SATURDAY, JULY 3, 1909.

I WOULD rather fill my purse with money and keep its gates ajar to my happy girls while they linger under my roof than to clutch it with a miser's hand until all the harpstrings of youth are broken and all its music forever fled. I would rather spend my last nickel for a bag of striped marbles to gladden the hearts of my bare-footed boys than to deny them their childish pleasures and leave them a bag of gold to quarrel over when I am dead. I abhor the pitiless hawk that circles in the air only to swoop down and strangle the song of the linnet or bury its talons in the heart of the dove. I despise the soulless man whose greed for gold impels him to strangle the laughter and song of his own family.—Senator Bob Taylor.

WHAT BRINGS HAPPINESS

Does a house make a home? Is it a matter of a few boxes of candy, a few bunches of flowers, a few theatre goings and a diamond ring? Does sympathy consist in saying "I am sorry," and passing on?

Is happiness something tangible which can be transmitted only through a material medium?

You know better than this. You know what things have made you happy and you know well enough that those which made you happiest were not "things" at all. They were thoughts and feelings you couldn't see with your eyes or feel with your fingers. But you saw them with your soul and felt them in your heart and that was enough.

And what was enough for you will be enough for others.

FIRST NEW WHEAT

The first consignment of new wheat for the season was received and disposed of in Baltimore on last Friday. Samples were displayed in the Chamber of Commerce where they were received with great interest, for there has been great anxiety concerning this season's crop.

The wheat was found to be small in grain and damp, yet free from garlic and smut. Had it been dry it would have been graded as No. 2 red, but as it was it sold as a lower grade. The consignment comprised some 42 bags, and was raised on the farm of F. P. McGinnis, Merry Point, Lancaster country, Va. It was received by L. S. Lyell & Co., and sold to C. J. Landers & Co. for $1.30 a bushel. Last year the first consignment of wheat did not arrive until July 16, almost a month later than this year. Like the present lot, it was raised in Lancaster county, Va.

BIG CROP FAILURE.

J. Bolgiano & Son, the well-known seed merchants of Baltimore, Md., have just reported to us the fact that the crop of Crimson Clover Seed all over the world is almost a total failure this year—the vast growing sections in Europe were destroyed by seven weeks of draught and at the same time the seed producing sections of this county were deluged with rains when the seed should have been harvested and almost all the seed has been ruined.

There will not be enough seed to go round and as the great value of Crimson Clover has become so much appreciated by all progressive farmers it would be well for you to secure what seed you need at the earliest possible opportunity before the great advance in price are bound to come, as the very limited stocks all over the world will quickly become exhausted, for already Europe is buying back seed she shipped over here a short time ago.

Seed that could be bought in Europe at $2 50 per bushel during May is held now at $5 50 per bushel and very little is offered even at that figure.

To be safe, ask your local merchant for Bolgiano's "Gold" brand of Crimson Clover and if he will not guarantee to give you this seed, which will grow about 98 per cent., then write a postal to J. Bolgiano & Son, Baltimore, Md., they will tell you where you can secure their seed to the very best advantage.

IT DOESN'T COST MONEY.

It doesn't cost money as many suppose,
To have a good time on the earth;
The best of its pleasure are free unto those
Who know how to value their worth.

The sweetest of music the birds to us sing,
The lovellest flowers grow wild,
The finest of drink gushes out of the spring—
All free to man, woman and child.

No money can purchase, no artist can paint,
Such pictures as nature supplies
Nor ever, all over, to sinner and saint,
Who use to advantage their eyes.

Kind words and glad looks and smiles cheery and brave
Cost nothing—no, nothing at all;
And yet all the wealth Monte Cristo could save
Can make no such pleasure befall.

To bask in the sunshine, to breathe the pure air,
Honest toil the enjoyment of health,
Sweet slumber refreshing—these pleasures we share
Without any portion of wealth.

Communion with friends that are tried, true and strong,
To love and be loved for love's sake—
In fact, all that make life happy and long
Are free to whoever will take.

THE TELEPHONE GIRL.

An exchange sings thusly of the Hello girl:

"The telephone girl sits still in her chair and listens to voices everywhere. She hears all the gossip, she hears all the news, she knows who is happy and who has the blues; she knows all our sorrows, she knows all our joys, she knows every girl who is chasing the boys; she knows of our troubles, she knows of our strife, she knows most every time we are out with the boys, she hears the excuses each fellow employs; she knows every woman who has a dark past, she knows every man who is inclined to be fast, in fact there's a secret 'neath each saucy curl' of that quiet, demure looking telephone girl. If the telephone girl would tell all that she knows it would turn half our friends into bitterest foes; she would soon be a gale, engulf us in trouble and land us in jail; she would let go a story, (which gaining in force) would cause half of our wives to sue for divorce; she could get all the churches mixed up in fights and turn all our days into sorrowing nights; in fact she could keep the whole town in a stew if she'd tell the tenth part of the things she knew. Now doesn't it make your head whirl when you think what you owe the telephone girl.?"

IMPORTANT NOTICE

To Owners And Operators of Motor Boats.

In view of the fact that motor boats are becoming very plentiful in the waters of Kent county, and in order to inform owners and operators of such boats the requirements of law, laid down by the Department of Commerce and Labor, we publish below a few most important extracts:

All motor vessels, without regard to size or use, must be provided with an efficient whistle, an efficient fog horn, and an efficient bell. No size or style of whistle, fog horn or bell is prescribed, provided it is available and sufficient for the use for which it is intended. The word "efficient" must be taken in its ordinary sense, considered with reference to the object intended by the provisions in which the word appears, namely, the production of certain signals. The power to operate the whistle is not prescribed, but it must be of such a character as to produce a "prolonged blast," which is defined as from four to six seconds duration.

When navigated between sunset and sunrise, they must carry regulation lights, namely:

1. A bright white light at the bow or head of the vessel.

2. A green light on the starboard side and red light on the port side provided with proper screens. The side lights may be so affixed to the coaming or to the sides of the deck house as to be properly screened, provided the lantern be backed with metal. Whenever the green and red lights cannot be fixed they must be kept lighted and ready for use, as provided by article 6 of the act of June 7, 1897.

The law does not appear to permit the use of a three color "combination light."

3. A white light aft, showing all around the horizon, to range with the head light.

Such vessels are also required to have on board two printed copies of the rules, which must be observed by them, which rules will be funished by local inspectors of steam vessels on request.
