THURSDAY, JUNE 22, 1882.

Subscription $1.50 per year; 75 cents for six months, in advance.

Advertising Rates.

Transient advertising will be charged at the rate of one dollar per square for first three insertions, and twenty-five cents per square for each subsequent insertion. A space equal to eight lines of brevier, constitutes a square. Figure-work will be charged fifty cents per square additional for first three insertions.

Simple notices of marriages and deaths, inserted free. Obituary notices will be charged at the rate of five cents per line.

JOB WORK.

Handbills, large and small, flyers, dodgers, letterheads, billheads, envelopes, cards, tags, programmes, and other kinds of job work will be done neatly and reasonably.

Correspondence upon matters of local interest desired. Anonymous communications will not be inserted.

It is desirable that communications be in by Saturday night if possible, and in any case not later than Monday night or Tuesday morning.

Harvest will begin this week. The great bulk of the wheat will not be cut till next week, however.

Mr. H. C. Rickey has commenced the building of a very tasty residence on the corner of Bridge and Queen streets

The Kent Guards left for Baltimore last Tuesday night, on the George Law. They were to take part in the military parade yesterday.

C. W. Kennard & Co. are building a fertilizer factory at Burchinal's wharf, on Chester river, about one-half mile from Chestertown.

The Festival of Union M. E. Church, held at the fair grounds, netted nearly $200. Festivals have panned out handsomely this year in Kent.

The Peach Packers of Baltimore have passed resolutions relative to the dimensions of a regulation box. The resolutions will be found in our advertising columns.

Notice of the new registration is published elsewhere. Every voter Must be registered this year. Those who have been once registered must be registered over again.

The Army Worm, which has made its appearance in swarms in sections of this county, is not thought to have done much harm to the wheat crop, but on many farms the corn crop has been very severely hurt.

The Kent Cornet Band visited H. W. Vickers, Esq., at his new residence on last Monday evening, and gave him a serenade. The band, together with some other guests were invited to refreshments, and a very pleasant evening was spent.

A New Marble Yard.—Messrs Parker and McFadden have opened a marble yard on market space, not far from the Transcript office. They have stock on hand, and are now at work. Their advertisement will be found elsewhere in the Transcript.

The Galena Light Guards have organized, elected officers, and adopted by-laws and are only awaiting the arrival of uniforms, together with instruments of war and blood shed, to become soldiers. Recruits to the new company are constantly being added.

Improving.—Mr. C. P. Loper, who was recently seriously injured by being thrown against a gate post by a fractious horse, was reported last Tuesday as being much improved in condition. He is now able to sit up, and his friends hope he will speedily be able to attend to his affairs as usual.

Baltimore Grain Market.—The inquiry for Southern Wheat is slow, and the market is easy and lower. Sales of inferior Fultz at $1 30, and mixed at $1 32. Prime long-berry is quoted at $1 32, and Fultz at $1 36. Southern Corn is in good demand and firm; inferior white sold at 92a93 cts. and prime at 95a96 cts. the former at car, and prime yellow at 87 cts.

Land Sales.—On last Friday, Mr. James W. Lambert of Chestertown, sold to Mr. J. B. Crowding his farm near Lynch's containing 105 acres, for $6,000.

On the same day, Mr. J. W. Bird, executor of A. Hurlock, deceased, sold, through his attorney, C. H. Baker, Esq., the "Biddle Farm," near Chestertown, containing 339 acres, to Mr. J. W. Lambert, for $16,000.

The Glorious 4th.—It seems to depend almost altogether on the "Owls" whether or not Chestertown will be patriotic on the 4th. Why can't some frisky young "Owl" take around a subscription paper, and raise a fund to celebrate on. Most any well-regulated "Owl" would be willing to contribute a dollar toward making the great national day go off with a boom. Can't the "Owls" call a meeting and fix up a 4th of July programme?

A Dislocated Ankle.—Mr. R. K. Pippin, the contractor for doing the wood work at the Straw-board mill, while standing on one of the walls on last Monday, lost his balance and was compelled to jump from a height of twenty feet. He struck the ground in such a manner as to dislocate his left ankle. Dr. Hines was called and attended to his inqury. Mr. Pippin has since been confined to his bed, but it is hoped will soon be out again.

