Of Much Importance.—There are yet in Kent county in the neighborhood of 1000 voters who have not been registered. Next Monday, the September sitting begins. During next week, every lawful voter should see, that not only his own name is upon the registry roll, but he should put himself to trouble to ascertain if any others are neglecting the matter, and should use his endeavors to have enrolled a full vote.

THE WAR IN EGYPT.

LONDON, Aug. 25.—Gen Wolseley in a dispatch to the war office recounts an engagement at Magfar on Thursday, in which he held his ground the whole day against 10,000 Egyptians. His forces numbered about 2,000 men. In his details Gen. Wolseley says: "I advanced before daybreak with the household cavalry, two-horse artillery, guns, thirty mounted infantry, one thousand men from the York and Lancaster regiment and the marines. After some skirmishing I took possession of the dam which the enemy had constructed across the canal between the villages of Magfar and Mahuta. During the operations the squadrons of the household cavalry charged the enemy's broken infantry very gallantly. I soon found that the enemy were being largely reinforced from Tel-el-Kebir. I could see trains arriving. I thought it inconsistent with tradition for the Queen's army to retire before any number of Egyptian troops, and so decided to hold the ground until reinforcements arrived. All day long I have had an Egyptian force of 10,000 men with ten guns in my front and on my right flank. The precision of the enemy's artillery was very good but fortunately they fired common shell nearly all day, and when they did fire shrapnel their fuses were badly adjusted. The enemy had their cavalry regiments in line. Our horses, having been recently on board ship, were not in condition to gallop much. The two-horse artillery guns were served with pluck and ability. Our casualities have been slight. Capt. Hallam Parr was wounded through the leg. Lord Melgund received a wound through the hand. Capt. Parr's mounted infantry distinguished itself. All the troops engaged did well. To-morrow (Friday) I shall attack the enemy's position at Holenke, and hope to take possession of the dam which they constructed there this morning." In a later telegram Gen. Wolseley adds: "I omitted to say that I had with me yesterday two gatling guns, worked by seamen, who did their duty admirably."

The following telegram from Gen. Sir Garnet Wolseley has been received:

ALEXANDRIA, Aug. 27.—At about 3 o'clock this afternoon two heavy guns, recently placed beyond the Waterworks Hill, opened fire on the enemy on the left bank of the Mahmoudieh Canal. About twenty rounds were fired. Several shells exploded in the midst of the enemy's intrenchments, causing considerable damage. The enemy replied feebly. The British forty-pounders at Ramleh cannonaded the enemy's lines to-day. At about 5 P. M. a conflagration was observed in the rear of the enemy's camp, about ten miles beyond Ramleh. The British man-of-war Minotaur shelled the enemy's outposts in the direction of Aboukir this afternoon. The shells seemed to burst in the midst of the enemy's position. The Minotaur fired with increased rapidity until sunset. The enemy's reply was weak. There was altogether very little activity in the rebel lines. The impression gains ground that the bulk of Arabi Pasha's men have been withdrawn from Kafr-el-Dwar.

LONDON, Aug. 28.—Gen. Wolseley telegraphs from Ismailia under date of Sunday, as follows: "I have just returned from the outposts and find that our actions on Thursday and Friday had far more important results than I was aware of yesterday. The enemy was completely routed and fled toward Zagazig, throwing away their arms and accoutrements. A very large amount of camp equipage and munitions were captured. Mahmoud Fehmy, Arabi Pasha's chief engineer and military adviser, is now a prisoner in my camp."

