SATURDAY, JUNE 27, 1908.

A GENTLEMAN who has traveled in the West was in Chestertown this week and offered to bet $1,000 that Bryan would carry every Western State and would be elected President!

THE Republican organs are commenting on the weight of their candidates and priding themselves on it, but it will be for the Democrats to put up the brains. That is what counts.

LOUISIANA has closed down on race-track gambling so that the bookies are looking for new fields. Gov. Crothers says that this fair State shall not be their dumping place!

THE Enterprise says the Republican platform must be revised as it is disapproved by Bryan and the KENT NEWS. It might be well to revise the party, too, while about it. But that would be too big an undertaking for them. Mr. Bryan will attend to that, assisted by the News.

THE Town Commissioners are in thorough sympathy with the Volunteer Fire Company, of Chestertown, and will do all in their power to furnish all equipment required. The Water Board is also acting in harmony with them so that in a few months the many needs of the town will be met, in a measure at least.

GROVER CLEVELAND DEAD.

Grover Cleveland died at his home in Princeton, N. J., Wednesday morning, aged 71. He was twice President 1885-89 and 1893-97. He was one of the greatest men in America. He leaves a widow, the pretty Miss Frances Folsom, and four children.

Mr. Cleveland will have a place in history as one of the most determined, conscientious, incorruptible men who have served the people in the office of President.

In Mr. Cleveland the national Democracy seemed to have in 1884 not only a man whose success in New York politics inspired confidence in his strength with the people, but also a leader of the best type—a man who had been loyal to the traditions and principles of the fathers of Democracy. Mr. Cleveland had established a position as a capable and successful lawyer in Buffalo. He had been elected to the office of Sheriff and subsequently to that of Mayor. Later he was elected Governor of New York by what was then an unprecedented majority. His elevation to the highest State office marked him out as a "man of destiny." That is to say, he had demonstrated to the satisfaction of the public that he possessed incorruptible integrity; that he was a man of fearless courage in discharging his duties and measuring up to his obligations as a public servant and administrator. Thus, by reason of his sterling qualities and by reason of the record which he made in various offices, he became the logical candidate of the Democratic party in 1884, in 1888, and again in 1892.

SCHOOL NOTES.

Prof. Milton Melvin and niece, Miss Anna Melvin, are attending the State Convention at Ocean City.

The following attended the commencement exercises in Westminister: Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Ahern, Mrs. W. M. Clendaniel, Mrs. W. S. Hurlock, Mrs. Rachel Hill and son, Wm. Archibald.

Mr. Robert Joshua Gill, son of Rev. J. M. Gill, Washington, D. C., has been visiting friends in town this week. Robert won the gold medal in Sophomore class at Western Maryland College this year. Kent Roberts Greenfield, son of Dr. D. L. Greenfield, won the gold medal in Freshman class at same college. Miss Olive Pearl Pennell passed in all her studies at above college.

The resignations of Prof. Hake, of the Denton school, and Prof. Nuttle, of the Federalsburg school have been accepted. The vacancies are yet to be filled. Prof. Hake has accepted work in a New England school and Prof. Nuttle will take Y. M. C. A. work in Wilmington, Del.

Efforts are being made to inaugurate a commercial course in Rock Hall school. The School Board will appropriate $150 toward this end.

The board of trustees of Millington Academy held a meeting Wednesday evening and named Prof. Charles Wheatley, of Chestertown, as principal, to succeed Prof. Louis C. Robinson who goes to Harrington. Prof. Wheatley is a graduate of Washington College and for the past year has been associated with Prof. L. J. Smyth at the Chestertown High School. He is a young man of high character and we bespeak for him success in Millington.

The vacancy in Chestertown High School is being sought after by many.

Miss Mary E. Mills has resigned the principalship of Melitota School to accept the principalship of the school in Broad Neck. Miss Fannie Ward will likely get the Melitota school.

THE way Harvard won from Yale on Thursday is indicative of how Bryan will defeat Taft. Taft was recognized as Yale's mascot.