Dwelling Burned.—On last Sunday night, Mr. Richard Cochran, who resides near Sassafras, happened to go out in his yard, and on looking up was astonished to find the roof of his dwelling in a blaze. He and his family were about preparing to retire, when the fire was discovered. Neighbors were soon attracted, and efforts were made to extinguish the fire, but unsuccessfully. The building was entirely destroyed, together with considerable furniture. The family are at a loss to account for the fire. There is no one whom it is thought could have set fire to the building, either purposely or accidentally. One theory is that the fire originated in spontaneous combustion, of some blankets, buffalo robes, and other materials, packed in one of the upper story rooms. Another supposition, is that the fire may have been caused by mice gnawing parlor matches. The loss on the house is estimated at from $1,500 to $2,000. The loss in furniture is estimated at from $300 to $400. Whether or not insured, not ascertained.

Children's Anniversary at the M. E. Church.—On Sunday the 11th inst. Rev. T. H. Haynes preached, in the morning, a sermon especially to the children. It was the day set apart by the M. E. Conference, as children's day. In the evening the exercises were taken part in by the children, and were of an interesting nature. The four seasons were represented, and there were recitations and singing.

On Thursday evening of last week, the children held their anniversary Sabbath school celebration, and enacted on the occassion a very striking allegory, the symbols in which were Faith, Hope, and Love. The planning of the exercises are said to be due to Mrs. Burton, and Mr. Thomas G. DeFord. Prof. Perry C. Orem also contributed largely to the making of the exercises interesting. We clip from the News the fo[illegible] r the occasion, [illegible]ssfully and [illegible]a solid [illegible] doors [illegible]hich [illegible]sc[illegible]ith, ap[illegible]t; then [illegible]pproach[illegible] Miss Ef[illegible]ached her [illegible] in open[illegible] magnifi[illegible]ay, which [illegible]o bands [illegible]s, then ap[illegible]arched on [illegible]ls, Ida De[illegible]are white, [illegible]f Promise, [illegible]rough the [illegible]heir path[illegible]h Love's [illegible] passed, and coming to the front of the platform joined in a responsive exercise, explanatory of the object lesson of the service. Two little boys, Allie Thomas and Hydie Thompson, bore a Bible upon the stage, and Susie Lambert, placing her hand upon it, sang very sweetly "We love the Holy Bible." There were other interesting features of the service, among which were the Readings by Mr. Rickards and Miss Lulie Harris; solos by Miss Annie Lambert, Dora Hodgkins and Susie Lambert; duetts, between Misses Belle Pippin and Delma Bordley, &c. The entire service being original, was a decided success and reflects great credit on Mr. T. G. DeFord, the superintendent, and all interested in its preparation.

Diocese of Easton.—The 14th annual convention of this diocese was held in Port Deposit commencing on the 7th inst. and closing on the 9th.

The Rev. James A. Mitchell was re-elected secretary, and the Bishop appointed Mr. William S. Walker as assistant.

The Rev. Dr. Leeds, of Baltimore, extended an invitation from the Diocese of Maryland to the convention to unite in the celebration of the centennial anniversary of that diocese, in May, 1883. The invitation was accepted, and a committee of clergymen and laymen was appointed by the chair to confer with a similar committee of the Diocese of Maryland about making the necessary arrangements.

The convention will meet in Emanuel Church, Chestertown, next year.

The meeting was a pleasant one in every respect; the best of feeling prevailed. The rector and vestry of St. James Church, and the good people of Port Deposit seemed determined to make this convention a memorable one in the annals of the diocese, and they were entirely successful in their efforts. Everything that kind attention, and unbounded hospitality could do for the comfort and convenience of the guests was done, and all who were at the convention left the place with a grateful remembrance of their kindness, and with a desire to go there again.

Orphan's Court, TUESDAY June 20th, 1882.—Present, Judges Nicholson, Shallcross and Wilson.

Samuel Taylor, administrator of Rebecca A. Taylor, deceased, filed his release from Wm. Vansant and Ella V. Vansant, which was received and ordered to be recorded.