Press dispatches from Ismailia say that Mahmoud Fehmy reports much suffering and insubordination in the Egyptian army. Gen. Wolseley and staff will probably start for the front in two days, or as soon as their transport can easily be effected by rail. The difficulty of dragging supplies over the deep sand is very great. But few miles can be made daily. The weather is somewhat cooler, and the health of the troops is excellent. The glare on the sands at noon is terrible. The troops are continually advancing and it will not be long before Tel-el-Kebir is attacked. Between Ramses and Maxama the ground is good for marching, but the canal is full of dead horses and bodies of Arabs. Some of the latter were thrown there by their comrades, while the others were corpses of men shot while attempting to escape. Judging by the quantity of clothing, &c., found in the abandoned camp, the rebels must have been in great force, but most of them appear to have been merely peasantry, armed with old muzzle-loading muskets. Almost all the prisoners are peasants. All the dead were also peasants. The doctors have prohibited the use of the water of Lake Maxama for drinking. An artillery general has been captured who speaks English fluently. He has furnished some valuable information. An officer has arrived herefrom the Governor of the district between Suakin and Massowah on his way to the Khedive to declare loyalty. A Mahomedan high priest held a meeting here, at which several influential natives were present. The priest adjured them to remain loyal to Arabi Pasha. The native Governor has ordered their arrest.

Among the things captured on Friday are a tent, said to be that of Arabi Pasha, and two standards. During the fighting the Bedouins occasionally showed much courage, several hand-to-hand encounters occurring. One man stood his ground alone, wounded a trooper, seized his sword, and made two thrusts at an English officer before he was cut down.

The Pall Mall Gazette says it has the best authority to state that the report that Gen. Wolseley has already telegraphed for reinforcements is without foundation.

Alexandria dispatches say that the garrison at Meks was reinforced to-day in consequence of Bedouins having formed a camp on the opposite shore of Lake Mareotis. Nothing was done at Ramleh to-day. It is thought that the last shell from the 7-inch gun yesterday disabled a large gun of Arabi Pasha's battery. Arabi is reported to be at Salihieh. The authorities are unable to understand his persistence in holding Kafr-el-Dwar.

Among the deserters from Arabi Pasha is a brigade major belonging to his staff. He states that the pick of Arabi Pasha's army is at Kafr-el-Dwar; that there are 7,000 men on the Meks lines, all freshly come from Cairo, and that their artillery is very strong.

The Egyptians have released the surplus water behind the dam and flooded the country on both of their flanks. The British intend to cut the dykes near Meks so as to flood a portion of the dry bed of lake Mareotis and prevent any attack from that side. The man-of-war, Minotaur has successfully shelled the enemy out of Mandaro, on the line between Ramleh and Aboukir. Sultan Pasha, attended by Fuad Pasha and twelve subordinates, will start for Port Said and Ismailia to-day to accompany Gen. Wolseley as the Khedive's commissioner to explain to the population of the districts through which the British pass that their mission is solely to re-establish the authority of the Khedive and overthrow military despotism.

Some Bedouins who have arrived at Port Said from Cairo report that the inhabitants there are calm, but that the military are excited. The latter have burned Nuba Pasha's house.

THOMAS KELLEY of Philadelphia thought he could write a will so simply and clearly that no lawyer's aid would be necessary. After his death the following was offered for probate: I will that Margaret Kelley, my wife, shall have this property and house while she lives and do as she wishes with it." The widow finds, however, that the will is obscurity itself. The first question arises as to what property it refers to. Certainly not the Surrogate's office, as it would seem to most people reading the will there, but more likely the place wherein the decedent happened to be when he wrote the will. Assuming that the widow is permitted to prove what property her late husband had in his mind, the next question arises, Did the testator by "this property and house" mean the house together with the personal property in it, or simply the house and lot. Admitting that he intended she should have only a life estate or a fee simple in the reality. "While she lives" creates a life estate, and "do as she wishes with it" implies a power to sell or otherwise dispose of—gives her, in fact, complete control as owner in fee.

MINNESOTA is perturbed over the discovery of a swindle, which has been profitable to the perpetrator. Circulars were sent throughout England saying that the care of young men desirous to learn farming in the "Golden Northwest" was desired by the one advertising. The trouble of the instructor would be recompensed, and the expenses of the trip would be repaid to the teacher who advanced the money by a deposit of $375. Of this amount, $80 was to go to the farmer who received the young man as an apprentice for one year. Each apprentice was to receive $6 per month, for four months, and $12 for each succeeding month, besides board. Recently the author of the circular brought a party of seventy-five English young men, and distributed them along one of the Minnesota railroads. It turns out that some of the English were not placed on farms at all. Others received no stipend for their work. Several thousand dollars rewarded this confidence man. Some of the young men represented excellent families.

