THURSDAY, NOV. 27, 1890.

COLLINS & HOPPER,
EDITORS AND PUBLISHERS.

WITH THANKFUL HEARTS.

This is a day which to a greater degree than any other stamps itself as purely American. Originating in the grateful hearts of bleak New England, it has been borne to the most remote sections of a mighty nation. Were there no other reasons for Thanksgiving, the poorest American might well rejoice in that noble heritage of American citizenship. There are none so poor as to be without cause for Thanksgiving on this, one of the most sacred of our national holidays. There are some with whom the great worries and small perplexities of life, fall as the dew upon the flower, only to be kissed away by the morning sun, or fanned from the tender leaf by the first gentle breeze, with these the days all come as Thanksgiving days of rejoicing. The clouds pass by them without leaving a shadow, the great tear-fountains are quickly dried. Let such give thanks, for they are surely blest.

Others live lives of rebellion, and, forgetful of blessings received, smite the rock of their own consciousness and bid bitter drops of gall and wormwood flow. Why not rather be glad and rejoice that one has been given the strength to strike, the soul to endure, and a noble manhood to brave. Let the beggar, who begs his bread from street to street, be glad of the strength that admits the going; let those who weep, give thanks that theirs is not the leprous heart, that bereft of friends, must with wailings of despair sing its own funeral dirge in that awful word remorse. There is nothing so bad that it might not be worse, and there is no heart that should not render thanks for much of joy.

"Indeed it is even when the heart is sorest, grief the bitterest, loss the most extreme, that the giving of thanks brings a relief to the spirit like that of rain to the thirsty earth. To give thanks to Heaven that we have had the lost to love, that they are ours, since we love them still, and we cannot love what is not; to give thanks that they ever existed, that we knew them, and had to do with them, that we had pride and joy in them—to do this is to put ourselves into such close connection and conversation with the all-giving power as to receive a new joy almost as precious as the old; it is like the breaking of sacramental bread still with the beloved; it is sharing with Heaven still their possession; it is lifting the whole being to the spiritual plane where the beloved are; it is, without meaning it, without knowing it, saying, 'Thy will be done.'"

HORTICULTURAL NOTES.

Newsy Items from the Fruit Orchard.

Of all the autumn blooming plants none, can compare in beauty to the anemone. Its pure white blossoms appear at a time when white flowers are scarce. To the lover of flowers no plant affords more satisfaction or is easier of culture than the graceful anemone japonica.

It will no doubt be a surprise to many fruit-growers to learn that we pay to foreign fruit-growers more than twenty million of dollars annually for fruits and nuts we import. This does not agree with the statement that fruit-growing is becoming overdone in this country. This proves that there is room for more in the horticultural field on this side of the ocean.

In the township of Niagara, Canada, there are four thousand acres of land devoted to peach culture, or about one-fifth of all arable land in the township. So well adapted is this land to peach culture, and so little have the trees suffered with yellows that little else in the fruit line is planted. Almost every farm is devoted to the peach as the most profitable industry.

Col. Pearson, of New Jersey, says the success in treating grapes for black rot and mildew has been very complete this year. Those who sprayed their vines early and often with the Bordeux mixture have almost perfect crops of grapes. Unless this is done grape-growing is a failure in infected regions.

Potato rot can be prevented by spraying the vines two or three times with Bordeaux mixture. Those who think potato rot is not due to a fungus need not try it.

Western New York pear-growers prefer Dwarfs for clay land and Standards for gravelly soil. The veteran pomologist, Mr. Willard, recommends that Dwarfs be planted deep—the bud should be put three to four inches below the surface. The varieties as dwarfs are Dowell, Duchess and Anjou. Standards—Bartlett and Kieffer. Mr. W. C. Barry thinks the Kieffer is of no value in many places, while in some others it did well and sold well. X.

The Queen Pays All Expenses.

The Queen's last "Free Trip to Europe" having excited such universal interest, the publishers of that popular magazine offer another and $200 for expenses to the person sending them the largest list of English words constructed from letters contained in the three words "BRITISH NORTH AMERICA." Additional prizes, consisting of Silver Tea Sets, China Dinner Sets, Gold Watches, French Music Boxes, Portiere Curtains, Silk Dresses, Mantel Clocks and many other useful and valuable articles will also be awarded in order of merit. A special prize of a Seal Skin Jacket to the lady, and a handsome Shetland Pony to girl or boy (delivered free in Canada or United States) sending the largest lists. Every one sending a list of not less than twenty works will receive a present. Send six U. S. 2c. stamps for complete rules, illustrated catalogues of prizes, and sample number of The Queen. Address THE CANADIAN QUEEN, Toronto, Canada.

Deafness Can't be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When the tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out, and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that we cannot cure by taking Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION.

A Most Beneficial Interchange of Thought on Educational Matters.

The second meeting of the association was held last Friday, Nov. 21, and with the usual good attendance of teachers, there being but two absent, and one of these absentees was known to be sick. At present there are 56 teachers in the county, which is a few less than the previous schoolastic year, owing to some of the schools being closed on account of a smaller average attendance than the school law requires, and also because some assistants were dropped in schools that the attendance had fallen off. Prof. E. B. Prettyman, recently elected principal of the Maryland State Normal School and State Superintendent of Public Institutions was present, having come from Baltimore on Thursday, and being early at the association many of the teachers were enabled to become personally acquainted with him. He seemed to make a good impression on the teachers by his genial disposition and affable manners, as well as the pleasant and earnest manner in which he talked to the teachers. Though his hair and mustache are almost white, he evidently yet possesses vigor of both mind and body, and to some of the teachers he privately asserted that he was still a young man in feelings.

