Public Local Law.

Passed by the Maryland Legislature, Session of 1908, and Operative in Kent County, Maryland.

AN ACT to enlarge the Third Election District of Kent County, by adding thereto part of the Second Election District of said county and to establish voting precincts in said Third Election District so enlarged.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assemby of Maryland, That the Third Election District of Kent County shall be and is hereby enlarged and divided into two voting precincts in the manner hereinafter provided.

SEC. 2. And be it enacted, That the Third Election District of Kent County be divided into two Election Precints with the following meets and bounds. That is to say, beginning at the mouth of Still Pond River and running thence with the said river and mill pond and stream or old road bed in the rear of Wm. D. Pennington's residence till the said old road bed intersects the present public road running to Wroth's Corner thence with the public road running toward Betterton till it reaches Stoneton road thence with said Stoneton road and continuing in a straight line easterly till that line intersects Lloyds Creek thence with said creek to Sassafras river and all that part of the Third Election District and the north end of the Second Election District lying to the north and west of said division lines as above indicated shall be known as precinct number two and the voting place of said precinct shall be Betterton, and all that part of the Third Election District lying to the south and west of the aforesaid division lines shall be known as precinct number one and the voting place of said precinct shall be Worton Station.

SEC. 3 And be it enacted, That it shall be the duty of the officers of registration in the said Third Election District at the first sitting of the said officers of Registration prior to the next general elect on to designate on the Registration books of the said district the precinct in which each of the qualified registered voters reside, and shall prepare separate lists of voters for the Judges of election according to the subdivision of said district into precincts as here in before provided designating the election precinct of the district in which the voters are or shall be respectively entitled to vote, and deliver the same according to law

SEC. 4. And be it enacted, That it shall be the duty of the Election Supervisors of Kent County to appoint Judges and Clerks and election officers as are appointed in the other precincts and districts of Kent County, for each of said precincts residents thereof to act as Judges, Clerks and officers of election for said precincts, and who shall perform the duties of their offices in the manner required by the election laws of the State of Maryland, and such Judges shall make their returns in the same manner as if the said precincts were districts and in accordance with the laws applicable to Judges of election for Districts and they shall receive the same compensation as other Judges and officers of election in Kent County.

SEC. 5. And be it enacted, That this Act shall take effect from the date of its passage, and that all Acts and parts of Acts inconsistent with the provisions of this Act be and the same are hereby repealed.

VALUE OF PUBLICITY.

Steve Brodie, the Bridge Jumper, as a Self Advertiser.

Curiously enough, the man who, in my opinion, had the keenest intuition of the value of publicity and used it to the greatest personal advantage, when we consider his humble beginnings and the limited sphere of his endeavor, never really knew how to read and write. I knew him first as a young street urchin, making his living by selling newspapers, blacking boots, running errands and doing such odd jobs as fell in his way, and it was chiefly through selling newspapers, whose headlines alone he was barely able to decipher, that he gained that knowledge of what Park row calls "news values," which one finds in every trained and efficient city editor.

It was on the strength of this knowledge that this bootblack went one day to a well known wholesale liquor dealer on the east side and proposed that he should establish him in a saloon on lower Bowery. The liquor dealer was aghast at his presumption until he learned his scheme; then he capitulated at once, and within a few days the papers had been signed and twenty-four hours' option secured on rickety and, from nearly every imaginable point of view, undesirable premises near Canal street and directly under the noisiest and dustiest and ofliest part of the elevated railroad. This done, the bootblack made his way to the very center of the Brooklyn bridge, climbed hastily to the top of the parapet and, heedless of the warning shouts of the horrified onlookers and the swift rush of a panting cop, dropped into the seething waters below.

It was an unknown youth with an earning capacity of a few dollars a week who disappeared beneath the surface of the East river, but it was an enterprising young man, an east side celebrity, in fact, all ready for the divine oil of publicity and with an assured income and possible fortune in his grasp, whose nose reappeared very shortly above the muddy surface of the water and who was helped by willing and officious hands into a rowboat, where dry clothing awaited him, together with hearty congratulations on the fact that he alone, of all those who had attempted to jump the bridge, had escaped with his life. The next day the name of Steve Brodie was flashed from one end of the country to the other, and within a very few hours after his discharge from custody—he was arrested on the charge of trying to take his own life—he was standing behind his own bar, serving drinks to the crowds who came to gape at Steve Brodie, the bridge jumper, and to pour their money into his coffers.—James L. Ford in Success Magazine.

UNFINISHED BOOKS.

Authors Who Died Leaving Stories Partly Written.

Many writers, including the famous Ouida, have died leaving behind them unfinished books. One of the best known is, of course, Dickens' "The Mystery of Edwin Drood," a remarkably clever story, and one showing no signs of diminishing vitality, although he was actually at work upon it up to within a few hours of his death.

Dickens' great rival, Thackeray, again, left behind him not one only, but two unfinished stories. One of these, "Denis Duval," promised to rank with his best work. Unfortunately, however, he had completed only seven chapters when he was stricken down.

Scott, too, left a tale unended—"The Siege of Malta"—written while he was on his last futile journey in search of health. This work has never been published, although more than two-thirds of it was completed at the time of his death.

Then there was "St. Ives," left unfinished by R. L. Stevenson, as was "Zeph," by Helen Jackson, and "Blind Love," by Wilkie Collins. Buckle never completed his "History of Civilization," although he toiled at it for twenty years.

Among famous poems that were never completed mention may be made of Byron's "Don Juan," Keats' "Hyperion," Coleridge's "Christabel" and Gray's "Agrippina." Spenser's "Faerie Queene," too, is no more than a fragment, although a colossal one.

Lastly, there ought to be included Ben Jonson's beautiful unfinished pastoral, "The Sad Shepherd," found by his literary executors among his papers after his death and published in its incompleteness.—Pearson's Weekly.

Public Local Law.

Passed by the Maryland Legislature, Session 1908, and Operative in Kent County, Maryland.

AN ACT to amend Section 3 of Chapter 227 of the Acts of the General Assembly of Maryland passed at the Session of 1906, entitled an Act to incorporate the town of Betterton in Kent County by adding thereto one new Section to be known as Section 3 A.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That Section 3 of Chapter 227 of the Acts of the General Assembly of Maryland passed at the session of 1906, entitled an Act to incorporate the town of Betterton in Kent County, be amended by adding thereto one new section to be known as Section 3 A.

Sec. 3 A. That the commissioners of Betteson shall make public a complete report of all money received and expended by them each year by placing it in three of the most public places of the town within thirty days after the expiration of each year they serve as commissioners.

Sec. 2. And be it enacted, That all Acts or parts inconsistent with this amendment be and the same are hereby repealed.

Sec. 3. And be it enacted, That this Act shall take effect from the date of its passage.