PEACHES AND PISTOLS.

A PROBABLE HOMICIDE IN CAROLINE COUNTY, MD.

DENTON, Md., Aug. 25.—Thomas G. Atkinson son of Dr. E. E. Atkinson of the Baltimore custom house, yesterday afternoon shot William Ringgold, a tenant on Dr. Atkinson's farm in Tuckahoe Neck, about three miles west of Denton.

A young man named Cohee, who saw the affair, says that Ringgold, while putting away hay, saw the little Atkinson girls gathering peaches in the orchard of the rented place. He told them to stop and they obeyed him. Ringgold saw young Atkinson, who has charge of the place in the absence of his father in Baltimore, go into the orchard and commence gathering peaches. Ringgold said: "I don't want you to get those peaches; they are mine, and my wife wants them to preserve. You must stop." Whereupon Atkinson, it is said, replied with an oath that he would gather long as there was one left; that his father in renting the farm to Ringgold had reserved the right that his family should have enough fruit from the orchard for their use, and he continued to help himself. Ringgold then started toward Atkinson, and, according to the testimony of this witness, he had climbed the orchard fence, when Atkinson drew a pistol and fired on Ringgold, but without effect. Atkinson, so Cohee says then retreated, and on being followed by Ringgold, threw down the weapon he had fired, and drawing another fired again at Ringgold, the ball taking effect in the left breast in the region of the heart. Cohee came up and caught hold of Atkinson, who broke away and ran, leaving a part of his clothing and one of his pistols.

Atkinson himself says that he had gone to the peach orchard after his little sisters had been ordered away, and while gathering peaches was approached by Ringgold with a pitchfork in hand. Hot words as to his right to the fruit passed, and Atkinson was also ordered out of the orchard. He refused to go, and when Ringgold came at him with the pitchfork he fired on him and then went away.

Immediately after the shooting young Atkinson came to town apparently for the purpose of surrendering himself, but before he could find the sheriff was committed to jail under a writ issued by Justice Cook. Atkinson is about 24 years of age and unmarried.

Ringgold is a young farmer, the son of Elisha Ringgold, bore the reputation of being peaceable and industrious. He is about 25 years old and married. Dr. George of Denton, was summoned soon after the shooting, and at a late hour last night Ringgold was pronounced likely to die. The pistol-ball passed through the lower part of the chest and lodged near the spinal column.

Father of a Thousand Children.

New York Sun.

The father of a thousand children has just died in Vienna. Ferdinand Reidt was a man of considerable wealth and was happily married, but the great regret of himself and wife was that they had no children, and they concluded to act as parents to the fatherless and motherless. For nearly a quarter of a century he was known as the father of the orphans. He commenced by taking charge of a couple of orphans, but his zeal and repute increased to such an extent that at the time of his death he was the legal guardian of more than a thousand orphan children. Those whom he adopted in this manner were not fitfully taken up and then let drop, but he kept conscientious watch and ward over them, from their early education until their marriage, or their start in adult life at the close of their apprenticeship. He never sought fame or publicity, and took no credit to himself for his devotion to those who had no natural claim upon him.

THE RUSSIAN HANGMAN is a convict who was sentenced to death for robbery and murder, but the penalty was commuted to imprisonment for life upon the condition that he should perform the duties of executioner whenever called upon. He has been confined in Moscow during the past fifteen years, and is sent from there, under a strong guard, to Kieff, Odessa, and St. Petersburg, as his services may be required in one or the other of those cities. A visit to this man is described by Victor Tissot, a French author, in a work on Russia and the Russians, recently published in Paris. He found the executioner reposing after the exertion of hanging the two Nihilists, Pressniakoff and Kiviatkowski. A young woman of attractive appearance, with a child in her arms, was with him. She was his wife. The comforts of matrimony had not been denied him, and he seems to have had no difficulty, notwithstanding his condition and work, in finding a woman to marry him. The hangman's face is described as stolid rather than terrible or repulsive. He has abnormally long arms, and is said to be possessed of herculean strength. He was spoken of as having the "strength of twenty men." One day there was a revolt in the prison, and he was summoned to help subdue the prisoners. He rushed in among them, and killed three with his bare hands.