BOWLING is healthful exercise, as well as scientific sport, without any gambling element or immoral features. You will find comfortable and refined surroundings at the Chestertown Bowling Alley.

TRANSFER OF WATER PLANT.

On Wednesday next the Commissioners of Chestertown will consumate the purchase of the Chestertown Water Works. All the preliminary requirements have been complied with—the Act of the Legislature was indorsed by a vote of the people—and all that now remains is for the board of commissioners—Messrs. W. S. Carroll, Geo. D. Lofland and Thomas S. Bordley, to arrange with the Water Company for the transfer of their rights and property. The price stipulated for the water plant is $24,000, which is considerably less than the actual cost to the present owners. Of course there will be some incidental expenses to be added to the principal cost growing out of the sale, but the premium paid for bonds will more than pay for same.

All water takers will pay for half of the present year to the present holders of the plant. Only two days remain, therefore, for payment to be made. Most of the takers have already paid and all who have not should be sure to do so next Monday or Tuesday.

After July 1st all rents will be received by the town and the works will be managed by a Water Board consisting as follows: Jefferson D. Bacchus, president; Chas. N. Satterfield, treasurer; Thomas D. Bowers, secretary. The manager of the old company is expected to continue to act under the new board, for a time at least.

The new board will begin their improvements at once looking to an increased water supply, more modern machinery and better fire protection.

A WARM RECEPTION

Town Commissioners and Members of Fire Company Visit Centreville and Were Greatly Pleased.

Capt. Thomas D. France, president; Mr. Harry Cannan, chief, and Messrs. F. H. Russell, Wm. Malin, J. H. Thompson, J. E. Ferguson, J. S. Vandegrift, W. L. Fowler, C. S. Smith, Fred. S. Russell and Officer Samuel Cooper, representative members of the Chestertown Volunteer Fire Company, together with Messrs. W. S. Carroll and T. S. Bordley, two of the Commissioners of Chestertown, boarded Captain Malin's commodious yacht, "Bumper," last Wednesday at a little after noon, and after a very pleasant trip down the river and up the Corsica river, reached Centreville about 4.40 p. m.

This visit was for the purpose of inspecting the equipment and apparatus of the Good Will Fire Company. We were met at the whart and rapidly conveyed to the hotel Arlington where we were royally entertained. After supper we repaired to the engine house. This room is where the fire equipment is kept and is on the first floor of the Opera House, recently built at a cost of $30,000, so you can well imagine what kind of a room it is. In addition to the hose reels, ladder trucks, etc., there is constructed on one side of the wall a series of hose racks for the purpose of draining and drying the wet hose before they are again placed on the reels. This is to prevent the hose from mildewing and rotting. They have two ample sets of hose and therefore always have a dry set for the reels. They also have a rack in the centre of the room upon which is suspended the gum coats, gum boots and helmets which the men use in fighting fire. To undertake to recite all the equipments and apparatus these men have to successfully fight fire would fill more space than you can spare. Suffice it to say, that the Good Will Fire Company of Centreville is unquestionably the finest equipped fire company it has ever been my pleasure to see apart from those of our larger cities.

The company is composed of young, stalwart men, composed of the most representative men of Centreville, bold and enthusiastic, ready at any moment to risk life and limb in the performance of their duty. At 7 o'clock Fire Chief Phillips gave us an exhibition of fighting a fire, and while I haven't the time to describe the drill, I want to say that the skill and discipline they showed was simply marvelous. The instant the signal was given the men rushed to the engine house, donned their gum coats, boots and helmets, snatched the reels and ladder truck, adjusted the hose and had a stream of water playing upon the imaginary fire in less than three minutes. They can throw four ¾ inch streams at one time, and it must prove a pretty serious conflagration that they can't control in a short time.

Fire Chief Phillips dresses in a white gum coat, white helmet and carries a red lantern so that he can easily be found at any time during a fire. Every command must come from him and must be instantly obeyed. Chief Phillips was untiring in his efforts to explain in every detail. Centreville is justly proud of its Fire Company, and its citizens cheerfully do everything in their power for the convenience and pleasure of the company. They argue that if the Fire Company is willing to risk their very lives in fighting fire they certainly ought to be furnished with everything necessary.

