TWENTY YEARS.

Makes a great difference in most women. They are troubled with "nerves"—they suffer from backache, headache, sleeplessness, a sensation of irritability or twitching, hot flashes, dizzy spells, or many other symptoms of female weakness. The local disorder and inflammation should be treated with Dr. Pierce's Lotion Tablets and the irregularity and weakness of the female system corrected and strengthened with Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. The strain upon the young woman or the woman of middle age—upon the nerve and blood forming structures—may be too great for her strength. This is the time to take this restorative tonic and strength-giving nervine and regulator. For over forty years sold by druggists for woman's peculiar weaknesses and distressing ailments. The one remedy so perfect in composition and so good in curative effects as to warrant its makers in printing its every ingredient on its outside wrapper. The one remedy which absolutely contains neither alcohol nor injurious or habit-forming drugs.

MRS. SCOTT.

Following letter selected at random from a large number of similar ones and cited merely to illustrate these remarks:

"In the winter of 1908, I became greatly run down and irregular," writes MRS. HENRY SCOTT, of Swan Creek, Mich., Route 1, Box 49. "I slowly but surely grew worse, and, at last, resolved to apply to the doctors for help. The doctor said I had inflammation, enlargement and ulceration. I was in bed eleven weeks and got no better. The doctor said I would have to have an operation, but to that I would not listen. My husband purchased two bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. When I started to take this remedy I could not walk across the floor, but after I had taken three bottles I could feel myself gaining, so I dropped the doctor and took Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Only for it I think I would have been dead—I really believe it saved my life. I feel better now than in twenty years."

NEW PLAN URGED

Present System of Nominating Ticket Regarded As Open To Strong Objections—Convention May Be Last.

Events that have been happening at the Baltimore Convention and which took place at the Chicago convention of the Republicans, each of them the stormiest in years of the respective parties, have raised the question as to whether the convention system is the proper one for the selection of candidates for the Presidency of the United States.

The English papers have been criticising the system ever since the beginning of the Chicago convention. They point out that the President of the United States has more power vested in him and that he exercises more authority than the king or the president of any other nation, and they raise the question whether the selection of a man who wields such great power by a convention which performs its work in the midst of such turmoil and subject to such influences as prevail at American national conventions is not unwise, if not actually dangerous to the safety and integrity of American institutions.

The problem is also being widely discussed in American newspapers and there has been a general call for reform in the methods of making nominations. It is held that if there is any representative body which ought to be dedicated to deliberation it is a convention assembled to nominate candidates for President and Vice-President, and that the function is so vital that interference with its exercise ought not to be tolerated either from within or without. A general protest has arised against such demonstrations as have taken place in recent years at national conventions and that seemed to have reached the maximum at Baltimore. These demonstrations not only waste time but they detract the seriousness of the duty which is laid upon the delegates, and when delegates themselves take part in them they not only become wearied but excited and their prejudices are aroused to such a pitch that it is next to impossible for them to perform their work in the cold and dispassionate manner which ought to mark the selection of the man who may become the head of a great nation.

"Is it not time," asks the New York Sun, "to put an end to this madness and folly?"

The question was put to a number of the delegates to the convention yesterday and as a rule they replied that the time had arrived. The general opinion expressed was that there would have to be a change or another method of selecting candidates would have to be devised. That a change is coming is the opinion of ex-Gov. James E. Campbell, of Ohio. He is one of the most ardent of progressives and believes that the time is at hand when conventions will be made up entirely of delegates elected at Presidential primaries, and that these conventions will simply register the will of the people as expressed at the primaries.

That would rob conventions of practically all their attractiveness to the general public and there would be no more excitement in connection with them than now develops in connection with the meetings of the Electoral College, which gets only a few lines of space in the newspapers. The result being known in advance, there would be nothing in the meeting of the conventions to stir up the people and no reason for "demonstrations" such as those which are customary nowadays.

"This, in my judgement, will be the last convention of the kind that will be held," said Governor Campbell. Inside of two years there will be, or should be, a statue enactrd by Congress remodeling the system of national conventions and the selection of candidates. The delegates should be elected by Congressional districts in order to get the sectional expression of preference. The English law prescribing methods of nominations for Parliament would afford a good basis for study on the part of political reformers. With modifications it would do very well for our necessities."

WILSON AND HIS SALARY.

The State of New Jersey has a law which imposes a penalty of a "docking" of salary upon State officials who absent themselves from their post of duty. Governor Wilson, since he entered upon his active personal campaign for the Democratic nomination for President, has subjected himself very largely to the operations of this law, but does not seem to have really suffered by a reduction of his official compensation.

According to the official records, which were subjected to close examination this week, at the instance of one governor's polititial opponents, Governor Wilson kas been out of the State 14 times since the first of the present year, for which he forfeited, according to law, his salary to the extent of $1,200. The amount thus deducted from his salary goes to the President of the State Senate, who has been kind enough to endorse the salary checks which he received in this manner, and hand them to Governor Wilson, who also endorsed them and turned them into cash.

Governor Wilson began his Presidential campaign soon after his inauguration as governor, a year ago last January, and his salary "dockings" entitled the acting governor during that year to the extent of $1,841.30, the checks for which he also endorsed and turned back to the goverhor.

The salary of the governor of New Jersey is $10,000 per annum, or $27.50 a day. Thus far Governor Wilson has been "docked" to the extent of more than $3,000, which, however, he did not lose, owing to the gracious kindness of those to whom the "dockings" were paid in giving the money to him.

Sale of Real Estate.—The Trustee's sale on Saturday at Middletown, of real estate of the late Dan M. Cochran attracted a large crowd. The home farm, containing 120 acres and a large frame dwelling was knocked down to Mr. Jos. L. Rhoades for $92 per acre, making $10 920 00. The purchaser is in the sales department of the Thomas Manuf Co., of Springfield, Ohio, and will continue in that capacity, his brother, Wm. M. Rhoades, now living on the farm, now conducting it.

The second farm of 174 acres was sold to Joseph M. Armstrong for $82 per acre, aggregating $14,268 for the tract.

The third tract, containing 14 acres, was knocked down to Mr. Armstrong at $76 per acre, making $1,078 for the tract. The three farms were afterwards offered as a whole to anyone bidding more than $26,266, but there being no bidders the sales singular were confirmed.