THE TEXAS CATTLE PLAGUE.—According to the reports given out from the agricultural bureau at Washington, the Texas cattle fever is quite widely spreading this year, and seems to be more destructive than it has been heretofore. The singularity of this fever is that, while the cattle do not themselves show any evidence of disease as they are driven north, the native local cattle passing over the roads by which the Texas cattle are driven, become infected and death follows very rapidly. Equally strange is the fact that the disease runs out after one infection, and that it can only pass from Southern to Northern cattle. The nature of the disease has not yet been determined by the experts of the Agricultural Department, but it is supposed to be splenic fever. If this supposition should prove to be correct, the application of the pasteurian system of inoculation will in most cases, and perhaps all, effect a cure.

REPRESENTATIVES OF THE most fashionable families in Van Buren County, Ark., recently met in a small village to indulge in a hunt after horse thieves. Owing to bad weather, there were no ladies in the party, but their absence was forgotten in the pleasure and excitement of the chase. After a lively gallop over fences and rough fields, the hunters bagged three thieves two of whom, however, were killed before the spectators arrived in a coach-and-four. The chase will be renewed as soon as a general meet can be arranged. These sportsmen say that the sport was far better than fox hunting.

A CHICAGO Police Justice fined a girl $5 for being alone in the street at 9 o'clock in the evening. She was on her way home from the store where she worked, and had deviated slightly from the straightest route in order to get air and exercise, when a policeman accosted her insultingly. She retorted saucily, and an arrest for spite followed. The magistrate said it was doubtless true that she was entirely respectable, but she deserved punishment for being out unattended after dark.

Two Philadelphia detectives accused an innocent young man of stealing $100, and showed him how strong was the circumstantial evidence against him. Greatly frightened, he paid them $100 out of his small savings, and they kept half, giving the rest to the loser to settle the case. Now the original money has been found where it was mislaid.

THE WEARING of jewelry is going out of fashion in England. It is regarded as vulgar to be seen with a display of jewels, unless it be on great occasions. Bare arms and throats are the rule in fashionable society, the wearing of bangles, bracelets, and chains being left to those who do not follow the newest styles.

THE jealous husband of a pretty woman at Fayette, Texas, branded her with an iron used for branding cattle, making a star and a cross, which she must bear on each cheek for life.

THE Kentucky penitentiary numbers among its inmates ten children under the age of fifteen. These children associate, as do the other prisoners, with the abandoned and the vicious.

GRAY hairs often cause annoyance, which Parker's Hair Balsam prevents by restoring the youthful color.

Malaria, Chills and fever, and Billious attacks positively cured with Emory's Standard Cure Pills—an infallible remedy; never fails to cure the most obstinate, long-standing cases where Quinine and all other remedies had failed. They are prepared expressly for malarious sections, in double boxes two kinds of Pills, containing a strong cathartic and chill breaker, sugar coated; containing no Quinine or Mercury, causing no griping or purging; they are mild and efficient, certain in their action and harmless in all cases; they effectually clean the system, and give new life and tone to the body. As a household remedy they are unequaled. For Liver Complaint their equal is not known; one box will have a wonderful effect on the worst case. They are used and prescribed by Physicians, and sold by Druggists everywhere, or sent by mail, 25 or 50 cent boxes. Emory's Little Cathartic Pills, best ever made, only 15 Cents. THE DEATH OF a remarkable recluse is reported to have occurred in the Grecian monastery on Mount Athos, in Macedonia. He was 94 years of age at his death, and for sixty-eight years had been an inmate of a solitary cell, from which he never emerged except to attend chapel services morning and evening, and he there always provided himself with the food needed for the following day. He passed his time in devotions and in painting pictures of the Virgin, which the officials of the monastery then sold. His body, pursuant to his wishes, was buried before the door of his cell. The oldest among his brother monks could not remember ever to have seen him receive a communication or visitor from the outside world. For sixty-eight years he was practically buried in the monastery. He died with a reputation for great sanctity, and his body will be a treasure to the monastery, as his history was while he lived.