On application, letters of administration on the personal estate in Kent County, State of Maryland, of Jesse Lake, late of New Castle county, Delaware, deceased, were granted and committed unto Nathaniel Williams, who filed his bond in the sum of $2000, which was approved and ordered to be recorded; and Alday Clements and S. W. Aldridge were appointed to appraise the estate.

On application, letters of administration on the personal estate of Samuel Derry (col.) deceased, were granted and committed unto James H. Baker, who filed his bond in the sum of $1000, which was approved and ordered to be recorded; and Bartus Trew and Samuel W. Brown were appointed to appraise the estate.

James W. Bird, executor of Abraham Hurlock, deceased, filed his report of sale of the Biddle farm.

Blake's Independent Washer.—Mr. L. A. Blake has had on exhibition at the Voshell House, Chestertown, since last Monday his patent washing machine, known as Blake's Independent Washer. He has given numerous exhibitions of the facility with which dirty clothes are made clean, and his washer seems to impress all who have seen it as being a very complete and simple machine. Mr. Blake is the inventor and patentee of the machine, and desires to sell the right to the county or sections of the county. To any one desiring to handle the machine he will guarantee, by practical demonstration, its virtues. He desires that the machine be thoroughly examined, and tested, and the right to sell be bought, only after thorough satisfaction that the machine will sell itself. The right to sell in the whole county or in sections will be sold on terms that cannot fail to be satisfactory. Mr. Blake can be found at the Voshell House at any time within the next ten days, where the machine can be examined and terms ascertained. *

County Executive Committee.

Pursuant to notice the County Executive Committee met at the Court House on Tuesday of last week. After roll call the chairman stated the object of the meeting to be to devise the best means of securing a full, fair registration of the voters of the county, and to this end asked for suggestions from the committee. Upon motion of Mr. Byron it was ordered that each district committee apportion to the several members of the committee certain school districts of the election districts over which to take especial charge, and that a committee of three be appointed for each school district to see that all persons who are entitled shall be registered, and also to ascertain those who are not entitled, and to be in attendance at the registration offices with proofs, &c.

W. C. Nine Meet the Chesters from Crumpton.

The Washington College nine met last Saturday the Chester nine of Crumpton, at the College base-ball grounds, and succeeded in defeating the visitors very badly. The Crumpton nine were heavy-bodied, and the impression in the early part of the game was that they would win by strong batting. But it seemed they could not hit the balls from the little college pitcher, as easily as was supposed, and when it came to fielding, the visitors were nothing like so skillful as the W. C. nine. The batting was heavy on both sides, however. The W. C. boys sent the balls from the Crumpton pitcher, flying in every direction, and in one inning succeeded in scoring twelve runs. The following is the score:

Time of game, 2 hours, 15 minutes. Umpire—P. M. Brooks of Chestertown; Scorers—College. M. W. Thomas; Crumpton, J. B. Shepard.

The College nine, we are informed, will be unable to accept further challenges, as commencement week approaches, and as several members of the nine are also members of the Senior class.

The boys have had an uninterrupted series of victories this season. First the Galena club was defeated in a game of 32 to 2. Then the Kent Island nine in a game of 6 to 1. The nine of St. Johns College, Annapolis, by 11 to 6, the Chesterfields of Centreville, by 14 to 10, and lastly the Chesters of Crumpton, by 25 to 9.

A Letter from an "Old Lady."

Dear Transcript:—Last Sabbath, June 18, we visited the Worton Station Sabbath school, which was organized about a month ago by some good people of the Presbyterian denomination. We found the school in fine working order under the superintendency of Mr. W. E. Beck. This gentleman has but recently moved into the neighborhood from the Western Shore, and opened a carriage factory in a bran new building erected for the purpose in this thriving little village. The said building was pointed out to us and we considered it, with its newly painted front and stylish sign-board, quite an acquisition to the village.

We did not start out, however, to tell you about Beck and Pell's Carriage Factory, nor of the rapid growth this village has made during the past few years. We started to tell you about the S. S., but being of the feminine persuasion we are apt to wander from the text; and if, Mr. Editor, you think the above too much of an advertisement—why, don't put it in.

In the Agricultural Hall, where the school is held, we found between eighty and ninety persons assembled, and we could not help thinking it was a large number for so recent a beginning. There were two classes which particularly attracted our eye. One was near a window at the upper end of the room, and consisted of a dozen or more little tots, from three to six years old, presided over by a sweet-looking young lady who evidently understood her business, for she kept these almost babes quiet and interested during the half-hour allotted to the study of the lesson.

