have been given out lately as to the sums voluntarily paid to British novelists by American publishers before the days of internatiional copyright. Any American firm could reprint at once whatever issued from the English presses, but some publishers arranged with British authors for advance sheets of forthcoming works, thus enabling them to get the start of "piratical" firms which paid the author nothing. It is interesting to observe the occasional disparity between the merit of the book and the price paid. The whole thing was in the nature of a leap in the dark. Often the sum given by the American publisher was really more than the American rights would probably have been worth had it been possible to secure them by copyright. Thus Anthony Trollope got $3,500 for "Sir Harry Hotspur," one of his poorest novels; George Eliot $8,500 for "Daniel Deronda" and Charles Reade $5,000 for "A Woman Hater." No publisher today would pay any such sums for these books if he were permitted to read them before buying.

On the other hand, by way of comparison, the very best books brought their authors only trifling returns from America. Charles Reade received only $250 for "Put Yourself In His Place," $1,000 for "Hard Cash," these being two of his finest novels, and $1,000 for "Love Me Little, Love Me Long." Thackeray got only $750 for "The Newcomes" and $500 for "Henry Esmond." Trollope obtained from the Harpers $125 for "The Bertrams," $250 for "Castle Richmond," $500 for "Phineas Finn," $250 for "The Eustace Diamonds," "Orley Farm," "Lady Anna" and "Ralph the Heir." The $500 for his "Cicero" is fully as much as any American publisher would give today for the copyright of such a book. George Eliot received only $100 for "Adam Bede" and $500 for "Silas Marner," "The Mill on the Floss" brought her $1,500.

Wilkie Collins and Dickens were the most popular authors of the precopyright period, and they fared best of all at the hands of their authorized American publishers. The former drew from this country $1,800 for "The Woman In White," $3,750 each for "The Moonstone" and "Man and Wife" and $3,000 for "Poor Miss Finch." To Dickens the Harpers paid $1,250 for "Little Dorrit," $1,800 for "Bleak House," $5,000 each for "Our Mutual Friend" and "A Tale of Two Cities" and $7,500 for "Great Expectations," this last representing the high water mark of such voluntary payments.—Bookman.

WHAT MONEY IS.

Bait for the matrimonial hook.

The most effective substitute for brains.

Money is the most difficult root to cultivate.

That which women look for while men sleep.

Money is the loudest sound in the voice of life.

What the rich don't need and the poor don't get.

A curse to some that have it and a curse to all that haven't.

A provider for everything but happiness, a passport to everywhere but heaven.

The one thing that makes crooked things look straight and straight things crooked.

That which speaks a language we can all understand, but in which so few are able to converse.

Purchasing by Scent.

"The nose is a powerful factor in the selection of flowers," said the proprietor of a flower stand. "I keep the doors of this glass case open in all kinds of weather. I want possible customers to catch a whiff of the fragrance. Most people buy flowers for the smell instead of the looks. They will pass a shut-in flower stand day after day and never think of buying anything, but just let them get the odor of some favorite flower and they will go home carrying a bouquet as big as your hat."—New York Press.

Golf Sticks.

It is of the utmost importance that the golfer should be on terms of the most complete confidence and intimacy with all the clubs in his bag, and particularly the wooden clubs, from which he gets his length. Such confidence cannot be established during the first few seasons of a golfer's experience. It needs a long time and much thought to grasp what are the essential features of a wooden club that make it exactly suited to the peculiarities of a particular player.—Fry's Magazine.

The Obliging Bankrupt.

Good comradeship may count for much. No man ever typified this better than the Wall street broker who said to his friend the reporter: "I did not fail until after the evening papers went to press, so that you could have it all to yourself in the morning. Come around in an hour or so and I'll give you the figures."

The White Canoe.

In the far north there is a superstition in which the trappers and traders firmly believe even now, that a white canoe, piloted through the heavens by the spirit of an old pioneer, comes for the dying.—Metropolitan Magazine.

When there is a man in the house just sick enough to stay indoors it behooves everybody to walk straight, or there is certain to be trouble.—Somerville Journal.

We hand folks over to God's mercy and show none ourselves.—Eliot.

MEN ADMIRE

MISS EMMA RUNTZLER

a pretty face, a good figure, but sooner or later learn that the healthy, happy, contented woman is most of all to be admired.

Women troubled with fainting spells, irregularities, nervous irritability, backache, the "blues," and those dreadful dragging sensations, cannot hope to be happy or popular, and advancement in either home, business or social life is impossible.

The cause of these troubles, however, yields quickly to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made from native roots and herbs. It acts at once upon the organ afflicted and the nerve centers, dispelling effectually all those distressing symptoms. No other medicine in the country has received such unqualified indorsement or has such a record of cures of female ills as has

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Miss Emma Runtzler, of 631 State St., Schenectady, N. Y., writes:—"For a long time I was troubled with a weakness which seemed to drain all my strength away. I had dull headaches, was nervous, irritable, and all worn out. Chancing to read one of your advertisements of a case similar to mine cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I decided to try it and I cannot express my gratitude for the benefit received. I am entirely well and feel like a new person."

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the most successful remedy for all forms of Female Complaints, Weak Back, Falling and Displacements, Inflammation and Ulceration, and is invaluable in preparing for childbirth and the Change of Life.

Mrs. Pinkham's Standing Invitation to Women

Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to promptly communicate with Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free and always helpful.