THE FAVORITE of the Philadelphia Base Ball Club for the present season are placed at $36,000, which will be divided among three backers.

JOHN N. DODD,
FUNERAL DIRECTOR
—AND—
Furnishing UNDERTAKER,
CHESTERTOWN, MD.
CASKETS, Burial Cases, Coffins, Fine Cloth Work, Shrouds, Burial Robes, Merino and Satin Linings, &c., of all descriptions and kinds, and all the requisites of first-class Funeral Furnishings constantly on hand, or furnished at the very lowest prices.
METALIC COFFINS and CASKETS, furnished upon short notice when desired. A full line of
SHROUDS and BURIAL ROBES.
Patent Improved
COLD AIR ICE CASKETS for the preservation of the dead; also Embalming Fluids. I have recently introduced a remarkably cheap BLACK CLOTH CASKET, which in appearance is almost equal to the finest. Remember I do not confine myself exclusively to fine and high-priced work, but have an endless variety at medium and low prices.
I have THREE HEARSES, two large ones and one small white one for children and young persons; and with my handsome new Glass Hearse and fine pair of Black Horses, can furnish as fine a Funeral Turnout as can be seen in our large cities. I am constantly adding new features and improvements to my business, in order to keep up with the times; and as there are such changes in style and kind constantly going on, and, as is generally the custom, some friend is called into the embarrassing position of ordering what he supposes may be wanted, it would be much more satisfactory to all concerned to name the price of the article wanted ALWAYS REMEMBER that I guarantee to furnish anything in my line, of the same kind and quality, at lower prices than any other establishment of the kind. Ever grateful for the very liberal patronage heretofore extended me, I respectfully beg a continuance of the same.
Residence second door above my shop.
Respectfully,
Aug10—tf. JOHN N. DODD.

STRAW.

The Chestertown Straw Board Company desires to purchase Straw, either to be delivered at their mill or to be hauled by the company. Those anticipating a sale of their straw should have it well put up in stacks or ricks, so as to keep it dry and sound. It must also be free from chaff.
The company is now prepared to make purchases for future delivery.

ROLAND
CHILLED PLOWS.
Every farmer in Maryland should use the "Roland." The Mouldboard is harder than steel. They will do more work than any other Plow with the same amount of draft. They run level and easy to the plowman. They will scour in any soil. Having the reversible slip point, sloping landside and chilled shares, they cost less for repairs than any other plow in the market. Made in Baltimore, the repairs can always be obtained without delay. The workmanship, material and finish is of the best. There are fourteen sizes and kinds, and they are suited to all kinds of soil. Send for descriptive circular.
CHAMPION
GRAIN DRILL.
This Drill has force feed distributors for both wheat and grass seed, and has the only fertilizer distributor that will not clog, and will evenly distribute wet and sticky phosphate. It will sow grain, grass seed and fertilizer more satisfactorily than any other drill in America. It is the simplest and strongest drill made. It is more easily managed and less liable to get out of order than any drill in the market. As it is the leading drill in this market, and several thousands have been sold during the past few years, a large stock of repairs is always on hand. Send for circular.
BRITISH MIXTURE.
The popularity of this celebrated fertilizer is not due alone to the price, but to the fact that its effects are uniformly good, and that it has been found the equal of the highest priced and best phosphates in the market. It gives more value for each dollar paid than any other fertilizer in the land. Send for circular and price list.

PHOSPHATES!

The season for ordering Fertilizers for Wheat is now at hand, and it is with increased pleasure that we again present to the farmers our brand so well known as

IMPERIAL,

Which was in competition the past season with almost every brand of phosphates known to this market, and by

has yet to find its superior.

We are also preparing a brand of Acid Phosphate, which being slightly ammoniated, is somewhat different from most in use, and which has given first rate results. We have given it the name of and are prepared to highly recommend it.

A Full Line of CHEMICALS in stock

For the manipulation of special formulas, or for sale separately.

A Largely Increased Business

Prompts us to request early orders, so as to insure the customary Fine Drilling condition of our goods.