The other was a class of about twenty adults, taught by Mr. H. Massey, whose term expires at the end of the month; the class choosing, at the beginning of every month, a teacher from among their number. This we thought an excellent arrangement, and we suggest that each member be prevailed upon to accept the position at least once a year. The ages of this class ranged all the way from the young lady in her teens to the gray-haired man. One gentleman, in particular, attracted our attention. His hair and beard were of snowy whiteness, yet his eyes lacked none of the brightness of youth; and his benign, intelligent face made us wish to be present when his turn comes to be teacher of this interesting class.

A very pretty call-bell was handed in as a present from Mr. Isaac Parsons, whose pocket-book, we believe, is always open to the cause of the Master; and whose religious views are so broad, that he can and does accept, as a brother, a sincere follower of Christ, though he be not of the same denomination as himself. The school very appropriately offered a vote of thanks for the bell, and also for some copies of Gospel Hymns, presented by Messrs. C. F. Stam and M. A. Toulson. It is really a mission school, and deserves the help of all who pray, "Thy kingdom come," and whose heart's desire is to see—not the advancement of Presbyterianism, or Methodism, or any other ism—but of Christ's kingdom.

There are many other interesting things we would like to speak of, but fear we would be trespassing on your good nature, and occupying too much space in your valuable paper. Yet we must beg leave to mention the music which was excellent, both instrumental and vocal. The organist, a very pretty young lady (never mind gentleman, she is married), has a sweet and strong voice.

Without offending any one or setting ourselves up for a Solon, we would like to advise the adult class to talk a little more animatedly among themselves and so draw out the opinions of each other on the lesson.

Yours very truly,
OLD LADY.

MONEY.

SOME REMARKS ABOUT HOW TO USE IT, AND HOW TO ABUSE IT.

Ed. of Transcript:—When I was a boy, (I hope you will excuse me for talking so much about when I was a boy. When you get a little older, you will begin to talk about "when you was a boy.") Well, when I was a boy, a great many good, careful, honest-hearted folks, with whom I associated, very strict in their notions of piety, and very wide-awake to the exceeding sinfulness of sin, used to have certain views with regard to riches, which I in those days thought were the only correct and reliable views on the subject to be found. These same views,—or I might better say, this same view of money, has not yet died out, but prevails very extensively at the present day. The doctrine to which I refer, may be summed up in a sentence,—i. e. It is right to make all the money you can, and it is wrong to spend any more than it is positively necessary for you to spend. The doctrine may be termed the gospel of hoarding, for really it was and is a sort of religious tenet with many people. The creed may be summed up as follows,—"Keep a keen eye to business, drive a good bargain whenever you can, increase and multiply, keep all you get and get more. Don't waste your money in costly houses, don't indulge in fine carpets, fine furniture, and fine clothes; don't spend money for pleasures and luxuries. This doctrine teaches that the man who stints himself, and rakes and scrapes together, is a highly virtuous character, and that a spendthrift is the devil's own child.

I do not wish to be understood as inculcating profligacy, or as approving the spendthrift. But I think this much can be said in favor of the spendthrift,—that he is a blessing to the community in which he lives. Neither do I mean to declare that a judicious carefulness and economy in the management of one's affairs is not a good thing. But the line of distinction should be drawn where judicious carefulness and economy ends, and where hoarding begins. There are plenty of people, however, who can cross the line without seeing it.

Excuse me for quoting "Bob" Ingersoll, but Robert has said some good things. He says, "that community is most prosperous, where rich people are most liberal in spending, and where poor people are most careful in saving." Let the man of limited means be economical and saving, until he has accumulated a reserve wealth that will guarantee his old age from want. Let the rich man live in a fine house, let him buy costly furniture, and beautiful surroundings. Let him have all the luxuries that art can furnish or money buy. That is the way for him to get the good of his money, and that is the way for him to do good in the world. By spending he encourages art and industry, and gives other people a chance to live.