Our visit was not only a very profitable, but a very pleasant one. Not only Chief Phillips and his splendid body of coworkers, but also the most representative citizens of the town, seemed to vie with each other in their efforts to make our visit as pleasant as possible. Mr. Wm. McKenney, Albert Green, Dr. Bordley, Col. Hopper Gibson, and a host of genial gentlemen placed at our disposal their automobiles and teams, conveying us to every part of the town. Our short stay was, indeed, a most pleasant one, and will always be remembered with sentiments of the liveliest interest.

Mr. Wm. S. Carroll upon the part of the commission, and Capt. Thos. D. France, in behalf of the Chestertown Volunteer Fire Company, in well chosen speeches thanked the Good Will Fire Company and citizens of Centreville for their splendid reception and kindness, and extended to them a cordial invitation to return our visit. In the event of their ever accepting our invitation, it is to be hoped that not only the Commissioners and Fire Company, but that the representative citizens also will take a pride in extending to them the best old Chestertown can afford. VISITOR.

FARM NOTES.

Rev. A. H. Covey, who has one of the best farms in Quaker Neck, says his Shanghai wheat is uninjured by scab, while Fultz wheat in the same field is badly hurt! Mr. Covey recommends old bones for weak grape vines.

Capt. E. Dill loaded new wheat this week from Messrs. Weller and Willis' farms, near Chester bridge. It was in good condition.

The farmers about Rock Hall on the Shewell and Sharp farms finished threshing yesterday.

Mr. A. S. Crawford is buying grain in Chestertown.

A farmer in town this week was looking for hands but failed to get any. Seeing three healthy looking negroes going down the street with fishing rods, he remarked, "there goes three harvesters now!"

Mr. Walter S. Trew on his Thos. Baker farm in Quaker Neck cut 22 acres of big wheat in one day, that is between sun-up and sun-down. He used 4½ pounds twine.

Here are a few instanees of the profits of farming in Delaware that have come to our notice during the past few days:

Former Representative in the General Assembly William M. Gehman is an expert in the butter business. From five cows, in one week, 14 milkings, he produced 48 pounds of butter, which he sold at 30 cents a pound, or $14.40.

Herman M. Baxter, a neighbor, received 43 pounds from six cows in one week.

Maurice Frasher, who resides on the McKee farm near Dover, from October 4th, 1907, to May 30, 1908, from a flock of 280 brown Leghorn hens, has secured $375 worth of eggs. He expects to reach $500 for their year's work.

In the grain line Harry McDaniel sold his crops last week as follows: 400 bushels of corn on the cob at 80 cents per bushel; 80 bushels of wheat at $1.02. Mr. McDaniel has also sold his crop of hay that netted him $520.

D. Mifflin Wilson's hay crop has been netting him $800 to $1,000 annually.

GETS OUT OF CONFERENCE.

Dover, Del., June 24.—The outcome of a fight against Rev. Dr. A. W. Lightbourne, pastor of Wesley Methodist Episcopal Church here, one of the oldest and wealthiest in the Wilmington Conference, as announced today is that the large congregation will take over the church property, valued at $30,000, and control it. Rev. Dr. Lightbourne withdrew from the conference in this letter, handed to Presiding Elder Morgan:

"As I am informed that another attack upon me is being planned by means of what is known as a preliminary church trial, and believing it to be impossible for me to obtain justice under the conditions of such a church hearing, I hereby withdraw from the ministry and membership of the Methodist Episcopal Church. This to take effect at once."

The presiding elder refused to accept the withdrawal, but Dr. Lightbourne declares it is in effect.

As the congregation controls the church property, it will probably worship independently, with Dr. Lightbourne as pastor.

The charges are alleged irregular ministerial credentials. He was tried on this accusation at the session of the conference in Wilmington last March and acquitted.

In a statement issued today, Dr. Lightbourne says his persecutors are "incapable of telling the truth," and that their statements come from a "prolific lie factory."
