Prepare for ELECTRIC LIVING

During building or remodeling, wiring can be done most economically. Make provision then for the electric living in your future.

CONSULT AN ELECTRICAL CONTRACTOR

Let him make recommendations for wiring and outlets — so that you can take advantage of electric cooking, water heating, clothes drying NOW.

Prediction of things to come

- While you are getting used to today's automatic electric appliances, engineers are at work dreaming up new comforts for the home of the future.
- Lights may turn on automatically as soon as a person enters the room. Probably artificial sunlight will be a lighting element in every room to bring you the healthful benefits of outdoor air.
- House cleaning chores may really become a thing of the past. The house may be so thoroughly air conditioned, summer and winter, that not a speck of dust will survive.
- Kitchens of tomorrow will be revolutionary . . . with freezers and refrigerators built into the wall. Shelves and baskets will glide out easily from separate compartments with individual temperature controls.
- Clothes may come from a compact "cleaning" unit which cleans, dries and presses them in 60 seconds.

Sounds like a good living — this electric living of the future.