If I were going to give a young man starting in life advice, I think I should give it as follows, using a discrimination according to his financial condition when he started;—If he were poor, I should say'—save, be economical and get means ahead. But see to it, that your soul's best love is not given to the almighty dollar. If he had moderate means I should say, —don't touch it in the first place, but go out into the world and make a living by your independent exertions for three years; having acquired experience in the management of affairs without danger of spending all your substance from inexperience, live as liberally as your means will allow, without making any special effort to die leaving a fortune behind. If the young man were rich I should say,—learn first how to manage your affairs judiciously, and then live up to the top of your income. Not riotously, but get all the good and all the enjoyment you can out of life with it, and if you die worth only half what you began with, you will deserve praise rather than censure.

Money is worth only what money will buy. A thousand dollars in itself is nothing. It only represents as much comfort and satisfaction as it is capable of buying. It may represent so much handsome furniture for your house, or it may represent a trip to Europe, and it is valuable only because it represents those good things or some other good things that it will buy.

Yours truly.

OCCASIONAL WILLIAM.

Peninsula News.

The Middletown Transcript has lost its dog, Strickninied.

Millsboro and Dagsboro, in Sussex county, Del., have been shipping as many as 700 soft shell crabs a day.

The army worm is giving trouble all over the peninsula. The fear is for the harm he may do. He does not seem to have done much harm so far.

Mitchell's drug store, which seems to be Elkton's museum of natural curiosities, has recently added to its collection a two-headed and four-legged turkey.

The southern point of Kent Island, Kent point, has been conveyed by the government of Maryland to the General Government, for the erection thereon of the "Kent Point Light House."

Queen Anne's was given a new district by act of last Legislature, to be made out of first and second. The county is now divided into seven districts.

Ex-Gov. P. F. Thomas, of Easton, started on a drive one day last week with a pair of young horses. In crossing a railroad, he was run into by rapidly driven hand car, and his carriage turned over. The only damage the governor sustained was a bruised arm and a scratched nose. One of the men in the car was badly hurt.

A correspondent of Sussex Journal, writing from Denton, Caroline county, says that it used to be whenever a "green-horn" turned up on the streets of Baltimore, he was set down at once as being "from Caroline." The correspondent says, however, that this is so no longer. "Caroline has proved to the world the unjustness of this imputation."

A romance about as little and about as nice as Delaware, comes from Dover in that State. An accepted lover appeared at his sweetheart's house the other day prepared to play a leading part in his own wedding. His surprise was as crushing as a failure of the peach crop when he learned that his girl had married some other person a few weeks before. The bride, being much disturbed by the wrathful denunciation of the jilted youth, endeavored to quiet him with persuasive words. Failing, she took another tack and offered him her wedding ring as a souvenir of the episode. Just then her father came upon the ground, and, desiring to help his daughter out of the dilemma, gravely offered the swain a flock of goslings that happened to be paddling in a pond near at hand. But the young person would accept neither sympathetic words nor keepsakes and went off, outbeating in his anger the hot sun of June.—Phila. Times.

The certificate given below explains itself:

of Locust Grove, Kent Co., Md.,

DEAR SIR—It gives us great pleasure to be able to fully recommend the McCormick Self-Binder, one of which we had the pleasure of using last season. We cut with it in all conditions of grain. The machine has done all that was claimed for it, and come up to more than our expectations. We consider it one of the best labor-saving machines that we have on our farms, and the most economical, when we count the board and wages of binders and loss of grain in binding, handling, stacking and threshing after hand-bound grain. No farmer who has run a Binder one season, will think of running anything else. Would not part with ours for double its cost if we could not get another. For lightness of draft, thoroughness of cutting and binding, simplicity of construction and durability, we think the McCormick has no superior.

Mr. Wm. W. Cosden, of Lankford, Kent Co. Md., Oct. 1, 1881, writes:

The Self-Binder I bought of your agent this season, Mr. E. T. Comegys, of Locust Grove, Md., has given perfect satisfaction in every respect. I cut 110 acres of wheat this season, and broke only one link of reel chain I also cut thirty acres for my uncle, and helped a neighbor to cut who had used a different Binder. The McCormick Binder was acknowledged to be a horse lighter in draft.

Buy the McCormick Self-Binder, a machine of 50 years standing. If upon two days trial the machine will not work satisfactorily, it will be taken back and all costs refunded to the farmer.
