COLLINS & HOPPER,
EDITORS AND PUBLISHERS.

IN the case of State vs. Stevenson Archer, was commenced in the court of appeals, at Annapolis, on Tuesday last, by Charles G. Kerr and Wm. Pinkney Whyte, and Edgar H. Gans and Barnard Carter for the appellee. Governor Whyte did not conclude.

IT is claimed that in Baltimore city the arrests of drunken and disorderly citizens have decreased fully fifty per cent. since the adoption of High License. Philadelphia and other points where High License has been adopted report even more satisfactory results. Whether or not the system would have worked as satisfactorily in the country as in the city is questioned by many, and other sections like Kent were unwilling to try the experiment.

THE first professional game of Sunday base-ball ever played in Maryland, was played in Anne Arundel county, near Baltimore, on Sunday, a week ago. The experiment was tried again on last Sunday, and Captain Barnie, of the Baltimore club, was arrested and is at liberty under bail, awaiting trial. The game was witnessed by 8000 people. Answering for the moral sentiment of Kent we would say emphatically, that she deplores this barbarious introduction. It is a reproach upon the moral sentiment of the State to allow such a perversion of its moral and legal sense of right.

THE startling report that John K. Cowen had become reconciled and had sworn allegiance to the regular Democracy of the State, was one well calculated to cause a ripple of excitement in political circles. But that Mr. Hodges should make the prodigal on the very day of his return chairman of the State Democratic Central Committee was too absurd for credence. Mr. Cowen's political record has forever closed the door upon him for the responsible position of leader of the regular Democracy of the State. His relation to the Republican party three years ago, when he did its campaign work, mapped out its line of procedure and virtually named its nominees, and his constant warfare against the Democracy Maryland during the past ten years, would render his promotion to the chairmanship suicidal to party success.

THE ARCHER DEFALCATION.

THE report of the Legislative committee made to Governor Jackson in regard to the Archer defalcation, is an exhaustive document, and shows the total amount of the defalcation to be $132,401.25, which sum may possibly be modified to some extent by the redemption of the hypothecated bonds. The committee, not forgetful of the fact that its acts were those of a, to some extent, judicial body, couched its report in language of dignity and force, and while not flaming with indignation, no words are there in extenuation either of ex-Treasurer Archer's crime or the responsibility resting upon his associates in office or their predecessors. Had the statutory provisions in reference to the duties of the Governor and Comptroller of the State been carried out by the predecessors of Governor Jackson and Comptroller Baughman, and observed by the present incumbents of the respective positions, the extensive defalcations of Mr. Archer would have been rendered almost impossible. The report of the committee, while it shows the systematic robberies of the defaulting treasurer, shows culpable dereliction of duty on the part of Gov. Jackson and Mr. Baughman which it may be difficult to explain away. That the Governor had read the provision and had forgotten the authority with which it clothed him is to be regretted. Neither the members of the committee nor the people at large hold Mr. Archer's associates in office responsible for the more than $132,000 losses which the State has suffered further than is shown by the following from the report, which was signed by each member of the committee:

"It is due to your Excellency and the present comptroller to say that Mr. Archer's crime began before either of you were elected to office, and for its beginning, therefore, you are not in any way responsible. It is probable that on the 1st of January, 1888, he had abstracted nearly or quite $40,000 of treasury relief bonds, so that $85,000 to $90,000 of the defalcation has occurred within the last two years. The treasury relief bonds were about exhausted when the loan of August 2, 1888, was obtained by him from the Franklin Bank. The next loan is of the date of August 24, 1888, and the collaterals placed were Frederick city bonds, of which $77,000 had been purchased at that time. Sixty-six thousand dollars in bonds of all classes were abstracted after that date.

"The Governor's responsibility rests in section 18 of article 2 of the constitution, which provides that "it shall be the duty of the Governor semi-annually to examine under oath the treasurer and comptroller of the State on all matters pertaining to their respective offices, and inspect and review their bank and other account books;" and in section 9 of the same article, which provides that "he shall take care that the laws are faithfully executed." These provisions, in the judgment of the committee, clothe the Governor with ample power to ascertain at any time the actual condition not only of the accounts of the treasury officers, but of all the State's funds. If they do not they are meaningless. We are therefore constrained to say that if they had been observed with reasonable exactness the treasurer's crime must, in the nature of things, have been long since discovered, and much of the loss the State has sustained would have been avoided."

PRESIDENTIAL SPECULATIONS.

Harper's Weekly on Mr. Cleveland and the Democratic Party.

Harper's Weekly for this week has the following leading editorial on the democratic presidential and party situation:

"Speculating upon the chances of the presidential nomination in 1892, a Western journal thinks that the democratic division in New York will probably lead to the nomination of a candidate from some other State than New York, and mentions Mr. Gray, of Indiana. It would not be difficult to mention in every State some person whose nomination would be agreeable to his friends, and it is often true of the presidential nomination that the unforeseen happens. But it is by no means a rule. The renomination of Mr. Lincoln in 1864 and that of General Grant in 1872 were foregone conclusions; this was true in great part of the nomination of Mr. Blaine in 1884. There are two reasons why the nomination of Mr. Cleveland by the democrats is equally probable. The campaign of 1888 and the course of Congress at the present session have identified the republican party with the policy of high, and in some cases prohibitive protection. Whether the McKinly tariff be approved by the Senate and the President or not, and whether any congressional action upon the subject be taken or not, the chief question of the next election will be apparently that of the last. By universal consent, the especial representative of the democratic position upon the subject is Mr. Cleveland.

