Petition for New Road

TO THE HONORABLE BOARD OF COUNTY COMMISSIONERS FOR KENT COUNTY, MARYLAND.

Gentlemen:—

WHEREAS, James L. Leary and John K. Legg, property owners use in common a right-of-way (which is usually in miserable condition) out from their farms into the main Piney Neck road:

AND WHEREAS, H. L. Kingsland, John L. DeFord and E. C. Clayton, also land owners in the above mentioned neighborhood, are compelled to drive around through the "Kimbolton" farm, which is merely a right of way, and is low, wet, and most of the time nearly impassable;

AND WHEREAS, there is a probability that parts of the aforesaid Kimbolton farm will be sold to different persons.

Now, therefore, to afford the present residents and those who may become residents in this locality, a more convenient and better way out into the Piney Neck Road,

We, the undersigned citizens and taxpayers of the Fifth Election District, believing such a road is needed and can be constructed at moderate cost, respectfully petition your Honorable Board that such steps be taken, looking to the establishment of said road comprising the Right of Way now used by Leary and Legg, and thence running through to John DeFord's lands and thence over DeFord's lands to the "Kimbolton" farm, touch the lands of E. C. Clayton.

Respectfully submitted,

JOHN L. DEFORD,

THE BEST CURE FOR COLIC IN HORSES.

Colic is usually the result of indigestion, caused by sudden changes of feed, too long fasting, food given when the horse is exhausted, new hay or grain, or large quantities of green feed.

Every horse owner should keep Sloan's Sure Colic Care in his stable as an insurance against colic, for an attack of colic is liable to come on without warning at any time, and Sloan's Sure Colic Cure is the safest and best remedy to use. It acts instantly on the stomach and bowels and can be given by a woman or a child.

"I cured a horse with colic that had been treated by a good veterinary surgeon for forty-eight hours," writes Mr. R. A. Pierce, of Cohutta Springs, Ga. "The horse was about dead and the owner said he wouldn't take five cents for him. I gave him three doses of Sloan's Sure Colic Cure and he was up and eating hay in ten minutes."

An Insidious Danger

One of the worst features of Kidney trouble is that it is an insidious disease and before the victim realizes his danger he may have a fatal malady. Take Foley's kidney Remedy at the first sign of trouble as it corrects irregularities and prevents Bright's disease and diabetes. Sold by all druggists.

WHEN THE EARTH DIES

And When Our Other Planets and Our Sun Are Also Dead.

STILL THE HEAVENS BLAZE.

The Infinite Space Shall Always Be Filled With Suns and Worlds and Souls, For In Eternity There Can Be Neither Beginning Nor End.

The earth was dead. The other planets had died, one after the other. The sun was extinct, but the stars were still twinkling. There shall always be stars and worlds.

In the unmeasurable eternity time, which is essentially relative, is determined by the movement of each of these worlds, and in each world it is felt according to the personal sensations of their inhabitants. Each globe measures its proper period of time. The years of the earth are not those of Neptune. Neptune's year equals 164 of ours and is no longer in the absolute. There exists no proper common measure of time and eternity.

In the empty space time does not exist. There are no years, no centuries, but there is a way of measuring time upon a revolving globe. Without periodical movements one can have no conception of time whatsoever.

The earth existed no longer; neither did its celestial neighbor, Mars, nor beautiful Venus, nor the gigantic Jupiter, nor the strange universe of Saturn, its rings gone, nor the slow planets Uranus and Neptune, nor even the sublime sun, whose rays had for centuries made fertile the celestial countries suspended in its light.

The sun was a black globe, the planets were other black globes, and this invisible system continued to course in the starred immensity at the bosom of the cold darkness of space.

From the viewpoint of life all these worlds were dead, existed no longer. They survived their antique history as do the ruins of the dead cities of Assyria, which the archaeologist discovers in the desert and revolved dark in the invisible and unknown. Everything was covered with ice, 273 degrees below zero.

No genius, so sage, could have brought back the days of old when earth sailed through space bathed in light, its beautiful green meadows awakening with the rays of the morning sun, its rivers flowing like serpents through the green fields, its woods reverberating with the songs of the birds, its forests enveloped in majestic mystery.

Then all this happiness seemed eternal. What has become of the mornings and evenings, the flowers and the lovers, the harmonies and joys, the beauties and the dreams? All have disappeared.

The earth is dead, all the planets are dead, the sun is extinct. The solar system gone. Time itself even annhilated.

Time flows into eternity, but eternity remains, and time revives.

Before the earth existed, during a whole eternity, there were suns and worlds, humanities filled with life and activity as are we today. For millions and millions of years our earth did not exist, but the universe was no less brilliant. After our time it will be as before. Our epoch is of no importance.

The dead and cold earth carried in itself, however, an energy not lost, its movement around the sun, which energy transformed into heat would suffice to melt the whole globe, to reduce it to vapor and to begin a new history for it, which, it is true, would not last long, for if this movement around the sun should suddenly cease the earth would fall into the sun and cease to exist. It would rush toward it with ever increasing speed and would reach it in sixty-five days.

When the earth is dead, other worlds will come. There will be other humanities, other Babylonians, other Thebeians, other Athenians, other Romes, other Parises, other palaces, other temples, other glories, other loves, other lights.

And these new universes will disappear in their turn, to be followed by still others. At a certain time far away in the future eternity all the stars of the Milky Way shall rush toward one center of gravity and form an immense formidable sun, center of a system, whose enormous worlds shall become populated by beings living in a temperature which would seem red hot to us.

The infinite space shall always be filled with worlds and stars, souls and suns, and eternity shall last forever, for there can be neither beginning nor end.—Camille Flammarion.

Cut His Visit Short.

The Duke of Wellington once wrote to Dr. Hutton for information as to the scientific acquirements of a young officer who had been under his instruction. The doctor thought he could not do less than answer the question verbally and made an appointment accordingly.

Directly Wellington saw him he said: "I am obliged to you, doctor, for the trouble you are taking. Is —— fit for the post?"

Clearing his throat, Dr. Hutton began: "No man more so, my lord. I can"—

"That's quite sufficient," said Wellington. "I know how valuable your time is. Mine just now is equally so. I will not detain you any longer. Good morning."

Occasions of adversity best discover how great virtue or strength each one hath, for occasions do not make a man frail, but show what he is.