Dr. Reed and Prof. Proctor, of Washington College, were also present and participated in the discussion.

The literary committee, Mr. Topping, chairman, submitted the following questions for discussion at the next meeting, which, on motion by Mr. Crosby, were adopted by the association:

1st. What is the proper way to teach Geography to each of the different grades?

2d. What is the Educational value of the studies, as pursued in our schools?

These questions were written on the black-board and each teacher was requested to copy them that ample time to think about them would be had by the date of the next meeting. The association then began the discussion of the question, "What should be the amount of Arithmetic and History learned in the first year of the Sixth grade?" The general opinion seemed to be that arithmetic as far as percentage, that is to the end of compound and Distributive, was as much ground as could be covered by the average pupil and have sometime for Review. There were a few who got beyond Proportion. There seemed to be universal praise for the new History of the U. S., and in such a fascinating way had the matter contained in the history been written that some of the teachers's classes had made unprecedented progress. One chapter for a lesson was given by some, and there seemed to be no difficulty in pupils memorizing and understanding a lesson consisting of one chapter. If all subjects of study were treated so fascinatingly and children could be induced to study them as they study history, the road to learning would be a royal one. However, there were more teachers who did not get on so fast, and the general opinion was that one-half of the new history was enough for the sixth grade in the first year and, this was the opinion of the examiner.

The first regular question, "How and to what extent should we teach Physical Culture in our schools?" was a subject of much interest, and a subject of some diversity of opinion. All who participated in the discussion, were of the opinion that Physical Culture deserved all the attention given to it by teachers, that the development of the physique was a factor in the development of the mind, and different plans were given whereby children should be benefited by Physical Culture. A number of teachers advocated a daily exercise of calisthenics; some, breathing exercises which were regulated by counting. Miss Hackett very kindly showed the teachers how "breathing exercises" were conducted when she was a student of the Normal School. Out-door exercise was recommended, any kind of play or game in which the muscles were brought into action. It was remarked that boys in country schools were generally stoop-shouldered, due, as some thought, to engaging in kinds of work that required a stooping posture. Dr. Reid, among other things, recommended running both for boys and girls as a means of developing the capacity of the lungs, and suggested a race track on school-grounds that were large enough to admit something of the kind. Prof. Prettyman gave quite an interesting talk on Physical Culture, during which he explained the reason for making a change in the system of teaching Physical Culture at the Normal School. After much research and careful investigation of the different systems in vogue, he adopted the Swedish system of Physical Culture which has been in vogue for 100 years. He recommended to the teachers a book on the subject, by Baron Nils Posse, called ——————, the retail price being $2.00. He stated that since the introduction of the system the young ladies of the Normal School had voluntarily adopted the "equipoie waist" as part of their dress, it allowing the greatest freedom in the bending of the body in the movement exercises. At the conclusion of Prof. Prettyman's address the roll was called, and a recess was taken until one o'clock. After re-assembling, Mr. Crosby made the motion that in future meetings, when the Association adjourns for an afternoon session, the time of adjournment shall be for one hour. After some discussion by Messrs. Starkey and Long, the motion was carried. Miss Nellie Walters read the essay, "The Teacher as a Factor in Character-Building," which proved to be so interesting as to engage the attention of the entire audience. The president announced Miss Carrie Smyth as the essayist for the next meeting.

Under Questions and Answers it was asked about dividing a large class into two or three divisions, and the prevailing opinion was opposed to division. A question was asked about teaching certain parts of English literature.

The second regular question was called up for discussion, and reads as follows: What recitations or exercises in which the whole school, or the greater part of it, may engage? How should they be conducted? Those who talked on this question had general exercises and recitations usually on Friday afternoon, among which were mentioned sewing, drawing, spelling matches, rapid combination of numbers, addition, quotations, singing, composition and letter-writing, problems in arithmetic, exercises in dictation and punctuation, search questions and exercises in which a majority of the children could take a part.

Reports of presidents and secretaries of the Reading Circles which had been organized were called for, and Reading Circles were reported in all the districts except the second. Prof. Prettyman commended the Reading Circle to the teachers as affording an opportunity for improvement in their vocation, and he hoped each one would stand by the movement. He advised each teacher to read a school journal, and especially urged them to establish libraries.

After some remarks from the examiner, in which he explained the School Board's opposition to appropriating money towards establishing libraries, the association was declared adjourned.

Epoch.

The transition from long, lingering and painful sickness to robust health, marks an epoch in the life of the individual. Such a remarkable event is treasured in the memory and the agency whereby the good health has been attained is gratefully blessed. Hence it is that so much praise is heard of Electric Bitters. So many feel that they owe their restoration to health, to the use of the Great Alternative and Tonic. If you are troubled with any disease of Kidney, Liver, or Stomache, of long or short standing you will surely find relief by use of Electric Bitters. Sold at 50c. and $1 per bottle at Colin F. Stam's Drug store.

HARPER'S WEEKLY.

Illustrated.

Harper's Weekly has never failed to justify its title as a "Journal of Civilization," and it has done so with a constant regard to enlarged possibilities of usefulness and a higher standard of artistic and literary excellence. It leaves untouched no important phase of the world's progress, and presents a record, equally trustworthy and interesting, of the notable events, persons and achievements of our time.

Special Supplements will be continued in 1891. They will be literary, scientific, artistic, historical, critical, topographical, or descriptive, as occasion may demand, and will continue to deserve the hearty commendation which has been bestowed on past issues by the press and the public. As a family journal, Harper's Weekly will, as heretofore, be edited with a strict regard for the qualities that make it a safe and welcome visitor to every home.