"But not only by his course in making the tariff the party issue of the campaign did he identify it with a national policy, and prevent the election of '88 from turning on the mere personal question of approval of his administration, but he did very much more than any democrat in the country had been able to do in dispelling the profound distrust with which his party was regarded. He was in honest sympathy with honest politics. His interest in political progress and in wise reform was evident; and, although his official course was often inconsistent with principles which he was believed to approve, it seems to be undeniable that his hold upon public confidence and upon the respect of his political opponents was much stronger at the end than at the beginning of his administration. This feeling has certainly not changed since he left the presidenhy. He is probably more popular to-day than he has ever been. Sympathy with the tariff views declared by the democratic party is by no means always strong enough to overcome the influence of what seems the almost insuperable power of its traditions, and its instinctive opposition, as a party, to political reform, and the personality of the candidate is therefore of very great importance.

"To set aside Mr. Cleveland as the democratic candidate in 1892 would be to proclaim the reactionary spirit in his party. It would be the announcement that the very qualities and views which commend him to the confidence of multitudes of patriotic and intelligent citizens who are not distinctly of his party are not approved by the party nor representives of its aims. Undoubtedly the 'regulation vote' of the party would be given to the candidate, whoever he might be. But he must be a democrat of a very sanguine disposition, or singularly ignorant of the deeper forces that influence elections, who supposes that the defeat, as a candidate, of the man who has been of more real service to his party than any other democrat of the last generation would either unite the party more closely or win more votes beyond the party lines. Nothing so certainly as the success of democratic opposition to Mr. Cleveland would revive the doubt and distrust which so long excluded it from power. It is true that our government is not one of men, but of laws; not of persons, but of parties. Undoubtedly also, as Senator Morton said in Philadelphia in 1872, when Mr. Sumner and Mr. Trumbull and other conspicuous republicans broke with the party, the party is greater than any man in it. But it is equally beyond doubt that men are accepted as representative of party convictions and tendencies, and that a party is estimated by its chosen candidates. If the republican party in 1860 had nominated Simon Cameron instead of Abraham Lincoln, it would have been a great party misfortune. Nothing could strengthen the democratic party in 1892 more than the nomination of the representative of its best spirit and purpose."

Eupepsy.

This is what you ought to have, in fact, you must have it, to fully enjoy life. Thousands are searching for it daily, and mourning because they find it not. Thousands upon thousands of dollars are spent annually by our people in the hope that they may attain this boon. And yet it may be had by all. We guarantee that Electric Bitters, if used according to directions, and the use persisted in, will bring you Good Digestion and oust the demon Dyspepsia and install instead Eupepsy. We recommend Electric Bitters for Dyspepsia and all diseases of the Liver, Stomach and Kidneys. Sold at 50c. and $1.00 per bottle by Colin F. Stam, Druggist.

PUBLIC LOCAL LAW.

Commissioners Authorized to Make Bridge Rules and Regulations.

CHAPTER 483.

AN ACT to authorize the County Commissioners of Queen Anne's County and the County Commissioners of Kent County, to make rules and regulations for the use, by the public, of the bridges belonging jointly to said counties.

SECTION 1. And be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That the County Commissioners of Queen Anne's County and the County Commissioners of Kent County a majority of each board of said Commissioners concurring, shall have full power and authority to make reasonable rules and regulations for the use, by the public, of all bridges which are the joint property of the said counties of Kent and Queen Anne's, and for the protection of said bridges and other property belonging thereto or therewith, and to enforce the observance of said rules and regulations thus made, by imposing upon the party violating such rules and regulations any reasonable fine, not exceeding ten dollars, for any violation of said rules and regulations, which fines shall be collected as small debts are now collected, and shall be recovered in the name of the Commissioners of said counties before any Justice of the Peace of either of the said counties in which the party violating such rules and regulations shall be found; and on failure or refusal to pay any fine imposed under this law, or inability to collect the same by legal process, the party so fined may be committed to the county jail of the county for a period not exceeding ten days, in the same manner as commitments are made for fines imposed by the Circuit Courts of this State, on conviction for misdemeanors; and the Justice of the Peace shall make this a part of his judgment, and said fines shall be applied to the keeping of said bridges in repair.

SECTION 2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect from the date of its passage.

Approved April 8th, 1890.

ELIHU E. JACKSON, Governor.

JOHN HUBNER, Speaker of House Delegates.
R. F. BRATTON, President of the Senate.

I HEREBY CERTIFY, that the foregoing is a correct copy of an Act of the General Assembly passed January Session, 1890.

PRIDE OF ENGLAND,
IMPORTED
Cleveland Bay Stallion
REGISTERED NO. 161.
is of a beautiful Cleveland Bay color, stands 16 hands 1½ inches, and will weigh thirteen hundred pounds in condition. He is stylish, fine action and perfectly quiet. In the combined qualities of action, beauty and endurence, he is acknowledged to stand unequaled as a stock horse for farm and carriage purposes. Has only served a few mares, but has proved sure with them. He comes down a long line of the best producers.
The American Farmers' Stock Book, in speaking of the most desirable strains of horses which have been the result of careful and scientific breeding, in coming to the Cleveland Bays, says: "We come next to a class of horses always held in the highest esteem for their many valuable qualities. It is a horse that is now bred to a degree of perfection that leaves little to be desired in all that goes to constitute size, style and ability to perform any labor that may be required, except the heaviest drudgery. The Cleveland Bays are good carriage horses, good and stout wagon or plow horses, and they match together about as easily as Devon cattle, combining as they do, plenty of staunch thorough blood with excellent size and constitutional vigor. Unfortunately they are rare in the United States, but since their introduction into the West, they have been steadily growing into favor. They are remarkable for their pure bay color, dashed only at the fetlocks and in the forehead with white. We have good authority for our admiration of this splendid animal. Canada has of late years become celebrated for finely-bred and finely-matched carriage horses, which is due to the sagacity of some Canadian breeders, in selecting Cleveland Bay Stallions for sires."
